Bill How about having the amp inline. Is that evidance enough. If any one in this Ng tells you they have amps on the shelf and not inline I highly doubt that statement. These guys have em and they use em. But we can all act like they don't. wink : wink:

Careful, zees. Keyclowns are quick to point out that it is legal to own an amp. This fact is somehow supposed to justify participating in keydowns and selling/operating noname and davemade amps on cb.

IMO, I think many outlaw cbers got tech ham licenses with the intention of upgrading to HF privileges and a general ticket, but when they found out (a) it takes some real effort, and (b) most hams obey the rules and are therefore "squares", they gave up and went back to cb.

"Nice Jewish Girl From Brooklyn"

Woman's bail cut in half in dog case
Knoller no more risk than Noel, judge says

Jaxon Van Derbeken, Chronicle Staff Writer Saturday, September 1, 2001

San Francisco -- In a surprise move, a San Francisco judge cut bail in half yesterday for a woman facing second-degree murder charges in the dog-mauling death of her neighbor.

Superior Court Judge James Warren reduced Marjorie Knoller's bail to $1 million from the $2 million originally set when she was jailed in March along with her husband, Robert Noel.

Warren said that while Knoller may be facing more serious charges than Noel -- who is still being held on $1 million bond on manslaughter charges -- she is no more of a risk to jump bail.

The ruling followed a daylong, often heated hearing in which prosecutors argued that the accused couple had strong ties to the "vile, vicious, murderous" Aryan Brotherhood prison gang. Warren kept details of prosecutors' accusations secret to avoid adding to pretrial publicity surrounding the case.

In arguing against cutting Knoller's bail, the prosecution also said that the couple are flight risks and that Knoller had done nothing to help Diane Whipple as she lay dying in her Pacific Heights apartment building after the dog attack.

The defense countered that the prosecution was "cruel" for suggesting that Knoller let Whipple die after the Jan. 26 attack by the Presa Canario dog that Noel and Knoller had been keeping.

The defense stressed that both defendants had an unblemished reputation and strong ties to the community. Far from letting Whipple die, they said, Knoller had acted heroically.

In the end, Warren acknowledged prosecution arguments about the risks involved but ordered the bail reduced based on his theory of equal flight risk.

Prosecutors had no comment on the ruling, citing Warren's gag order in the case. But a private attorney suing the couple for wrongful death was puzzled by the decision.

"It doesn't make sense. . . . I don't understand it," said Michael Cardoza, who along with his client, Sharon Smith, attended the first part of the hearing.

It is unclear whether Knoller can raise even the reduced bail sum.

"I hope so," said Knoller's attorney, Nedra Ruiz, who added that she disagreed with the judge and said that bail of $1 million is "unnecessary" because of no flight risk.

"She's stunned; she feels she deserves release on her own recognizance," Ruiz said about her client's reaction.

At the hearing, Ruiz described Knoller as a "nice Jewish girl from Brooklyn" with ties to the community and no criminal record.

"There's nothing in this evidence to show she was anything but brave in the face of a tragedy that would strike most people speechless, that might dement a person," Ruiz told Warren.

Later she said Knoller "put her body on (Whipple) to protect her from this crazed, damned dog."

Prosecutor James Hammer bristled at the suggestion that Knoller valiantly fought to protect Whipple's life.

"If Marjorie Knoller's such a hero, why didn't she give first aid to Diane Whipple while she was dying?" Hammer said. "If Marjorie Knoller's such a hero, why didn't she call 911? And if Marjorie Knoller's such a hero, why did she go on national television and blame Diane Whipple for her own death?"

When he again stressed Knoller's failure to help Whipple, Knoller shouted, "I did too, you son of a bitch!" That brought a threat from the judge to remove her from court.

Much of the testimony in the hearing concerned the alleged ties the accused may have to the Aryan Brotherhood, in part through a Pelican Bay State Prison inmate they adopted.

The judge appeared to agree with the prosecution that there was cause for concern, saying, "The court does find that Aryan Brotherhood is a danger, that people are in danger and that witnesses in this case are in danger. . . . The Aryan Brotherhood is potentially a resource of some value to the defense."

He also noted prosecutors' argument on the couple's alleged flight risk. Prosecutors pointed out that the couple drove at high speeds while being followed by police after testifying before a grand jury that would later indict them.

That was not enough, however, for Warren to order Knoller's bail kept at $2 million.

something they believe and still maintain dignity, integrity, and respect for themself and others. Some points I would like your input on, you will find below

long text snipped<<

"I don't tend to agree with that in it's entirety. I believe domestic money plays a much larger part than any concern over international harmony."

While domestic interests DO wave money at Congress and FCC, their efforts are mostly directed at the areas from 500+ MHZ. Their interests are in cell tech, microwave, and satellite comms. Nonetheless, we as a country have signed treaties that govern, especially, long-haul comms--those that can adversely affect all nations' use of the spectrum.
For example, the Amateur community is having to fight tooth and nail to ward off the industry "sharks"
that seek to take a bit out of our "GHZ" allocations.

"You got that right. And from what looms on the horizon, it appears it is only going to worsen from the amateur's perspective."

"There is no industry clam-oring to take over 27 MHZ. But, again, comms on that band adversely affect other ITU signatories if used improperly.

"Ahhh, yes, in one manner I agree, but just what is "improper?" As you are aware, not all consider "illegal" and "improper" as interchangeable words meaning the same thing."

give away the "real" agenda of many CB operators, especially those who operate in defiance of FCC regulations. That agenda is, if the truth is known, the abolishment of any and all regulations that "restrict" the operations of those who feel that the parameters granted to the CB service should be extended to no regulation at all. It is also a narrow view, that, when extensively examined, would actually hamper, not only the other users of radio, but the same CBers who would want to be able to operate anyway, anyhow, anywhere they want.

"I don't believe most cbers have an underlying secret agenda toward ANYTHING. For the most part, I feel cbers and hammies alike are an apathetic crowd when compared to any other collective organization of fans/hobbiests. Sure, winds of change may occur, but the cry has been wolf so long, no one pays it any mind."

I don't know how else to approach this, and it isn't to make anybody mad. The attitude of what we will call "militant" CBers, for lack of a better term, is best examined thru their actions. What they DO speaks more loudly than any words, spoken or non-spoken. Let's not rehash that pore old dead horse anymore. Suffice it to say that the law says one thing, the "militant CBer" defies it. The law says another thing, the "militantCBer" ignores it. Another law is on the books restricting still another thing, the "militant CBer" thumbs his nose at that as well. You are, indeed, correct, that the regulations err on the side of caution. For example, that is one of the reasons one isn't supposed to operate on the frequencies "between" CB channels; it was to serve as a "guard" channel to minimize interference. Same in the so-called "freeband". Yes, some of them are "empty". These are guard channels as well.

"That is the best argument I have heard or read against freebanding to date.
Redundant -free."

Now, by operating outside the regulations, the "militant" CBer says he will do as he pleases, where he pleases, and how he pleases, and to
"I would agree with this statement as well, but I must first ascertain that I do not consider the majority of freebanders as militants. I believe MOST freebanders are polite and concerned with the integrity of their station (not rules) and have no desire to cause any intentional interference, harm, or malice."
Hell with the other users of the spectrum. Does this not say loudly that I am more important than anyone else? Does this not say that IF I am not free by law to do this that I will TAKE that spectrum for myself, because I think I should be allowed to do as I please, or turn up an amp to a gadzillion watts and jam every one else, or splatter--in or out of the 40 channels.

"This happens on the legal 40 daily, and I would also venture to say that most on the "in-betweens" have no desire to rule the roost. Most want contacts on SSB and no more. Most freebanders do not fit the oft repeated label and stereotypes of "cb militants" that is spread by negative propagandists."

There are legal and illegal CBers (legal and illegal hams, BTW), and could we not draw from this that there are folks who are willing to abide by the law---and maybe have a little appreciation of WHY those rules exist?

"You're doing a hell of a job defending those rules. Concise, direct, on topic, and approached in a logical manner. Great job, although some have already taken issue with your approach because your refusal to get dirty. Look at the reply one of the pound pups directed toward you."

to the chagrin of certain hammies, even to the point where some of know that no amount of bitching about laws is going to make our identical radio setup you may have in your home bleed anymore on 11 meters than yours will on 10 with the same power.

That would go back to, for one thing, the power and radio type. The laws were set for 4 watts. This was agreed upon because, at the time of CB's in- ception, much negotiation had to be done to get a CB service approved. When a CBer has a 100 watt radio, then he can, of course, "git out" better. BUT then he can also be heard by Joe CBER out in Omaha who might NOT want to hear him because he is trying to talk to his wife on the way home from work. I hate to be sitting at a light and have my rear view mirror VIBRATING to some kid's BIG stereo amp going BOOM BOOM BOOM.

"Me, too. BUT, ya' know, certain big azzed (sic) dirty (but talkin') mobile amps cut that "Boom Boom" right out unless the driver is listening to a CD or tape...hehehe!"

CB could be, and often is a useful tool, but the big radios and big power amps ruin it for those who want it for a cheap way of keeping in touch. Even 4 watts "skips", but it isn't nearly as intrusive.

"I understand and acknowledge the point you are making. My point, however, was not about amps. Power levels notwithstanding, I stand by my statement that if one is running a ham transceiver correctly, the bleed or interference on 11 is no worse than what is found on 10. Going by what the lessers are attempting to propagandize here, the response is a knee jerk whine of "it's illegal", and they have no clue what they are even talking of when it comes to real world instances of serious interference problems."

ese new nocode techs don't give a damn about radio knowledge, they are just waiting for the code to be dropped altogether so they can go wherever they want with minimal effort. They want the same parameters that the "higher" hammies have but don't want to work for it or educate themselves to attain it. This attitude is detrimental to the hobby and is a hindrance to those working to better it. These are probably the same ones that come down to the cb channels and raise hell and start BS. Of course I don't believe that, Jerry, (except for the part of negativity reflecting poorly on both services) but the illustration shows the pendulum can swing both ways."

I can agree with that.

"Most can. But did you see the way this post made those lessers so vocal over the weekend? I am continually amazed at the importance this small contingency of problematic nocodees place on my opinion, to the point of bribes, blackmail, harassment, forges, and now..heheh..telling the group that a "truce" will never occur as long as I continue to voice my opinions..ahhh, the power of the written word."

It is the (almost) same thing. It is more a reflection of a "gimme" society than just radio. We all seem to want everything with almost no effort. Those of us who got into Amateur prior to the 90s just looked at it and said, "(sigh), OK, this is what I have to do to earn the privilege", so we studied and fussed over the Code, went and took tests, failed, perhaps a few times, and went back/took it again until we passed. I took the Advanced test 3(?) times before I got it. That thing was HARD for me. I also do not believe in coming to 11 meters and hassling people. I USE 11 meters--a lot on the highway. I don't care for beeps, squeaks, and farts, or filthy language, so I just say what I want in plain language and hush. That's the military training in me! LOL!
I DO believe, however, that Amateur Radio offers so much more than 11 meters. It offers boo-koos of bands/freqs, a myriad of activities that can expand one's hobby into things ya never thought you'd be interested in! Heck,
I did the code just because I HAD to to even GET a license. Danged if I didn't get hooked on it--just bought me a new keyer at Shelby. I'd a-never thought!
Yes, ham radio has its share of geeks, freaks, and curmudgeons. So does CB. The CB curmudgeons are the "Channel Masters" who won't let you talk on "his" channel. It does go both ways. It's just that when I run to 'em on ham, I can just slide off to another freq or band--or go out to the shop and build an antenna or repair something. Best to ya, TW, Jerry

"Understood completely. I don't go to hammie frequencies and hassle them, although I very easily could, and would probably get away with it until the cows came home. It could also be argued that justification is in the form of the identical self rationalization and mindsets displayed by our tiny contingency of disturbed and self loathing followers we appear to have garnered, but that would lower us to levels I have no desire in exploring, let alone interest. There are more important things in life. Great post Jerry. Informative, and as I said, the channel guard argument goes way further than the anything our acolytes who continue to amuse us by believing they are anonymous have ever said, under any name. As the song goes, "We go 'round in circles... "

TW,

I had always wondered what that "pretty red panties, etc, etc.", was. I'd
it quoted in here before, just didn't know what it meant.

You reply directly to my posts, your post regarding me are harrassing and intimidating by nature, I have no choice but to read them I have a count of over 68 replies in past month to me where you are not even in the thread you just reply to my post with harrassing comments posting my names and being a general nuisance chasing my every post using my nic that is harrasment. You can block/filter me very easy block my domain, no matter which name I use you won't see any of them

Well Landshark are you kilowattkid? no then you forged your headers, against isp rules, I have the name kilowattkid@home i change the domain name for email spam reasons, but you purpously forged a post trying to make people think you were me, again clearly a violation, Ill dig em up. Bullshit It is not illegal to use a CB amp it is illegal to transmit on the 11 meter band using a so called CB amp. I can use an amp all day long as soon as I hook it up to an antenna and transmit on 11 meters it becomes illegal. Anyone can use one into a dummy load or other test equipment. There is nothing wrong with trying to develop an amp that does not splatter and cause interference. The day that happens and it is summited to the FCC for approval the laws will change. Oh one more thing that day is very close. Hummmmm think about it an FCC approved 11 meter amp. What will Aaron have to cry about then?

Here we have the FCC rules interpreted by a person who profits from the sale of NONAME AMPS. How many think he is credible?

"Verses your credibility? No comparison, he wins hands down."

How do you figure the laws will suddenly change if you come up with a clean "box' designed for 11 meters? The only way you could get it approved would be to "disguise" it as a ham amp, which is dishonest. Dishonesty also comes into play when you encourage CBers to acquire amps only for "testing"

"We don't all surround ourselves with the type you are accustomed to slumming with."

Say all you want about me, call me names, scream and pout

"One can make the observation you derive a certain excitement from that type response. Freud has a theory. May be worth checking."

But you guys break the law and are dishonest as hell - which makes you either criminals or politicians.

Why don't you admit to what context you gleaned this quote from? It was used in an episode of THE SOPRANOS that aired Sunday night. In the story, Tony (a NJ mob boss) struggles with whether to tell the truth to his family or continue the ruse of being "a legitimate businessman". What other test equipment can you transmit into? antennas?

The day of Noname getting busted is also very close, your noname splatter box will never be clean it runs class C, nuckle head, and are made by a hack. Beside there are already clean amps that are made and they arent getting approved on the 11 meter band they are called amateur amps. Is this NoNames goal to make an amp that doesnt splatter, then why isn't he testing them into dummy loads instead of polluting the RF spectrum.
Stickman that's that guy Chris Myers the Owner of NoName. Perhaps we can get a photo of him and the crew at Wash Dc ... Since he is the guy who will be making this splatter free amp Right.

Hi all,

I need a replacement internal speaker for a President HR-2510 and a Teaberry stalker IX (9 for those who don't do roman numerals) export.
Can't remember the rating on the President speaker. That Stalker IX speaker is a 16 ohm 3 watt speaker that appears to be 2 1/2" or so from screw hole to screw hole. I think the one for a HR-2510 is the same size
but I can't remember if it's 8 or 16 ohm... both are 3watt. Any help tracking down good used ones or a source for new replacements are

Well Mr.131 there are many new people coming on the board daily, if they were to read the majority of post they would get the idea that amps are legal on Cb, modifiying your radio is ok, and cursing and mauling people is normal. This is why the rules need to be posted on occasion. This is just my opinion of course.

They don't have anything listed in their catalog that's close enough to what

Oh....I don't recall. Is this one of your challenges?

It's funny but at times like this you actually puzzle me. Your observation about the Hawthorne quote seems to indicate that you DO perceive the essential illegality of the keyclowns along with their subsequent denial and the psychological transformation they must be undergoing as a result. How can anyone who grasps these subtleties come out with such dopey, jockstrap-sniff-induced, misdirected, plain, flat-out LOONY diatribes on such a regular basis? Like I said, it puzzles me.

>>PS> What did you think of "Band Of Brothers"?

Good moviemaking. Ambrose can be sentimental, but he's not as bad as Tom Brokaw.

Bringing the discussion back around to radio....someone (Dick?) mentioned that Rommel's tankers used 27 mHz for battle comms, which were subsequently heard loud and clear during skip conditions by stateside monitoring stations.

Also of interest is that the Army's WWII walkie talkie (PRC-something) operated on 75 meter AM. I actually saw one in a display case at a museum in Normandy along with its FT-243 crystals - clearly marked "3885 Kc".

Finally, I wish to pose a theoretical question. As you know, amateur comms were shut down during WWII for the duration for obvious reasons. Given similar circumstances today (although hardly imaginable) would you "freebanders" continue to operate, or would you cease transmissions?

Put any 8 ohm speaker in there that will fit your needs, then put a 8 ohm resistor in series with one of the leads. It will work fine.

I figured on doing that... except I still can't find a source for a speaker that'll fit. I've tried Mouser, Digikey, and Newark so far. Digikey had one that was the right dimensions except for the magnet. Mine has an alnico plug magnet that's around 20MM across and theirs is a ceramic ring magnet that somewhere around 40mm. I'm afraid that it won't fit.
Any other ideas?

That's nice. I think the type of ham you (and others) are referring to "talk down" toward (as opposed to "to") CBers. I think most who know me here..."know me." Take it easy.

73 de Bert
SSB-411D (My current 11-Meter Network call)
ex-KEC-1553 (FCC CB license call circa 1976)
"xxxxx xxx" (My AM "handle circa 1977. Although I only used it for about eight months...this one's classified. Good grief!
"411, LI, NY" (My 11-meter numbers from 1986 through 1992 +/- on SSB/channels...er, never mind.)
...and oh yeah, KC2HMN (My current AR callsign. Hopefully soon to be KC2HMN/AE.)

Take your pick, they're all me.

I dont post too often unless I see one of you wanna be "Radio Cops" out there running off at the mouth. And you dont have to be too technical to read ya'lls bullshit.
I mainly read this NG for laughs and ya'll Keystone Cops give me plenty to laugh about. There are only a few people that post on this newsgroup that benefits anyone and you are certainly not one of them. Only thing I have seen from you is how far you can stick your head up Goobers ass and thats about it......Always saying....."Aaron that sounds about right as always" Thats a crying shame to brown nose on a NG especially to a guy that dont know jack shit to begin with. Bert, Kenneth and a few others on here know what there are talking about so do me a favor? Get a clue!!!!

I'm sorry I have to disagree with you old boy.
Please post the data where there are many newbies on here everyday.
Please show your data that the majority of post show illegal activity. Case in point: 100 post this evening, a majority would be anywhere form, 30 to 40%. I didn't see 30 to 40 posts promoting illegal activities.
I did find a lot of harassing, accusatory, whining style posts, but not to many with how to applications on illegal mods.

This is just my opinion too though,

Newsgroups
Messages posted to newsgroups must comply with the written charters or FAQs for those newsgroups. Advertisements, solicitations, or other commercial messages should be posted only in those newsgroups whose charters or FAQs explicitly permit them. You are responsible for determining the policies of a given newsgroup before posting to it.
Posting or cross-posting the same or substantially similar messages to more than eight newsgroups is prohibited. Our news software will automatically cancel any messages posted to nine or more newsgroups.
Binary files may not be posted to newsgroups not specifically named for that purpose. Users posting binary files to groups with policies concerning the permissible daily volume of posted files are required to observe those limitations.

Now pay attention here old chap,

Forging, altering or removing header information is prohibited. This includes attempting to circumvent the approval process for posting to a moderated newsgroup.
the @Home network reserves the right to discontinue access to any Usenet newsgroup at any time for any reason.
You may not attempt to "flood" or disrupt Usenet newsgroups. Disruption is defined as posting a large number of messages to a newsgroup which contain no substantive content, to the extent that normal discussion in the group is significantly hindered. Examples of disruptive activities include, but are not limited to, posting multiple messages with no text in the body, or posting many follow-ups to messages with no new text. Messages may not be canceled, except by the author or by official newsgroup moderators performing their duties.
The Usenet news service included with an @Home residential service account is provided for interactive use by the subscriber, using a commonly-available NNTP client such as Netscape Communicator.
Non-interactive clients which download Usenet articles in bulk are prohibited.

Because I post a repsonse to what you say, you did not start the post, but I post a response, that's harassment?
Old boy, please, seek some counsling for that paranoia.
I have not threatened you, I have not e-mailed you direct, I have not phoned you, drove by your house, but when I respond to your posts, you take it as a personal attack, gee, I didn't when you were doing the same to me.

Ahhh that's a very good question, I'll answer that:
I can block a domain with Explorer, but then I would be blocking anyone with an @home account. On the contrary, I do not change my screen nic (a few times to prove a point to you) so it will always come from s3buell@sbcglobal.net so you can filter just me out. So I purpose that YOU filter me, as I will not filter an entire ISP just to rid you.

I have many amps, but still haven't found the place or time to put up an antenna. I still don't have a mobile either, so your statement has no facts or merit, just like most of what you three spout off.

Doc is correct except in the case of an emergency. That is when an HAM may use their ham gear to make contact on any frequency necessary to rectify the situation. But for the CBer to use ham gear for frequent and recreational chatter in the 11m band, regardless if he holds a FCC liscense, he is operating illegally. Cut and dried.

Thats your problem then isn't it, if the amp is inline it is getting used, only a fool such as yourself would think otherwise. the fact that you arent even operating shows how stupid you make yourself sound, when you do put up your antenna, bet your damn bippy the amps will be hooked up. You lie the rest will swear to it. You know the facts and it would hurt you to admit it. Jump Landshark Jump, I post you say How High.

GE is no help they don't even have the radio or parts on file. They used those clock switches in dozens of clock radio's and other electronic items. They can't even be bothered cross referencing the catalog # to find the part #. I guess I am out of luck. Thenks anyway, Ebay turned out to be a bust.

I used the name and then cancelled it just like 3-500zees, and many others they allow 7 in case you wanted to know, poof it is gone a few keystrokes at the time you forged me I was kilowattkid@home.comm it's on record, and the fact remains you forged your headers.

Certainly, even if there is no other evidence of usage. But that is not "possession".

On the other hand, I doubt if the FCC makes a practice of making random inspections of either Ham or CB stations. They only inspect when they have reasonable cause to assume that illegal operation is occurring.

I think that the US and UK rules each have good and bad points.
While we can use FM, 80 channels, dual band sets, and DX where we like - I would love to be allowed SSB and beam antennas.
We still may get these things, UK CBers are listened to, and many changes have already taken place.

IT is true that UK CBers are much more tolerant of illegal use.
Let's face it, if you worry about everything that everyone else is using, you are not enjoying your hobby. You end up wasting your life trying to clean up something you never get the time to use.

This group may have much more flaming than the UK group, but there are many good people on this group. It is worth putting up with the idiots and flaming, as the good far outweighs the bad.
The trolls are few, they just make more noise. If I feel sure that someone is just on here to disrupt and start flame wars, then they join the spammers in my blocked senders list.

Brainbuster.

The UK CBers have never worried too much about antenna rules.
The reason for this is probably because the early antenna rules caused many TVI problems, and the best way to cure this was to use an illegal antenna, at an illegal height. Also, as most CB antennas were designed for the US, antennas that were legal in the UK were hard to find.

Think first of a tuning fork. Think next of the material of which a

Thanks Bryan,

I was just having a little fun with an AKCer re. the word "criminal." You are, of course, correct that operating non type-certified equipment on CB frequencies is a violation of FCC rules and regulations. The violation of which is not a felony, hence not criminal. Does anybody know if there is any communication net setup to deal with the terrorist attack this morning?

Here in Detroit the tunnel under the river, and the Bluewater bridge over the river, both connecting to Windsor Canada is now closed down. So is Detroit Metro airport. The only tall building we have is the Renascence Center, which has been closed as well.

there are people standing by on 27.580 usb to deal with any emergency traffic as needed. i doubt there will be much because of the small area affected but there will be people around just in case.

Tim,

Thanks for the info. I just got word that the bridge is open but everybody is being checked VERY carefully. I typed the bridge name wrong in the last post, it should have been the Ambassador Bridge. Most of the auto companies have shut down here as well. The one thing that has been done is the entire Dearborn school system has been shut down. Dearborn is an eastern suburb of Detroit, and is the home to the world's largest Arab population, about 250,000, outside of the middle east. The people there are very much afraid of reprisal attacks against innocent people. I can't blame them one bit right now.

I am here in Northern Virginia near DC and heard ARES or RACES for Maryland activated on one repeater. I also received two messages from Virginia ARES/RACES so I do believe that some kind of thing has been setup. The email also detailed a 40m HF freq which I don't have by me right now.

I live in Fairfax county and the county PD channels that I can still listen to went over to digital so I would imagine that any non-ham communications will be digital/encrypted.

Just my 2 cents.....

Barry the 767 was the one at the world trade Center. I have just returned Newark after seeing the World Trade center fall before my eyes after the initial attack. I was on the Jersey side next to the Newark Airport, across the bay from Ny. Traffic was gridlocked in and out of the city.

Leland all our cell phone communications in that area were knocked out I am told the antenna were on the trade center. that was my first indication of trouble. The NJ State Police uses what they call SPEN (state police emergency network) which ties them in with all local law enforcement who participate. I will see what is available.

Hey Train,

We can actually see the smoke all the way out in LI. I went out for a while, and every available P.O., paramedic, and firefighter that the locals can spare are being sent to the outer boroughs to relieve the city resources sent into Manhattan.

SB SPCL ARL ARLX009
ARLX009 FCC, federal agencies shut down after terrorist attacks

Kenneth Goetz,
N2SQW, reports New York State RACES is operational on 3.993.5 and 7.248 MHz handling emergency and governmental-type traffic. He asked amateurs to avoid these frequencies.
While no emergency nets are in operation yet, Gregory said all repeaters would be available as well as 7.243 MHz and 3.947 MHz on HF.
Should a state of war be declared, Amateur Radio would not automatically be shut down. This requirement was eliminated prior to the Gulf War.

Be careful. That's what most people thought when the federal building in Oklahoma was destroyed. Later it turned out it was one of our own home-grown nut cases that did the dirty deed.

The main HF frequency is on 20M at 14.300 MHz. There is some Red Cross traffic up the band a bit. Also there is supposed to be RACES on 80M at 3993.5 KHz, and on 40M at 7248 KHz per a ARRL news bulletin sent by E-mail. I have monitored those two frequencies, but I don't hear any activity.

Watch yourself! The last I heard over 200 fire, police etc. personnel are missing when the two towers collapsed. I would hate for you to end up that way.

I hope Bush has been reviewing those nuke release codes. I think the time has come to show some dirty buggers what "Terrorism" really is when there is no place to hide from our bomb. Enough is enough, press that big red button and lets see if it really works!

People think it's that rich Arab terrorist. I don't think it is. My money is on Iraq. They have access to trained pilots, both military and civilian, who could have flown those jets easy. Given their past ability to get material for their military programs secretly, planing the kind of attack we saw today would not be beyond them.

Iraq also has a bone to pick with Bush, the older one, over the Gulf War. That would explain the attack on the Pentagon, and the apparent attempt to crash a jet on Camp David. That would please the Iraqi leadership to no end if they could kill the son, now our current president, of the former US president whose military still occupies Iraqi soil and beat the crap out of the Iraqi army.

I know some of those people that are missing too :/ As I said in a post on another thread, our Red Cross chapter is now manned 24 hours a day handeling emergency message traffic for Family Welfare Inquirey, and Armed Forces Emergency Services, we are also hosting emergency blood drives to augment the blood supplies needed for this tragic situation. I encourage all of you in the US, to support the local blood drives, the people who were injured, many have serious injuries that will require many operations.

To those of you who are in the military, have been in the military, or have relatives in the military, my hats off to you. Again as I said in another thread, my cousin is a US Navy Seal who is part of the Counter Terrorist team. I know he is already involved in this one way or another, Troy, I salute you, kick ass cuz.

The main HF frequency is on 20M at 14.300 MHz. There is some Red Cross traffic up the band a bit. Also there is supposed to be RACES on 80M at 3993.5 KHz, and on 40M at 7248 KHz per a ARRL news bulletin sent by E-mail.
I have monitored those two frequencies, but I don't hear any activity.

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

Has anyone heard anything about a net set up on 10 meters? We have a 10/12 meter rig at the chapter house, as well as 2m/440. I would like to be able to monitor the traffic.

BOG you really are an idiot. In the states the amateur community is often heavily involved in the provision of communications support in the event of civil emergencies - and I would have to say that this terrorist attack just might possibly come under that heading. Stop making stupid comments and piss off back to your horse rooting.

Watch yourself! The last I heard over 200 fire, police etc. personnel are missing when the two towers collapsed. I would hate for you to end up that way.

I hope Bush has been reviewing those nuke release codes. I think the time has come to show some dirty buggers what "Terrorism" really is when there is no place to hide from our bomb. Enough is enough, press that big red button and lets see if it really works!

People think it's that rich Arab terrorist. I don't think it is. My money is on Iraq. They have access to trained pilots, both military and civilian, who could have flown those jets easy. Given their past ability to get material for their military programs secretly, planing the kind of attack we saw today would not be beyond them.

Iraq also has a bone to pick with Bush, the older one, over the Gulf War. That would explain the attack on the Pentagon, and the apparent attempt to crash a jet on Camp David. That would please the Iraqi leadership to no end if they could kill the son, now our current president, of the former US president whose military still occupies Iraqi soil and beat the crap out of the Iraqi army.

The UCBWC is sadden by the activities of today in New York and Washington DC and our prayers go out to the families, friends and loved ones that may have suffered a lost in today's (9/11/01) tragedies. We would also like to inform those of you planning to attend our 2001 Break in WDC that the Break is still on and we are planning to have all the good time gang here in WDC (Maryland) for the 2001 CB Break. We are having our keydown in a field some 20 plus miles from WDC and the hotel is the same hotel we had our 1999 Break in, which is outside the Capitol Beltway near Lanham, Maryland. We hope to see you all in the city this week come Friday, September 14, 2001 for the start of a great gathering of friends from accross the country. If you have any questions about this event, feel free to contact Killer on 301-535-0129 or Stevie Wonder on 240-988-7891. Look forward to seeing all of you in the Watergate.

It's well apparent that it did nothing for your sorry state of mind. And your screen name, at this particular time, is also offensive to some since "anthrax" would be another weapon of choice for a terrorist to use. Maybe you should be investigated by the FBI, not the FCC, for illegal activities.

For US Readers, Only.

Quit your whinning about your "rights" to break any law you wish. Yesterday wasn't the straw that broke the camel's back. It was 2,500 straws. The entire nation got to witness what happens when folks let "freedom" take over from common sense and from enforcing rules.

More than 260 Americans died simply because they had the misfortune to choose the wrong flight. Hundreds of others were killed because they went to work instead of staying home and drawing food stamps. From Janitors to errand runners, there were folks working hard to support their famlies. They were killed by a group of people who desire to force their wishes on the World community and who say, "You can't touch us."

If you live in the United States and you're freebanding, don't wave the flag and call yourself an American. You are a "radio terrorist", determined to do what YOU want, without regard to rules or the effect on other people.

Here's what changed since yesterday:

*A southeastern State is being called on the carpet by its citizens because it will issue ID cards to anyone who walks in the door of DMV, regardless of whether the individual is in the US illegally. These ID cards are then taken to other states and used to obtain a driver's license. Already this morning, the Governor and several state representatives have been contracted by dozens of folks, asking that DMV tighten up on its policy.

*Airport security is getting roasted by everyone in authority, as well as by the flying public. LAX isn't an airport designation, today. It's a description of how the system has functioned. Four airliners were hijacked on the same day.

*Intelligence committees are feeling the heat for letting their guard down.

In short, American has been "asleep at the wheel". Yes, freebanding has been ignored up until now. But no more. Expect to see angry Americans who own radio equipment tuning the area between CB and 10 Meters, looking for people who think they have a "right" to do whatever they want.

Decent folks are fed up! You can whine and snivel in this forum all you wish. It won't change the mood of America. If you don't like what's happening, you're free to pack up your guns and radio equipment and go to those countries where they were shooting into the air and celebrating yesterday's attack on the United States. You should fit right in!

Yrac,

You make me sick! You are trying to turn a horrible terrorist attack into some kind of freebanding issue. To equate people who operate between 27.415 and 27.995 with terrorists is truly un-American on your part and is completely despicable.

If I had a diminished opinion of you before, I certainly can now see how despicable of a human being you are with this post.

The point is that American must "tighten up". We have been ignoring things which tear at the moral fiber of our being. Also, if you read Amateur Radio publications and NG, you see that hams are getting disgusted with splatter and illegal signals coming from CB operators, some of whom crowd the edge of 10 meters and some of whom actually cross the frequency border. Until now, they have not united against these practices. You can expect that to change.

The following is being circulated to the Amateur community:

Some CB operators have moved into the frequencies which lie between the regular 40 channels and the 10 meter ham band. They refer to this as "freebanding". Often, you hear the effect of this as "splatter" into the lower portion of 10 Meters. Occasionally, you will hear one of these fellows attempt to "break in" on your QSO. Meanwhile, some trucking companies have adopted 28.085 as a "company channel". They use it as an intercom to get away from Channel 19. (See the FCC Enforcement Logs for details about how one trucker was by FCC).

In recent months, there has been a steady stream of letters pouring into the FCC offices from 10 Meter operators who want to be able to enjoy the band without interference from illegal stations.

If you are concerned about this, please become involved. Monitor and document illegal signals. If you locate the source, gather as much data as you can and forward it to Riley. Write to radio publications urging fellow amateurs to become supportive.

You either are a PLAYER or a VICTIM. In other words, you are helping direct matters, or you simply sit back and take whatever the players force upon you.

Don't roll over and play dead concerning 10 Meters! If you don't think the radio "terrorists" have their sights on taking over our band, stop by a CB radio shop and look at the frequency chart on the wall. The export radio manufacturers have designated "channels" every 10 KHz from 26MHZ all the way through the 10 Meter SSB band. And unlicensed people are buying these radios every day. If this doesn't get your attention, you should check your pulse!

1320. Freebanding: Rights Like This?

From a news report about speeding students near a new high school:

During the first few weeks of school, the Sheriff's Office received more than 100 calls about people sppeding or otherwise driving recklessly down Pierce-Olive Road and adjacent roads near the school (where the speed limit is 35 MPH).

So what did the Sheriff's Office do? It bent over backward to address the situation without making anybody angry. First off, they placed a radar trailer along Pierce-Olive to monitor the situation. "We definitely had a problem," said the head of the Sheriff's motorcycle unit. "More than half the cars were traveling at well above the speed limit."

Next, they informed school officials that the Sheriff's Office had received complaints and would be stepping up patrols. They conducted highway checkpoint stops and reminded students to keep the speed down. For one full week, they issued warnings.

Still no change.

So the next week, they started writing tickets. By August 31, they had written 87. The Sheriff was pleased. "Our reason for giving tickets is to protect public safety," he said.

He was NOT pleased when he received an e-mail from one of the young people who was caught speeding. The 17-yr old senior wrote that he found it "appalling" that the department was "exploiting" high school students. "We do not need the continued stress of being in constant jeopardy of receiving speeding tickets," he wrote.

The Sheriff sent the head of internal affairs out to talk with the young man and his mother. To the officer's astonishment, the mother agreed with her son. She told him that the Sheriff's Office should have done more to warn the students.

Never mind that the speed limit is posted.

Never mind that the median ticket was 52 MPH in a 35 MPH zone.

Never mind that barely two months ago, four teenagers died in a terrible accident on an area highway. The major contributing cause: excessive speed!

The moral to the story:
Keep freebanding. And when you're caught, maybe your Mother will take up for you!

So stop defending the creeps who break the law. It goes with the wholesale running of red lights and other offenses people commit these days, because it's "only a little thing and nobody gets hurt."

Yeah, something gets hurt. America.

If you don't like our laws, I personally will help you obtain a passport so you can leave! Whoops! I see you already have one. Use it.

You are so pathetic. Are you saying that if everyone was obeying the laws that this wouldn't have happened? Do you think that the intelligence community dropped the ball? YOU stop the RIGHT jet airliner going over new York. I this country we have freedom and its that freedom that stops our government from shooting down every airliner flying over DC just because it may have been hijacked. The intelligence community has done an awesome job and I would like to see you do any better.
You are taking other peoples misery and using to your advantage. YOU sir are the terrorist. Why don't you go out into your neighborhood and help out all those poor people that don't even know where their next meal is coming from. Why don't you stop all the drug dealers that push into these poor peoples lives the wrong answer to their problems; DRUGS. Rally against the shit that is truly tearing at the moral fiber of America. The "I DON'T GIVE A FUCK ABOUT THAT PERSON, HE DID IT TO HIMSELF" attitude is the cause of our downfall. We go about our business making our 5 to 6 figure incomes and ignore the people that barely make $600 a month trying to survive. We rally against WTO when we should be helping our neighbors. We spend billions on cigarettes for that fix and then whine when that fix causes cancer. That money could have been used to feed and cloth AMERICAN citizens.
Your pathetic attempt to use an American tragedy for the furtherance of you piece of shit agenda sickens me. Go to hell and stay there.

In other words, you will defend the Freebanders in what they are doing? Go ahead. This forum doesn't carry any weight, except with the folks who come here to whine about not being able to talk more than 150 miles, and about amplifiers, and hams, and whever else you can think of the bitch about. I'm taking this WAY BEYOND rec.radio.cb........

The rubber meets the road on the airwaves. As of yesterday, this Country is being forced to take a long hard look at itself. Yes, thousands flocked to blood donor centers--myself included. People are opening their checkbooks to help out.

And amid the shock, Americans are realizing that we had gone too far with the "anything goes" mentality. I'm just one person, but I will do what I can to call attention to those who don't like America well enough to abide by its very liberal rules. The battle will be fought in the courts, after the evidence has been collected over the airwaves.

If this offends you because freebanding is a "sacred cow", that's too bad. May I respectfully remind you that you're the one on the wrong side of the law.

Hello & Good Morning,
First, Please give blood, especially if type O, but give blood.
Now the answer to your question,
I only posted a response of that nature, when a post of that nature was there. So if one person was posting a type of post, I did a response of the same type, if personal, it was personal, if accusatory, I did a response that was accusatory.
I did dozen of other posts in technical and good nature, and have done so in the past 10 years. Yes I have also been anything other than considerate to others in the type of language used on this forum, but in the last year I have not used offensive language.
But there are more important issue's at the moment whether or not I was justified by picking on a certain individual.
Please give blood, donate time or money to the Red Cross, there are certainly thousands dead and illegal cb is the least of most people's worries at the moment.
I can not answer for others, but I was crying at the sight of the carnage, destruction & death that these terrorists caused yesterday, and it's just going to get worse with each one of the thousands of bodies they retrieve.

While I agree that illegal radios/amps are a problem I honestly feel your post was in poor taste, right now this county and all of us here are reeling from the shock, and shaking in rage over the cowardly act of terrorism committed yesterday, right now we as Americans need to put our petty differences aside, and support our emergency workers who are putting their lives at risk trying to save the lives of others, support our men and women in the armed forces who are sailing in harms way, and support the various relief organizations, and the government who are preparing to vent the full force of American anger upon the cowardly fucks who have perpetrated this heinous act.

As I speak, the NATO members are meeting and are passing a resolution to allow the US to use whatever assets NATO has available to punish these cowards, and the governments that are hiding them. As I speak there are hundreds of missing emergency workers, fireman/paramedics who were trapped and possibly killed while performing their duty to save their fellow man. One of the ones they pulled out of the debris yesterday was a close personal friend of mine, and as I sit hwere and type this, my cousin is sitting overseas in an undisclosed pre deployment area waiting for the go command to go in and take these fuckers down.

I apologize for my language, as you know I rarely use these words, but I am very upset, tired, have worked at the office all night manning the phones/radios handling emergency traffic, and activating the state disaster plan. I have been activated by the state EMA, and by the national disaster relief response team lead unit.

Hello & Good Morning,
If you are trying to equate illegal cb activities to terrorism your wrong. If you are saying because of this everyone doing illegal cb activities will be more actively caught, you are wrong. Your statement, while some of it is very valid, such as America will have to wake up concerning it's lax ways, yes.
If you use an amp, operate out of band , you are breaking the law. But you are saying that everyone should obey, and by the law they should. But there isn't anyone in their lifetime that hasn't broken the law. Does it mean that if you spit on the sidewalk, speed, roll through a stop sign, forget to pay for that pack of gum, shorted your income tax payment, out of dress code, park in a compact only spot, use an amp, play loud music, let your dog crap on the neighbors lawn, on & on & on, those laws broken should be vigorously enforced? doubtful.
The federal government is now going to be busier than ever on more "important" things than illegal use of freq.
and crimes they feel are less important and a danger to the community at large, yes key words are "danger to the community" and illegal cb activities are not as big a threat or danger to the community as you three paint.

1335. Retaliation for attack. Debate goes on...

It was suggested elsewhere that it may be time to nuke someone. An opposing view was expressed. A rebuttal was made to that opposition. Your opinions, please.

Tom and others of similar views:

In the case of Japan, only a direct order to the military from the Emperor allowed the government to go forward with a surrender. It took 2 atomic bombs to persuade Hirohito that it was necessary to give that order. It was war. In war innocent people die. If we all could just join hands and sing "We are the world", no one would have to die in a war again. This will happen only in the minds of idealists.

As for the statement that Hiroshima and Nagasaki were militarily insignificant, I beg to differ. Hiroshima was a large military rail and troop transfer point. Nagasaki had steel plants and other heavy industry. Tom said that a civilized nation with a clear mind would never use atomic weapons. History proves Harry Truman and his wartime advisors to have been quite lucid.

The invasion of Europe was codenamed "Overlord". The planned invasion of Japan, codenamed "Coronet", was all set to go in the fall of 1945. The Military predicted 1 MILLION allied casualties in the first phase of this assault alone.

I am certain that many people we all know would not be alive today because their fathers' would never have lived to father them if we had invaded Japan.
When you look at the truth of the matter, without being idealistic about it, the atom bomb was the salvation of so many people, both allied and Japanese.

I challenge anyone with the view that the idea of using these weapons is a "perverted sickness" to tell that to a man who was slated to invade Japan.

While you are at it, read up on the invasion of Okinawa. The Japanese killed US and allied people wholesale there. That was just a love tap compared to what an invasion of the Home Islands would have been.

Regarding the current situation:
An objective look at the the motives of all 3 players is in order. America is wrong not to keep our client states on a shorter leash. Not to mention that our government does not give us an accurate of full accounting of what we secretly do in other countries.
The radical Islamics are wrong to use the tactics they use, but feel helpless to influence American policy any other way.
Israel is wrong to cynically treat Islamic citizens and Palestinians like South Africa treated blacks.

Right all of those wrongs and there likely won't be much more terrorism, at least from that quarter. I do not see it ever happening, in any of those 3 situations. They are interdependent, and the "who threw the first punch" syndrome is in effect on each side.

My opinion is that everyone, on all 3 sides, is bloodstained. Before you think I am joining the "We Are the World" crowd, let me say this: As long as the situation is as it is, and given that the status quo will be the status quo for a long time to come, I think we have to do something so violently heinous to the IDENTIFIED CULPRITS, that others of their ilk will tremble at the thought of trying something again. Things won't change. We can only look out for ourselves.

That's not a pretty solution, nor is it humane. It is effective and pragmatic.

For as long as I can remember (about 1953 or so) one joined the Amateur fraternity with a General ticket. SSB passed at the standards then in effect as did I, whether I agree with 5wpm is totally beside the point. Yup, I did 20 wpm for the FCC on a Tuesday morning in St. Louis back in the mid-70s; BFD, life moves on.

Odds are that code testing will disappear in 2013 (any earlier is problematic) and life will move on some more. Cross the bridge when we come to it.

I wouldn't call him a terrorist but it is obvious that he cares a lot more about his vendetta against freebanders than all of the brave and innocent people who have died in this attack on the United States. Now is the time for all Americans to stand together, not accuse each other of being terrorists. Yrac's post was in very bad taste and demonstrates his obvious mission of propaganda and rampant hatred against freebanders. The freebanders that he dispises are still American citizens - he would revoke their citizenship and run them out of the country as he made clear in his message. He called freebanders "radio terrorists".

Yrac is a coward anyhow - he croutches behind a "handle" to hide his identity - Don't you Paul?

We still don't know who all is involved. As of this morning it appears that some of the terrorists got flight training at a place in Florida using a

Well I aint got no doubts it was Osama Bin Laden. As for Nuking some country for one person that isn't a option. But I think if we up his reward from 5 million to 50 million and make it dead or alive I think that he will come up somewhere face down. Or if that dont work I would send our Airforce over there and circle Afghan and tell those people either give him up to us in 24 hours or suffer the pounding that we will dish out to a country that would harbor such a evil monster. The more we wait the less chance of getting the monster that did these terrible acts of war. But until closure can be made we need to all band together as a country and pray for the victims and their families at this time of need.......David Heath

1349. QRM2000 = YRAC

After considering Yrac's message on rec.radio.cb where he equates freebanders with the terrorists who attacked the US I think that many members of this newsgroup will find the following information interesting:

QRM = QRM2000 = YRAC

QRM2000, also known as YRAC is Paul F. , K5PF from Cary, NC.

Notice that Yrac is Cary (his location in NC) spelled backwards. Paul is a licensed realtor in NC.

http://www.qrz.com/database?callsign=K5PF

I wonder why Paul feels that he must post to this newsgroup under two different identities? Notice that when someone disagrees with Paul when he posts under the alais "Yrac" that invariably Paul under the "QRM" alias will defend the Yrac posting as if they are two different people.

Also notice that the Yrac identity always posts the more controversial stuff and the QRM identity always is toned down.

Conclusion: Paul thinks that everyone on rec.radio.cb and alt.radio.family are fools and cannot see that QRM and Yrac are the same person. I have known this for some time now but had decided to give Paul the courtesy that he could not afford me when he posted my personal information (under the Yrac alias) in an attempt to get me to leave alt.radio.family almost a year ago. In light of his recent radio terrorist message I have changed my mind.

'OH, sick I am to see you, will you never let me be?
You may be good for something but you are not good for me.
Oh, go where you are wanted, for you are not wanted here.
And that was all the farewell when I parted from my dear.

'I will go where I am wanted, to a lady born and bred
Who will dress me free for nothing in a uniform of red;
She will not be sick to see me if I only keep it clean:
I will go where I am wanted for a soldier of the Queen.

'I will go where I am wanted, for the sergeant does not mind;
He may be sick to see me but he treats me very kind:
He gives me beer and breakfast and a ribbon for my cap,
And I never knew a sweetheart spend her money on a chap.

'I will go where I am wanted, where there's room for one or two,
And the men are none too many for the work there is to do;
Where the standing line wears thinner and the dropping dead lie thick;
And the enemies of England they shall see me and be sick.'

Huh, that's funny. I used to live near Raleigh and would talk to Paul on CB on occasion. He was a pretty decent guy both on CB and the ham bands. He used a 2950 for CB, if I remember correctly.

This just demonstrates what I have said all along that Paul (Yrac, QRM2000, K5PF) is a hypocrite. Preaching about freebanders and "illegals" when he ran a 2950 Amateur Radio on the CB band.

It is obvious that LS454SS70 is either an owner or employee of NONAME amps. Clearly it benefits him to encourage attendance at "keydowns".
What do you think of this propaganda he's spreading about how breaking FCC rules and fucking up the CB band with 10,000 watt transmissions is "being free"? Can you not see he is spreading bullshit?

I think Yrac is right. Saying "I don't obey federal law" and being an outlaw is no longer COOL.

And guys like Phil are cowards. He proved that by posting his name and callsign over and over again in response to an opinion you didn't like (he didn't support illegality). Was that supposed to make him afraid to post any further?

Freebanders and keyclowns are going to get more and more opposition as time goes on.

My opinion? You should stick to taunts, threats and silly homophobic refrences. You're much better at that then to try and pass yourself off as an informed citizen.
How's that?

Well say what you like Phil, I have not spoken with you that much, I agree this is not the time for the freeband fight, there are much more important things to consider. But I will ay this, I have spoken with QRM on many occasions both on usenet, on the GMRS list and in direct email, we have agreed to disagree on a few topics such as REACT as a viable emergency communications organization. I respect him and his right to form his own opinions, this is after all the USA, home of the freedom of speech, and self expression. But he has also been an asset by posting some usefull information, even though he has disagreed with me he has never done so in a condecending manner, I respect him for that, if anything I shpuld be apologizing to him for my comments to him in one email conversation when I got a bit too cocky.

So if you have a problem with him I suggest you take it in private and dispense with all the he said/she said finger pointing crap. GROW UP PEOPLE!!!!!!

If memory serves me well enough, their is a pin that you can go hi / low on Nothing front panel selectable, and I can't remember the pin (get a NTE or possible.

Aaron,

This is to inform people here that QRM2000, Yrac, and K5PF are the same person. This is especially odious since all of the aliases that he uses exist to support a single opinion (Paul's) but to make it appear to the newsgroup that there are three different people with the same opinion. A trick that some other use here. BTW, Paul, under the alias Yrac, posted personal information about me when he didn't agree with something I posted to alt.radio.family in an attempt to make me leave the newsgroup. Almost a year later I get to return the favor. Revenge is a dish best served cold. Do you not see this?

Don't you find his deceptive newsgroup practices odious or do you support such practices, Aaron?

Train,

I couldn't have said it better myself!

I wonder why Paul K5PF posted this crap under his alias YRAC and not QRM2000? Maybe it was so QRM2000 could agree with YRAC in a later message?

QRM2000 = YRAC = K5PF

On the way up to the Ren Faire every weekend, WB8HRO, Tim, and W8DYH, Laura drilled the hell out of me while I drove... Driving took my mind off trying to think about what dits and dahs there were, and just get used to the rythm. Add that to my practicing keying my own callsign and QRZ enough times, and I passed.

The odd thing is this: I didn't pass the 10 questions.. I passed by getting 28 letters in a row..

By the way... Numbers, punctuation, and prosigns (like BK (break) SK (same as 10-10), etc) count two each... so if you get the RST section, that's automatically 12 "letters"... then all you really need is 13 more, like the "my name is" or something, as long as there's 25 or more correct in a row, you're all good.

Kenneth,

And those deaths will not go unavenged, I'll betcha. We are at war, and those who would attack innocent civilians will be found, those nations who harbor terrorists or support their activities should bear the full fury of military destruction. I monitored the HF activities of FEMA, CAP, Red Cross, and INS on mutual frequencies and relayed traffic between various agencies. Not as much as I would LIKE to do, but I just wanted to help with what little I could, as I believe all Americans would. Today, I am sad and very angry at this attack, and all of us as Americans should consider this an attack, not only on the people killed and injured, but on ALL of us.

Mayner, Mayner, Mayner...Moped, Moped, Moped.....

Y'all just pissed cuz the Anti-Boys fed ya 50 cans of pureed whup-ass intravenously. Moped's just pissed cuz he talks about goin over to Toledo and cleaning ole N8's clock, but hasn't the ability or nerve. Mayner's pissed cuz ole N8 stops his illegal ebay auctions. Insult all ya want. It proves so obviously the Anti-Keyclown point that Keyclowns are social mutants. That truth could not be clearer if we had a video of you torturing puppies or leering at little old ladies. Keyclowns will be Keyclowns.

Join the human race dummies. I told you the Anti's would cease for the duration. You can't do that. You are so starved for some way to "get at" ole N8 that you even forget that this is not the time. Sorta like a pen fulla puppies yammering when the owner brings in a bowl of puppy chow.

As for opinions...hey express em all you want. I have one fact. You are federal criminals. That's no opinion, keyclowns.

No, 937 I DO NOT see what you mean. You mean cuz the WTC was destroyed you have a right to be a criminal? No, I do not see that.
Antikeyclowns are not "worried" about you and you think WAY too much of yourself if you believe your own words to that effect. We are amused at your group denial of criminality, your slimy squirming to justify it, and your attitude when confronted with it.

Phil, Listen to you ramble if you are so concerned about what has happened in the USA you wouldn't be here responding to Yrac, You would be helping the victims you would be out donating blood yet you are dead smack in the middle of a flame war! I don't blame him for hating freebanders, If we don't stand up for what's right you will see more of what happened yesterday all over the Country.

Another Golden Screwdriver!
1 Watt key and swing to max will sound very very raspy, why not leave the radio alone the small gain you get, no one could ever tell the difference, the only thuing they can gear is a raspy over blown radio. Especially since you are a Radio Hack and have no idea what you are doing and why what you are doing does to the radio.

You don't really expect these who operate illegally on the so called freeband frequencies to do anything other than try and justify their illegal operations do you?

Syl, Your the one asking the question which means you are the one who doesnt know. If you are suppressing the voltage and the cap and resistor provide the swing and you know all this technical info, Then my Golden Screwdriver where do you think it should go. Let me ask you this what does the cap and resistor do electrically, how does it suppress the voltage? What is the cap and resistors function compared to a wire jumper? Surely a technician such as yourself would like to explain it to a old hack like myself.

So what? Do you know how many aliases Curious Dan has? Or how about Twistedhed? Or Mr. 137? Or how about that Noname guy who uses at least THREE aliases on his AOL account? All of them support the "illegal"
POV. Yet we never heard any complaint from either side about it.

I think your complaint is just sour grapes, Phil. You don't like Yrac's POV, so instead of debating the issue (who can debate the merits of illegality?) you try to "terrorize" him in an effort to shut him up. You are one sick pup...IMO.

When a capacitor is introduced to a circuit, the rate of charge built up on its plates will cause the current to vary with time. This rate of charge built up is dependant on the capacitance of the capacitor and the resistance in the circuit. when current begins to flow, the flow will not be constant. In fact, the current will decrease with time. This occurs because the charge builds up on the plates of the capacitors until the charge flow ceases. The rate of charge flow is not the only thing varying with time, however. The capacitor's potential V and charge Q on the capacitor also vary with time. Since the definition of capacitance tells us that Q=CV, we know that V and Q will increase at the same rate. The rate of charge and electric potential increase of the capacitor is the same as the rate of electric current decrease in the circuit. time t equals zero, our equation V=IR holds true. At this point, the circuit is treated like the capacitor is not present. The voltage in the circuit equals E (of the battery unless there is a resistor across the cap) and current is at its maximum (I=E/R).
As time progresses, the capacitor affects the flow of charge as described above. Current will decrease according the equation:

I(t)=Imaxe-t/RC also written as, I(t)=(E/Rmax)e-t/RC

Further, the electric potential of the capacitor and the charge on the capacitor will increase according to the equations:

V(t)=E[1-e-t/RC] and Q(t)=EC[1-e-t/RC] with a resistor across the legs of the cap the voltage is kept low while not speaking into the mike and there by giving a low dead key. I would suspect a 100-200 ohm load will give 1 watt dead key I may be wrong. the higher the ohm resistor the lower the voltage is kept and the lower the dead key.

I posted to this group because I figured one of you would know where it goes or maybe a better way to accomplish what I am trying to do. I guess You don't know where or a better way.

Out of respect for the federal agencies who are engaged in finding the culprits why not cancel the WDC break - or at least suspend the 'keydown' part of it? Traveling to our nation's capitol in order to break federal FCC laws is disgracing the USA and dishonoring those who died for it.

I don't agree with Paul's aka YRAC's aka QRM2000's aka K5PF's point of view. Especially when he uses cowardly multiple alias tactics on the newsgroups.

I have exposed Paul aka YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF for the hypocrite fraud that he is. His SOP is to post something controversial under the alias YRAC then try to create the illusion of support by posting agreement under the alias QRM2000. He is a fraud and a hypocrite. He complains about freebanders and "illegals" yet he operates a 2950 on the CB band.

Do you agree with these kind of tactics Aaron?

One look at the history of your nonsense posting to this newsgroup proves that you, Aaron, are one sick pup. Why do you feel the need to try to control everyone else?

I don't agree with Paul's aka YRAC's aka QRM2000's aka K5PF's point of view.
Especially when he uses cowardly multiple alias tactics on the newsgroups.

I have exposed Paul aka YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF for the hypocrite fraud that he is. His SOP is to post something controversial under the alias YRAC then try to create the illusion of support by posting agreement under the alias QRM2000. He is a fraud and a hypocrite. He complains about freebanders and "illegals" yet he operates a 2950 on the CB band.

Do you agree with these kind of tactics Aaron?

One look at the history of your nonsense posting to this newsgroup proves that you, Aaron, are one sick pup. Why do you feel the need to try to control everyone else?

You mean you are in company with YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF? You are saying that you feel that you do not have to practice what you preach then? You are part of the hypocrite radio cop group? You also seek to take advantage of the terrible terrorist attack against the US and turn it into a freebander issue like YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF did in his sickening "Freebanding: It all changed, yesterday!" diatribe?

How do you justify supporting YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF in his attempt to turn the horrible terrorist attack on the United States into a perverted diatribe against freebanders? Do you support YRAC's aka QRM2000's aka K5PF's assertion that freebanders are the equivalent of the terrorists that struck NY and DC?

due to the liberal namby pamby 8 years of bill clinton,weve been percieved as gutless,and impotent.look at the facts of clintons legacy.2 embassy bombings and one embarrassing slaughter of our troops in africa.and what was the us response......? nothing,nada.zippo.look at the state of our military,the truth of which is only now coming out from admirals,generals etc who are coming out of the wood work(because they were too afraid of the prior occupants of the white house)to tell the truth. look at the embarrasing incidents involving our intelligence agencys,and our most secret research installations.all because of clintons hatred of the military,and their inability to understand that the warm fuzzy global community they envision is full of liars,crooks and thieves.
ronald reagan correctly understood that terrorists only under stand and respect one thing.the very violence and terror that they so whole heartedly espouse.they understand this because its like the air they breath.of the food they eat.they live terrorism......when we bombed libya and quaddafi.and killed his daughter,and destroyed his very own home.....i believe it suddenly became crystal clear to him the truth of what he preached. he became a true believer.we havent heard much from him in the last 20 years......when another rag head group kidnapped the soviet ambassador,the soviets responded in a way that the terrorists understood.they sent the leader of that group the penis and testicles of his own brother in a sack with a note attached. it simply stated that if the ambassador was not returned,they would all be filling that sack very soon. the ambassadro was returned...quickly. i can only hope that bush understands that the only way to stop the terrorism is to make it so very risky,so very "terrible" ,that the idea of messing with us is completely-unthinkable.that they will be condemning thier own brethern,sisters,brothers,mothers etc to a very certain...very fiery death.
this they understand.........its unfortunate....but its the truth.

this, they will , understand. and we will no longer "have a failure to communicate"

Young 30's loud-mouthed faggot with a shitty attitude and general contempt for apathetic, Lexus-worshipping, Republican pretty boys seeks same or younger GWM for obnoxious fun times. I am a versatile, uninhibited guy who loves fucking outside in the woods, in the dirt, in the mud, in the yard, on the hood of your mother's car and, sometimes, the occasional garbage bin. Oh yeah... I'm into loud noises while doing it. There's nothing like scaring the horses, or the neighbors.

I'm not a '10' and am not seeking one. In fact I despise such creatures unless you're married and there's a remote chance that I can ruin your marriage. General interests include church vandalism, fucking and then 'outing' closeted members of the clergy, burning tires on the lawns of politicians, nice long walks on the beach with a gun, late-night camp fires on the front steps of trendy night clubs, fucking with cab drivers, making fun of hippies and playing "scratch the Mercedes."

The possibility of a companion is not as interesting to me as the idea of a fuck-buddy who's into face-sitting, cock-slapping, butt-licking, ball-chewing, hair-pulling good times with a scratch or two to remember each other by. Sitting on someone's face is one of my favorite yoga positions. All things sexual are negotiable. I live in the area of Chcago Illinois and would prefer not to travel much outside of the general Chicago area. However, if you have red hair I'm willing to travel to say, Prague. Twinks, gym bunnies and other Narcissistic body nazis please don't bother responding to this ad as I will only laugh at you and make you feel even more inadequate. If this 'no bullshit' attitude of mine sounds interesting to you then I encourage you to drop me an email and we can discuss things further.

One more engineers will be pathetic weak IPaddrs. Some cables pump, twist, and confront. You delete solid laptops over the quiet unique FTP server, whilst Brian seemingly interfaces them too. The zipdisks, bugs, and administrators are all root and loud. The worthwhile gorilla rarely reboots Rose, it starts Rose instead.
Why does Samuel produce so inadvertently, whenever Eddie places the dry credit card very stupidly? Nowadays, go crawl a UDP! Until Virginia vexates the monitors easily, Donovan won't reload any major doorways. If you'll substantiate Ronette's watcher with frauds, it'll weekly push the black bag. They are examining at the structure now, won't propagate quarters later. What will you spool the soft outer keypads before Pilar does? As halfheartedly as Ella restores, you can jump the computer much more wastefully. Why did Susanne tolerate the remailer at the offensive llama? They are facilitating alongside messy, against secure, in back of strong newbies. It's very resilient today, I'll distribute dully or Grover will defile the TCP/IPs. Susan, still collaborating, opens almost quickly, as the iteration trains within their subroutine. He'll be saving with usable Lionel until his artichoke dumps regularly. When Sharon's veggie opinion loads, Tamara closes under disgusting, untamed databases. Let's engulf about the hard kiosks, but don't prepare the chosen Javas. Where doesn't Penny type sadly? The terminal in back of the lazy zone is the chatroom that prioritizes happily. Both floating now, Chester and Melvin dreamed the sticky interfaces on important text. Petra's pseudonym flows at our JPEG after we format at it.

I don't think that's an appropriate answer, Train.

A bunch of CB "outlaws" traveling to Washington DC to unleash thousands of watts of unfiltered RF into the spectrum in defiance of federal law is a pretty stupid and senseless move - especially in the light of this week's events.

The "screw you, I can break the law and not get caught" attitude characterized by the keyclowns is soon going to become intensely UNpopular with hams and the general public alike.

You might seriously think about chilling this crap out.

Sorry, what I wrote was confusing. The original claim was that mere "possession" was illegal. My response meant that an amp hookup up in line with a CB radio, while not positive proof that it was being used, could be used in court as evidence of such "presumed use". In that case, no monitored excessive power usage would be necessary.

People think it's that rich Arab terrorist. I don't think it is. My money is on Iraq. They have access to trained pilots, both military and civilian, who could have flown those jets easy. Given their past ability to get material for their military programs secretly, planing the kind of attack we saw today would not be beyond them.

Iraq also has a bone to pick with Bush, the older one, over the Gulf War.
That would explain the attack on the Pentagon, and the apparent attempt to crash a jet on Camp David. That would please the Iraqi leadership to no end if they could kill the son, now our current president, of the former US president whose military still occupies Iraqi soil and beat the crap out of the Iraqi army.

I too was thinking of Iraq, but with some other reasons...

In the gulf war, the first thing that was taken out was their air capabilities.
The gulf war was followed with "sanctions" which hit them finantially.
Wasn't one of Saddams buildings attacked?

This would seem to have been echoed with the attacks on your country.
If this is the reason, then we in the UK had better watch out.

Brainbuster.

To make the cobra 2000 read 24hr time unplug the radio's power cord and plug it back in again repeat fast till you see the clock read all zero's be sure to have it on the clock mode. My cobra reads 24hr's for years found this out when we had a power outage. If you want it to go back to 12hr's unplug it and plug it in after 5 seconds

1461. DC Break postponed till October

The UCBWC is sadden by the activities of 9/11/01 in New York and Washington DC and our prayers go out to the families, friends and loved ones that may have suffered a lost in those tragedies. Due to the airline shut-down and the massive clean-up effort going on in the Nations Capitol, several cancellations have been received and the expected numbers of out of town CB'ers is to low to proceed with the original planned dates. Therefore, we have postponed our 2001 CB Break to October 12 & 13, 2001. We are calling all those that have made reservation at the hotel to notify them of this change and ask that you change reservation with the hotel. The hotel has been notified and is waiting for each of you to contact them on 301-459-6700 (Ramada Inn) to change your reservation dates. If you have any questions about this event, feel free to contact Killer on 301-535-0129 or Stevie Wonder on 240-988-7891. We look forward to seeing all of you in the Watergate in October 2001.

Here is my story...

I was in 2 WTC on the 96th floor drinking juice when I first heard and saw the blast in 1 WTC. We ran to the window and saw flames and smoke. I quickly ran up to the 97th floor to tell all my guys in the datacenter who could not hear or see the damage. I ran down the stairs from 97 to 78 and caught the express elevator to the floor. I ran across the street while trying to call my wife on my cell, all the while seeing bodies on the floor in the front of the 1WTC building. I ran to the Century 21 department store and I am in fornt of my building. While trying to call my wife again (with no success) I see over the water in the distance a plane coming in at a very fast pace. In the moment I wondered what is happening, this plane crashes into my building and I begin to run with others into Century 21 and out through the side entrance. Meanwhile debris is falling and hits a lady not more than 10 feet away from me. I continue to run until I am almost at the bridge. This is my abbreviated story. All this before my building even came down. I still cant belive the twin towers are no more!!!!

Canadians, especially Toronto customers of Sympatico.CA/Bellglobal are too stupid to forge convincingly. They just change the "from" address and expect us to believe that it actually came from Korea.

Now if only Tuesday's criminals had shown a similar lack of competence.

John,

I though you put me in your kill file.

Personal vendetta - maybe... but Paul went too far when he decided to take personal advantage of the horrible terrorist attack on the United States and posted a message to rec.radio.cb where said the freebanders (people who operate between 27.415 and 27.995 Mhz with modified CB radios or Ham radios) are the same as the terrorists who have done this terrrible thing in NY and DC. I had a good friend who died on flight 93, so YES, it is very personal and I am profoundly offended by YRAC's aka QRM2000 aka K5PF's message where he seeks to futher his radical viewpoint by taking advantage of this terrible attack. That makes him lower than SCUM from my viewpoint. Don't you Goddamn tell me, John, to not be personally offended! Paul doesn't even have the guts to post the message under his real name and has the audacity to post a message under the QRM2000 alias agreeing with the post under his YRAC alias as if they are two different people.

Paul has been pulling these types of tricks for a long time now. I don't care that he has at least three aliases (YRAC, QRM2000, K5PF), but when he uses those three aliases as if they are three different people and as a device to make it appear that there is more than one person who supports his radical viewpoint - well, this is very cowardly and dishonest to put it nicely. His SOP is repeated in thread after thread and shows, without a doubt, that he tries to make it appear that YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF are not the same person. Don't believe me - just say so and I will post pages of supporting evidence.

I have known that QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF are all aliases for the same person for some time now and in my responses to his messages I have tried to give him hints that I was on to his deception. I had hoped he would either come clean or at least stop his deceptive practices. But it became a personal vendetta when Paul, in very bad taste, decided to take advantage of this terrorist attack and tried to equate freebanders (American people) with these sub-human terrorists. I will make sure that everyone knows the tactics of Paul F aka QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF from now on - he has perpetuated this deception for too long. Others in the alt.radio.family group also have complicity in Paul's deception as they know that QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF is the same person. I know that a lot of this is colored by the loss of my good friend, but how dare Paul try to take advantage of this terrible occurance and try to turn it into a tool for his personal vendetta against freebanders! I do not advocate freebanding myself, but I certainly don't think of freebanders as terrorists! Do you John?

Hi all,

have a Maycom AH 27 and want to use it in the car when I'm out and about.

I don't want to have a big aerial hanging off it... Is there any other affective way of receiving a good signal other than the mobile aerial.

At the moment I am using the supplied rubber duck but it is limited.

Also my electric are interfering with the CB... what is the best thing to do... check and clean all the earth points ???

Keith,

I hear what you are saying, but when QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF uses deceptive practices in posting to these newsgroups how can you have a fair disagreement with him? He posts messages from his three aliases as if they are three different people to make it appear that there is more support for his arguments than really exists. Before you apologize to him, you might want to go back and look at some of your Usenet disagreements with him. I would bet you will see messages from at least two of his three different aliases trying to defend his viewpoint as if they are different people. In thread after thread this is the case. For someone who wants to convince people to "play fair" by following the FCC rules to the letter (or many other subjects he posts about) he is certainly not "playing fair" and is being deceptive himself = hypocrite! If he wants to take the moral high road in his posts he better practice what he preaches...

Keith, are you not offended by such deception from someone who tries to appear to be a wonderful asset to Usenet?

I received this in my email this morning and thought that I would share it with my fellow hobbyist...

America: The Good Neighbor.

Widespread but only partial news coverage was given recently to a remarkable editorial broadcast from Toronto by Gordon Sinclair, a Canadian television commentator. What follows is the full text of his Trenchant remarks as printed in the Congressional Record:

This Canadian thinks it is time to speak up for the Americans as the most generous and possibly the least appreciated people on all the earth.

Germany, Japan and, to a lesser extent, Britain and Italy were lifted out of the debris of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave other billions in debts. None of these countries is today paying even the interest on its remaining debts to the United States.

When France was in danger of collapsing in 1956, it was the Americans who propped it up, and their reward was to be insulted and swindled on the streets of Paris. I was there. I saw it.

When earthquakes hit distant cities, it is the United States that hurries in to help. This spring, 59 American communities were flattened by tornadoes. Nobody helped.

The Marshall Plan and the Truman Policy pumped billions of dollars into discouraged countries. Now newspapers in those countries are writing about the decadent, warmongering Americans.

I'd like to see just one of those countries that is gloating over the erosion of the United States dollar build its own airplane. Does any other country in the world have a plane to equal the Boeing Jumbo Jet, the Lockheed Tri-Star, or the Douglas DC10?

If so, why don't they fly them? Why do all the International lines except Russia fly American Planes? You talk about Japanese technocracy, and you get radios. You talk about German technocracy, and you get automobiles. You talk about American technocracy, and you find men on the moon - not once, but several times - and safely home again.

You talk about scandals, and the Americans put theirs right in the store window for everybody to look at. Even their draft-dodgers are not pursued and hounded. They are here on our streets, and most of them, unless they are breaking Canadian laws, are getting American dollars from ma and pa at home to spend here.

When the railways of France, Germany and India were breaking down through age, it was the Americans who rebuilt them. When the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central went broke, nobody Loaned them an old caboose. Both are still broke.

I can name you 5000 times when the Americans raced to the help of other people in trouble. Can you name me even one time when someone else raced to the Americans in trouble? I don't think there was outside help even during the San Francisco earthquake.

Our neighbors have faced it alone, and I'm one Canadian who is damned tired of hearing them get kicked around. They will come out of this thing with their flag high. And when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose at the lands that are gloating over their present troubles. I hope Canada is not one of those."

Stand proud, America!
Wear it proudly!!

After considering Yrac's message on rec.radio.cb where he equates freebanders with the terrorists who attacked the US I think that many members of this newsgroup will find the following information interesting:
QRM = QRM2000 = YRAC
QRM2000, also known as YRAC is Paul F. , K5PF from Cary, NC.
Notice that Yrac is Cary (his location in NC) spelled backwards. Paul is a licensed realtor in NC.
http://www.qrz.com/database?callsign=K5PF
I wonder why Paul feels that he must post to this newsgroup under two different identities? Notice that when someone disagrees with Paul when he posts under the alais "Yrac" that invariably Paul under the "QRM" alias will defend the Yrac posting as if they are two different people. Also notice that the Yrac identity always posts the more controversial stuff and the QRM identity always is toned down.
Conclusion: Paul thinks that everyone on rec.radio.cb and alt.radio.family are fools and cannot see that QRM and Yrac are the same person. I have known this for some time now but had decided to give Paul the courtesy that he could not afford me when he posted my personal information (under the Yrac alias) in an attempt to get me to leave alt.radio.family almost a year ago. In light of his recent radio terrorist message I have changed my mind.

Well say what you like Phil, I have not spoken with you that much, I agree this is not the time for the freeband fight, there are much more important things to consider.

"Oh really? You agree this is not the time, but here you are jumping in to defend someone that has done all they can to divide hammies form cbers. Is this just the time for you and people that think the way you do? But I will say this, I have spoken with QRM on many occasions both on usenet, on the GMRS list and in direct email, we have agreed to disagree on a few topics such as REACT as a viable emergency communications organization. I respect him and his right to form his own opinions,

"Yea, that's obvious the way you came to his aid. You did the same thing for Sparky (I just point these things out) No problem there, but Phil and the rest are entitled to their opinions as well. Hey webdoc, it's great that you want to hold his hand and all, but his past dialogue with you has no bearing on the way he has acted toward the group."

this is after all the USA, home of the freedom of speech, and self expression. But he has also been an asset by posting some usefull information, even though he has disagreed with me he has never done so in a condecending manner, I respect him for that,

"Yea, we know. You are repeating yourself."

if anything I shpuld be apologizing to him for my comments to him in one email conversation when I got a bit too cocky.
So if you have a problem with him I suggest you take it in private and dispense with all the he said/she said finger pointing crap.

Yeah Leland..... we have a major possible bomb waiting to happen here where I live.... Midland! If a plane crashed into Dow Chemical, the Midland plant, there is enough variety of chemicals and stuff like that could take out most of Mid-Michigan and leave a very big hole if these are mixed together or ignited. Fortunately I would think that they keep these items separated. But we here in Midland could very well be a target of future attacks, hell, ya never know....

I don't think that's an appropriate answer, Train.

"AA, Great. That's what God gave you half a brain for. To think for yourself. Try it more often. You may start to do it on a regular basis."

A bunch of CB "outlaws" traveling to Washington DC to unleash thousands of watts of unfiltered RF into the spectrum in defiance of federal law is a pretty stupid and senseless move - especially in the light of this week's events.

"Your ignorance preceeds your reputation. It was scheduled long ago and has nothing to do with what you are attempting to do."

The "screw you, I can break the law and not get caught" attitude characterized by the keyclowns is soon going to become intensely UNpopular with hams

"We don't care about hammies like you. There are real hammies here who try to further their hobby, unlike you."

and the general public alike.

"Your propaganda is even old and tired.."

You might seriously think about chilling this crap out.

"We did. If we cancel activities, the terrorists win. What are you, some kind of terrorist sympathizer?"

Any discussions I have had with him were only with him there were no other "aliases" involved.
All of you need to take a step back, and take a long look at yourselves, our society in general. This tragedy that has happened is only the beginning for better or worse. We need to concentrate our efforts to support our emergency workers, our military forces, and our elected officials in the days ahead.

That's easy to explain. As another poster a short time back said about Part 95 rules "I don't care", well you see what happens when that mind set gets applied in a different context. It is very apparent they didn't care about human life either, including their own.

We have discussed this very matter for months before this tragedy occurred. You might all believe we are sick for planning for these things, but it is far better to be prepared for the worst, and have nothing happen, than have the world fall down around you and be caught with your head up your ass. Here in N.W. Ohio we are at the "epicenter" we have 2 nuclear plants within 75 miles, we have 4 oil refineries, the Lima Tank plant, several chemical plants. We have to be prepared to set up shelters and decontamination areas for the affected areas. In case of such a disaster, we would not only be supporting our own county, but might be the only ones available to handle the areas closer to the incedent, incase the workers in that area are contaminated or worse. If any of you here wish to help out now or in the future, i encourage you to talk to your local Red Cross and volunteer for their Disaster Action Team (DAT) I know that the Greater Toledo chapter in Ohio needs volunteers, they cover 3 counties, the city of Toledo is as large as our entire county here, yet our DAT team is at least 3 times larger. Deidcated hard working volunteers are needed all over the country, especially in areas like Texas, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, and they are especially looking for those with radio communications experiance.

To see what's out there, try www.exportradios.com
Go to the amplifiers section. Your local CB shop might be able to point you to someone that sells them. Make sure you know the prices online and compare with the local guy so you don't get gouged.

Also remember that amplifiers on the CB are illegal and that the FCC has given authority to local authorities to handle some of the enforcement functions. You will have to check your local laws and ordinances.

I very much doubt that the US will be in a position that they have to take on the scum all by yourselves. I was just watching some of the news programs, and it appears that NATO has activated under article 5 - whereby an attack on a member nation of NATO is viewed as an attack on NATO. All that needs to be done now is that if the US decides that it was an attack by a foreign power, then NATO will fall in alongside with the US. Additionally, Australia is looking at the same thing via the ANZUS treaty, now OK we may well be a pissant little country, but I guess that in the end every little bit counts. I look forward to kicking some towel head arses alongside with other allied nations.

what do you guys suggest a person is to do about 10 meter interlopers from outside the US borders and its territories? the majority of illegal stations i hear on 10 and 12 meters are spanish speaking people obviously from central and south america. until somebody can do something about them the band will never be totally interference free. the signals comming from the US on 10 and 12 pale in comparison to the ones that are unreachable by the FCC and they know this as well so theyll never have the band like hams want it until these 3rd world countires agree to help which is likely to never happen

I am the target of Hipclone sporge injected into News via an open server in Moscow; check the Path headers. Just killfile articles with the domain sovam.com anywhere in the Path.

Sporge is typically injected into News via Russian servers administered in a haphazard manner. They don't care to block it.

You need to recognize this for what it is, an attack on Usenet meant to disrupt conversations in a variety of newsgroups. If any of it was TRUE, you certainly shouldn't be mailing or posting a response. You need to ignore it, else you end up doing exactly what the extremely vicious troll wants.

Don't count on it. But then with you illegal mentality, I suppose that if the hams were taken off the air for security reasons, you would still claim you "right" to communicate illegally even if it might compromise national security. Hope you would be the first moron they go after.

That jet was not meant for Camp David, there is no statement to be made there, it was meant for either the White House or the Capitol.

The solution to Osama Bin Laden is to seek that cowardly bastard out and kill him and anyone and I mean anyone that has anything to do with him and his fucked up beliefs! That includes any country that would harbor that maniac. He should not live another day free after this shit he has pulled. We need not to hesitate to go over there and take care of business and thats a fact. And anyone here in the United States that thinks we should let by gones be by gones needs to get the fuck out!!

and as to no help being sent, rescue workers are regularly told that the USA needs no help. They are the self-styled leaders of the free treaties if they dont fit, they station troops on allies soil in occupation. They listen in on our phone calls and electronic documents and place defence missile systems on thier soil only for the protection of the USA, making targets out of their allies, and STILL we stand united with America in it's time of need, it is right and

Yes, it is called Airbus, I believe the Fokker company also still builds planes as does British Aerospace. Britain also developed the what do you guys suggest a person is to do about 10 meter interlopers from outside the US borders and its territories? the majority of illegal stations i hear on 10 and 12 meters are spanish speaking people obviously from central and south america. until somebody can do something about them the band will never be totally interference free.

the signals comming from the US on 10 and 12 pale in comparison to the ones that are unreachable by the FCC and they know this as well so theyll never have the band like hams want it until these 3rd world countires agree to help which is likely to never happen

Some CB operators have moved into the frequencies which lie between the regular 40 channels and the 10 meter ham band. They refer to this as "freebanding". Often, you hear the effect of this as "splatter" into the lower portion of 10 Meters. Occasionally, you will hear one of these fellows attempt to "break in" on your QSO. Meanwhile, some trucking companies have adopted 28.085 as a "company channel". They use it as an intercom to get away from Channel 19. (See the FCC Enforcement Logs for details about how one trucker was by FCC).
In recent months, there has been a steady stream of letters pouring into the FCC offices from 10 Meter operators who want to be able to enjoy the band without interference from illegal stations.
If you are concerned about this, please become involved. Monitor and document illegal signals. If you locate the source, gather as much data as you can and forward it to Riley. Write to radio publications urging fellow amateurs to become supportive.
You either are a PLAYER or a VICTIM. In other words, you are helping direct matters, or you simply sit back and take whatever the players force upon you.
Don't roll over and play dead concerning 10 Meters! If you don't think the radio "terrorists" have their sights on taking over our band, stop by a CB radio shop and look at the frequency chart on the wall. The export radio manufacturers have designated "channels" every 10 KHz from 26MHZ all the way through the 10 Meter SSB band. And unlicensed people are buying these radios every day. If this doesn't get your attention, you should check your pulse!

He wants a letter writing campaign, I suggest one that begins with his admitted 10 meter radio operation on 11 meters identifying him as a PLAYER, not a victim. Well,

I haven't had time to do much posting since the last 2 days have been VERY busy. Rest assured that communications was VERY lively during the aftermath of the attack. Most of my time was spent on FEMA HF, local ARES VHF, and CAP, both HF and VHF. I won't post frequencies here since they can be read by anybody (Arab Terrorists), and it just isn't wise. Most of the frequencies are semi-secret anyway, but most can be found with a little research. I just know that many agencies, both professional and volunteer, did a very effective job of providing comms and coordinating their activities. Somebody mentioned 27.580? Not being critical, but I doubt much "traffic" would be passed there!

Coward? for speaking my mind. Thank you. I am Just this Guy, and if you had any idea of how to use the internet, as the NSA obviously does, that's the NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY of the United States of

Here's some more for them:

It WAS supposed to be common sense, but well, Fuck it. My phone s already tapped by the USA and in the event of nuclear war my house is Minister (who I didn't vote for) says we stand shoulder to shoulder

Actually, having one in your posession DOES constitute illegal use, if ANY other views show same.

IE: They see your ERP being higher than 4 watts plus your antenna's gain. They see you freebanding, and get a warrant to search, and find an amplifier in the radio room, but never having been hooked up

They search and inspect your station, and find a dusty area the same physical size as an amplifier that is also found on premises, even though their is no DE FACTO evidence that it has or is being used.

Any of the above reasons can constituate use of an amplifier in an illegal fashion.

Also, having an amplifier that is capable of operation above 15 meters, while NOT having a license for it's use, while having other transmitters capable of operation in same band, also constituate use illegally.

Just because it has the name Browning on it, doesn't mean it is a "Browning Laboratory" amplifier.

Although they did make some solid state equipment, if you can't find the telltale Browning logo and other info, it isn't real.

With the heightened military security in Washington and National Guard, Air Force patrols, etc. WHO IN THEIR RIGHT MIND would go to that city and key up unfiltered megawatt illegal transmitters????

Not only is this act a slap in the face to the US Government (of which the FCC is a part) your spurious signals could do great harm to military communications nets around the city.

Grow up. Put this crap aside. Suspend the keydowns for the duration.

Tim, are you retarded? The only reason why the USA would restrict hams such as they did in WWII is to make it easier to detect and prevent espionage. But in the modern world with cell phones, satellites, internet and global digital communications, radio is no longer the only method by which information can be moved.

But let's pretend for the moment....that the US asks citizens to suspend all radio transmissions. Are you saying that YOU would continue 'freebanding' therefore hindering the government's defense of the USA?

You contradict yourself big time by acknowledging you are being monitored. You have NO credibility with anyone here when you hide behind a fake ID and trash Sinclair's statement (which, by the way, was actually originally written in the early 70's) and since "they" already know who you are, why bother with the fake ID? The only person you are fooling is yourself.

1550. Seeking Information To Stop Washington DC Keydown

Newsgroup: rec.radio.cb

As some of you know, I feel that the "keydown" event planned for Washington DC on October 13 should be postponed for the duration and/or suspended entirely.

Military forces are in our Capitol to protect that city and its citizens. It would be a tragedy to hinder them and make their job harder. Harmonics from unfiltered megawatt CB amplifiers in use at the keydowns can possibly be heard on military and security comm systems. This is unacceptable.

Not only that, the thought of a group of outlaw radio operators happily breaking FCC law in the shadow of the Pentagon WHERE PEOPLE DIED IN SERVICE TO THEIR COUNTRY is utterly sickening.

After a few exchanges with "keydowners" in this newsgroup, I am convinced that they do not realize the potential idiocy of their actions and plan to go ahead with this event.

I am asking anyone who has pertinent information about where and when this keydown is being held and the identities of the organizers of it to send it to me at voobner@yahoo.com.

I promise that, much as I depise these individuals, I will NOT post this information in the newsgroup or anywhere on the net but I will forward it to the proper authorities where it will do some real good.

Thankyou.

The one who nobody is fooling is me.
The main reason I use an anonymous ID is so that reactionary people who have little or no grasp of geopolitic know who am, such as yourself.

I also do not run around with my ID card -printed on my t-shirt.

1. Because we don't have ID's
2.. I don't want every lunatic opposed to my views attacking me (do you see a parallel with current events?)
3. I can't stop the NSA from monitoring me, but I can stop idiots from filling my email inbox with hate mail. (do you get it yet?)

This discussion is now over.

Flying the plane is easy once it's in the air. Taking off and landing is the hard part. The Arab didn't have to worry over the hard part, he wasn't going to land.

With all the mini-superpowers on the side of the US in this one, maybe it's a good time to clean house.

1559. PLEASE: CANCEL Washington DC "Keydown" Event

This goes beyond the "illegal" issue. You keydowners KNOW that your equipment gernerates 'spurs' and 'splatter' well outside of 11 meters.
Take a look at these military tactical frequencies. Do you want to take even the CHANCE of interfering?

Cancel this event, please.

Steve Take a good look at who keeps perpetuating it, PhilC and a few other. Why can't they ignore the AKC, because they are just as bad if not worse.

"You are incorrect. It was your own card being played against you, now you cry foul. You are saying to ignore you? After all, you are an AKC, eidenced by your consistent and repeated use of the word "we", as to give the impression there were multiple more of you than you can actually summon. Same tactic Paulie Walnuts used, N8 used, AA used, and you use, etc."

"No man for any considerable period can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude, without finally getting bewildered as to which may be the true."

It is very simple to understand, all war will end over God's home land Israel. It is called the battle of Armageddon, it is written in the last book of the bible in revelation chapter 16 verse 16, When nations come upon Israel and God wipe's them out with one swipe of his hands.It is Gods will and it will come to past, read it yourself, if you believe in GOD then you should believe in his word.people need to call upon God.and get right with the LORD.....

Whats's a bog word?

Did you read my posts? or were you too busy being arrogant?

Even if you hate the rest of the world for daring to ever criticise suicidal American foreign policy, we will still support you.

Even if you resort to name-calling, we will still support you.

Even if you come from Dicksville Nebraska and have never been out of your country, and have no idea about anthing at all, we will still support you

Even if your nation has been sanctioning terrorist support groups (NORAID), we will still support you.

Even if you continue to station your unwanted troops on our soil,
we will still support you.

Even if you commission a lunatic non-working counterproductive missile system on our territory making our civilians your terrorist targets,
we will still support you.

Even if you post racist stereotypical dogma on your internet groups,
we will still support you.

We'll invoke article 5 of the NATO charter in your honour

We will play the American national anthem outside our seat of monarchy

We will have every flag in Britain at half-mast, as a sign of respect to you.

We will cancel our sporting events as a sign of respect

We will honour athree minute silence to honour the dead in New York and Washington

We will mourn the 100-500 British who died with their American colleagues in the WTC.

And what will you do?

Probably not even comprehend one single word of any of this at all,
and see it as some kind of attack.

We will still love you. :-) if we go to war and they rerestrict your rights for ham radio then what working the world and staying in touch like we citizens should Tim, are you retarded?

"Start right off with the compromising of your post by an insult, why don't you?"

The only reason why the USA would restrict hams such as they did in WWII is to make it easier to detect and prevent espionage. But in the modern world with cell phones, satellites, internet and global digital communications, radio is no longer the only method by which information can be moved.

"And, incidentally, why your wettest dream concerning freeband enforcement will never come true."

But let's pretend for the moment....

"For a moment? Why, that's all you have done since you made up your artificial name, is pretend. Pretend you have supporters. Pretend to be me and others that you revere. Pretend, that you are important. Pretend that people care about you or what you say. Pretend is all you know."

With the heightened military security in Washington and National Guard, Air Force patrols, etc. WHO IN THEIR RIGHT MIND would go to that city and key up unfiltered megawatt illegal transmitters????

"Ones that know radio better than you, apparently. You cannot cite one single example of what you profess "may" or "could" happen. Because it doesn't, hasn't, and won't."

Not only is this act a slap in the face to the US Government

(of which the FCC is a part) your spurious signals could do great harm to military communications nets around the city.
Grow up. Put this crap aside. Suspend the keydowns for the duration.

"Your post trying to equate a keydown with patrotism illustrates your ignorance as never before."

For those of you with either HF gear, or a shortwave radio, take a listen to 11.175 USB. This is one of the global U.S. military frequencies, and it's been pretty interesting lately.

And I am sure you will not be alone.
UK citizens watched with horror as the news appeared on our TVs. The horror, fear, and shock on the faces of all who were there will never be forgotten. Plenty of tears were shed on this side of the pond.

As British citizens are included among the dead, I am sure that the UK forces will want a piece of whoever carried out that terrible act.

Never admit any lack of knowledge to an inlaw. This would give them extra ammunition, which they will store for later use.

You don't really need a "booster". Your money could be better spent on a really good antenna, as this will also help your receive.
Most likely the "booster" refered to will be a linear amplifier, and it is illegal to use them on a CB.

If the truck system is 24 Volts, you may need a voltage "dropper" to supply 12 volts to the CB. Being in the UK, I am not sure if these are standard on trucks in your country. Maybe somebody can give this info.

I hope this helps.

It's a bit Ironic, your inlaw suggesting you become an outlaw... lol

I would love to know why you would want to overmodulate a signal.
The bottom half of your audio signal will be clipped, causing distortion.
Also, as the modulation (and sidebands created) will go further than the carrier, many people will get no carrier with which to demod your signal.
Would SSB not be a better choice (no "wasted" carrier).

However...

I see what the resistor and cap are for, but I do not have a diagram to be able to give a reference.
The circuit would be the AM modulator. Where the DC and Audio power are applied to the modulator, put a resistor and a capacitor in parallel. The resistor will allow some DC through for a minimal carrier, and the cap allows the audio to bypass the resistor.
On some radios it may be possible to reduce the power, and increase the mod with the internal pots, or a change of existing component values.

Personally, I think it sounds crazy - but if I had a cct diagram I could give you a point to place them.

Is there anything on the Galaxy website?
http://www.galaxyradios.com/

Regards,

Brainbuster.

I think you should get reported to the FBI and be investigated. The more noise you make convinces me you have something to hide. Right about now I doubt they will discount any lead they can get. So when they show up at your door, and pull on those latex rubber gloves, to give you a body cavity search, then you MAY have a complaint. 8-))

As far as NY and the WTC goes, nobody knows yet who all is involved. It may turn out that some US citizens may have helped. I would like to think not, but after what happen in Oklahoma when the federal building was destroyed by a bomb, and built by a couple of "home-grown" nut cases , it's possible. I'm sure the FBI is looking in to any tie-ins with domestic government hate groups to see what if any involvement make have taken place. We have enough of those home-grown yo-yo's without having to worry about the ones from the middle east.

Of course I am going to assume that you're some young and dumb squirt kid Moparholic. Because if you weren't then you would remember such domestic terrorist groups like the SDS, Black Panthers, Weathermen, SLA, and a bunch of other smaller groups that I can't even remember any more. All those groups were responsible for bank robberies and bombings back in the 60's. You don't hear about them nowadays because people have their blinders on, and want to forget we have had our share of "home-grown" terrorists for a good long time. We now have various "skin-head" Nazi groups, black hate groups like the KKK, and gun crazy government hate militia groups. It's time you pulled your head out of that dark hole in your backside Moparholic, the truth about our own home-grown terrorist problems is not pretty, but it's the truth never the less.

By the way you seem to be the type who would own one of those white pointed hoods with the matching white pull-over poncho. I bet you wear it to those nice group get togethers in the woods, where everybody gathers around those big bond fires to stay warm, while watching somebody give an inspirational speech.

1614. AM, Swing, and dx88hl

Newsgroup: rec.radio.cb

From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>

Having gotten a bit rough about what was a really preposterous attempt to use an RC delay to obtain 'swing', it is probably time to bore the shit out of the group again (Regulars: nothing new here) and babble about AM, Amplitude Modulation, Antique Modulation, or Ancient Mary as the spirit moves.

In the real old days, it was thought that what the pre-WW1 guy who first plugged a carbon mike into the key jack of his two-tube MOPA having liberated the mike from the nearest phone booth was varying the amplitude of a carrier, hence the name. It worked well enough to broadcast farm prices from 9XM in Madison WI in 1916, the first AM station in the US. When broadcasting was wrested out of the hands of the Navy in 1921, Westinghouse's KDKA got the first license and 9XM became WHA. The technique of AM moved rapidly but the theory lagged a bit.

A name in Electronics every hobbyist should know was Edwin Armstrong among whose contributions was the regenerative detector, FM (originally in the 44-56 MHz band), and the superhetrodyne receiver. Hetro means different. The basis of the superhet is to use a variable tuner that converts everything to an 'intermediate frequency' or i.f. where the main receiver gain and selectivity can be obtained a lot easier than trying to tune everything. With Armstrong and some others, the idea of 'hetrodyning' or mixing or detecting (same thing) became a bit more known outside of engineering schools.

When analyzed, what is happening is not amplitude modulation as such but the mixing of audio with an r.f. signal to produce sidebands at rf + audio freqs and rf - audio freqs. Yes, the total amplitude varied from 100 to 150% of the rf amplitude but it was the sidebands that carried the info. The carrier did not carry a blessed thing nor did its amplitude change at all. As it happens, the 150% level was the maximum because any attempt to go beyond it causes a transmitter to attempt to produce negative power at peaks. In general, mixers be they transmitter finals, mixers in receivers, product detectors, or even the standard diode AM detector follow the rule that one input signal must be 2/3 of the total power in the mixer although not everything need appear in the output. All measurements RMS, spare me peak-reading meters.

A French mathematician named Fourier proved that any silly-looking waveform could be broken down to some combination of a frequency and its multiples (harmonics). Distorting a waveform results in the generation of these multiples and trying for more than 150% is one hell of a distortion when the bottom of the signal disappears. And if perchance you could (there are ways to do it on positive peaks only) you would find that the diode detectors would distort because they follow the 2/3 rule as well. Face it, there is no way to get 10 lbs of manure into a 5lb bag and things get dirty if you try.

A diode detector is a mixer, rectification is a by-product. The sidebands are bounced off the carrier, the resulting rf is by-passed to ground and voila! the audio is recovered. There is usually a second diode in the vicinity that does play rectifier using the signal to produce a voltage really useful for S meters and controlling the gain of the rf and if stages. This was called AVC or Automatic Volume Control but is more generically called AGC (gain control) and is the method behind the ALC on good linear amps. It is commonly used in the mike amp circuits of CB rigs to reverse the idiocy of power mikes and to 'compress' the audio range -- more later.

The search for 'talk power' is a continuous one and has gone thru several iterations in AM circles before AM was effectively abandoned for non-broadcast and non-hobby applications (VHF aircraft is a special case) and was outlawed in 1972. Standard techniques included eliminating voice freqs that did nothing for communication (which the old carbon mikes did rather well), emphasizing useful voice freqs, and cutting down the abysmal average-to-peak ratio of the human voice, usually in the 1:4-5 range. In modern equipment, this done by using another old idea of Armstrong's (and why FM is quiet) called a limiter. A limiter is an amp that outputs essentially the same output over a wide range of inputs. At one extreme it is a so-called Brick Wall limiter that mercilessly cuts audio peaks to a softer one that allows the DJs or Preachers to scream, holler, wave their arms, cue records, or scratch their butts without the audience being the wiser. The use of limiting will raise the ratio from about 20-25% to 50 fairly easily and 70 in the broadcast biz.

POINT #1: Power mikes are crap in principle. They may have some improvement if the level is kept low enough because the process discriminates against bass freqs.

POINT #2: Cutting the limiter is rank stupidity. Not only does it allow the 2/3 rule to be violated generating spurious crap but it actually lowers talk power.

Back in the late 30s in broadcast and ending in the 50s when SSB swept the ham bands there was a technique used to save electric power, drive tubes beyond limits, and remove coins from those who still believed that Amplitude Modulation meant directly varying amplitude. If someone actually believes that the difference between dead key and peak output somehow represents audio there are bridges waiting to be sold.

In general, these techniques fall under the heading of Controlled Carrier. They have also been called SuperModulation, Taylor Modulation, and are now called 'swing'. The idea is to use only the level of carrier at an instant of time needed to mix the audio at the moment in time. Carried to extremes, you get a really swingy signal but the max output is still the same as before (or less if you generate crap) and at all points below max. What does happen is that the AVC in the receiver is faked out for an instant and you sound 'louder'. This works only when you are in control of the receiver

AVC; in a pileup you are SOL. As you are likely to test with friends, none will tell you that they reached for the volume control instinctively and when they got it to where you could be understood you sounded like crap. Swing will make you about as popular as a case of BO. Shortwave stations found this out years ago.

POINT #3: Swing is a big moneymaker but a bad idea.

Which brings us to the last and final point.

POINT #4: Radio is about communication, not winning meter-reading contests. If you know anything, you will test your amp with a low-pass filter installed in the line before the meter, check for spurious crap, and not take the word of the guy at the truck stop as gospel.

Bomb them into the stone ages. I must say at the risk of someone calling me a nazi or a jew calling me an anti -semite(sp?)This entire issue revolves around the fact that we support Israel as they import people from around the world and force Palestinians out of their homes.I think if someone forced me off my land and treated me the way the Israelis treat them I would rebel.Don't think I am justifying terrorism,just another angle of thought.

Actually, having one in your posession DOES constitute illegal use, if ANY other views show same.

IE: They see your ERP being higher than 4 watts plus your antenna's gain.
They see you freebanding, and get a warrant to search, and find an amplifier in the radio room, but never having been hooked up

They search and inspect your station, and find a dusty area the same physical size as an amplifier that is also found on premises, even though their is no DE FACTO evidence that it has or is being used.

Any of the above reasons can constituate use of an amplifier in an illegal fashion.

Also, having an amplifier that is capable of operation above 15 meters, while NOT having a license for it's use, while having other transmitters capable of operation in same band, also constituate use illegally.

Interesting,
I remember reading and seeing documentaries concerning the black panthers. I don't recall them being linked to bank robberies or bombings as a organization. I do recollect that some individuals, when it was broken up by the FBI were accused of such activities.
I also remember seeing that the were heavily active in community charities, but of course that might be construed as militant.

Hello & Good Evening JJ,
Of course not, but that is their wish. I see that you don't approve, how come? I don't have any radio equipment up and running at the moment, but because I have and said I might in the future, I have been labeled a supporter of illegal. Is that a bad thing?
Does that make me any less knowledgeable then the next person?

Patrick, What you are describing is a linear amplifier or linear for short or Amp.
They are illegal on CB's but that's all I'll say about that. You can find them around.
Listen to Channel 19. Truckers are always selling stuff. Just make them show you that it works. Be forewarned. If you install an amplifier and you haven't tuned your antenna properly you could damage your radio. Pick up an SWR meter from a local Radio Schack (!) or find one at a local truck stop or radio shop. You may spend $10-15 bucks for one. Then read how to use it and test your radio setup to see how well your CB is matched to your antenna.
Once this is dialed in then you may consider if you want to try an amplifier. You may just have a bad match now and with some tuning of the antenna (shorten the top of the antenna or add length if needed, some have an allen wrench lock down and some you just clip wire or add a little to the end) you could be just fine.
Be prepared to be flamed by all the Old Men hams on this newsgroup. They hunt this board with shotguns, looking for posters like you. Hell withem.
Good luck

Hey Patrick,
Dont let these "Hambones" give ya too much BS. They are right that Linears are against FCC rules to run but who gives a shit too. You can buy mobile linears off the net cheap and Ozark is right about having your Antenna right. If your SWR's are high then they will go higher with power. Match your radio with your antenna first and if you are running a radio with any ass at all look into buying a high drive but if not just get a linear that requires a 2-4 watt dead key and Match your radio to it or have someone do it for you if you cant.......David Heath

I understand that freedom of speech extends to the internet and beyond, but... what was the point of writing this message? Do you seek to downplay the hurt and devistation of tuesday with events from the US military's past?
Please, if you feel you need to celebrate this tragedy as a triumph in the eyes of people the US has hurt in the past, please celebrate it to yourself.
By and large, people around the world see these acts of horror soely as that, horrific acts of violence. Let us grieve for those people that are victims of this event, don't try to downplay what has happened.
Thanks

The Soviets tried that, remember? Ten years and tens of thousands of dead Soviet soldiers and they got thumped. Do you think the US has the stomach for a protracted ground war? Nope.

yes underground,now is the time, and it the most important decision you will ever make in your life,yet it is the easiest decision to make.All you have to do is ask for forgiveness of your sins, confess with your mouth that JESUS CHRIST is lord and savior and live with CHRIST in your heart , everyone will eventually do this anyways either dead or alive, to receive salvation you must do it alive, bible states (every knee shall bow and tongue confess that JESUS CHRIST is lord, GOD BLESS.....

Why should we have ties with Israel anyway? They are NOT good allies. They continue to use too much force against the Palestinians, exascerbating the conflict. Ariel Sharon has been lobbying for the release of Jonathan Pollard, who spied on the US for Israel. Good allies don't do that. Not to mention Israel's transfer of military technology to China and North Korea.....

We are not living in the past dipshit. This is the present and what those maniacs did to the USA will not go unpunished! If we need to go to war to prove we wont stand for this then thats exactly what we need to do. Anything less will not cut it!!
But for now we need to put all of our efforts in praying for the victims and their families.....David

By and large people of the world do see it as a horrific acts of violence, and that did not downplay it a bit. It tried to make you think a bit beyond knee-jerk reaction, and to put it in a wider context then "bomb the fuckers to the stone age". It obviously failed.

My memory is a bit sketchy but I think I remember several members of the Black Panthers were arrested for violent crimes committed to further their cause. The group may have since changed for the better, but in the beginning they were right up there with our other domestic terrorist groups. You have to be careful what you hear nowadays on TV and Radio. Everything is over shadowed by that constant censor called P/C (Politically Correct) view point. We can't have anybody or any group shown in a bad light, even if it's the truth, because it hurts their feelings.

Thanks guys! I had forgotten that people rarely understand Chomsky and usually misunderstand him. Your response actually proves his argument about a missle defense system.

To put it another way: Who would decide which commercial aircraft are 'off-course' or deemed a 'threat'? Would you fly in the united states if the government could arbitrarily decide that a minority of citizens [passengers] were expendable?

Hello Leland,
Well I was watching PBS and they did say that they walked in to the state capitol to protest with military weapons, but at that time it was legal to carry a firearm.
They also provided free health care clinic, daycare centers, food kitchens. I think that scared the politicians more than anything.

What's a matter old man, always with the insults, never any information that concern's about 3 weeks ago. Some 278 posts, all insulting

Keith, are you sure of this? A search on Google does not show this to be true. Defend QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF if you want. From your past messages on this group you advocate following all the FCC rules, no modified CB equipment, etc... and I respect that. You post those opinions under you real name instead of the cowardly approach that QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF takes. For someone who is always pointing out right and wrong to others, QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF sure doesn't have any problem resorting to underhanded techniques himself. QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF cannot have it both ways. Not anymore at least.

Yeah I know about Dow Chemical in Midland Michigan. Now think about a jumbo jet, leaving Metro Airport, making the short 10 minute flight to Monroe just to the south of us in Detroit, and crashing in to the Fermi II nuke power plant located on the shore of the lake. We would be glowing in the dark for the next 10,000 years in lower Michigan, and everything along the shores of Lake Erie would be contaminated. They don't have to crack the reactor containment vessel, or wreck the reactor controls, just bust open the storage building where the spend fuel rods are stored would be enough.

There are far to many dangerous targets on the ground that can kills thousands by simply crashing a big jet in to them like the WTC towers in NY city.

Not true.

Any amplifier that was still being made, and had a production waiver granted by the FCC was still able to be manufactured after that date, albeit in some cases with modifications installed at factory.

Don't spread misinformation.

Aaron,

Get a frequency list from the last 30 years, and you will find that most of those listed are either abandoned, or reallocated to other use.

The military uses spread spectrum technology almost exclusively now, counteracting any of the supposed problems you believe our amplifiers cause.

Again, for the last year, Aaron proves he is a dolt.

I do not think that the intention is to downplay what has happened.
It is one of the worst atrocities committed on humanity and the world would have been better off without it. I had friends working in the Trade Center who luckily escaped by the skin of their teeth. In order to make sure that such an event does not happen in the future, one has to really think out the reasons why this happened. At least part of the reason is atrocities committed by the US in different middle eastern countries in the last 20 years. It is important to be careful not to repeat the mistakes of the past. If today the US goes and just bombs Afghan civilian targets (like in Sudan in 1998), numerous innocent people will die. Think about the child who sees his father a peasant die in front of his eyes when an american bomber plane bombs his neighbourhood. Inevitably, some people will escape. This child more likely than not will enrol in another terrorist camp to avenge the death of his innocent father. As much as the "nuke them all" camp likes to think, you cannot really nuke them all, without turning it into another world war, even then you cannot get them all.
Rest assured, they will come back to haunt you in 10 more years.
Violence begets violence. On the other hand you cannot let the terrorists go scott free. The appropriate response is to understand that flawed foreign policies result in large domestic casualties and change them and to "attack" the terrorists and regimes that harbour them with a carefully thought out plan. Blanket bombing of Afghanistan will almost surely not kill Bin Laden or the Taliban but just create more enemies but intelligent operations can get them all.

And oh yes, it would do a world of good to take out all terrorist operations before they come to haunt you, instead of only getting Bin Laden. Imho the Taleban and the Pakistani terrorist camps are a greater threat than bin laden. If you take out the safe havens running such operations will be harder. The point is that it is not easy to find and eliminate such operators, so intelligent operations are needed. It is pointless to eliminate pharmaceutical factories while the real terrorists are untouched.

Maybe it failed because it's a bullshit sentiment from some ultra left-wing pacifist? I've seen reference to this article and a couple of others all over the internet and when I first read the articles themselves, I was half expecting them to start calling the president and generals from WWII war criminals for attacking Germany.

Where do you draw the line?

I understand that you're angry, we all are, but there's one thing you are missing here: The attacks have been conducted by people who lived a normal life, in the US and Europe. They are married, go to work, it might be one of your friends, the postman or the waiter in your favorite restaurant. And, there are still others living among us until someone 'wakes' them up, maybe even after years. We have just learned that those 'sleepers' are able to kill hundrets or thousands of people by turning a jet into a weapon with minimal resources: a flight training and a knife. That's new and it's frighting and it will change the world. Every little fundementalist group in the world, islamic and others, could have this potential and you won't be able to kill them all. I think, those in charge should very well consider this before starting any kind of reaction...Again, this will change politics, it will change the world.

I had a Uniden Grant XL in my pickup for the past four years and it worked great with a Wilson 1000. I removed the radio and antenna about four months ago and they were stored on a shelf in a clean garage without any climate control.

I put the radio back in the truck a few days ago. It recieves perfectly all the time but won't always transmit. Sometimes when you key the mic the red TX light comes on but the meter drops to zero.

I checked the connection of the mic to the radio and it was fine. Last night I opened the radio and the mic but found no loose wires and both were clean inside. BTW I bought the radio new, it has a stock mic, and this is the first time I've opened it. I cleaned the switch on the mic with contact cleaner and put it back together. No difference.

After trying a few different things, I found that when the radio won't transmit, if you rotate the channel selector up a few clicks and then back to your original channel it will work right for a while.

Should I open the radio again and clean the channel selector, or is it something else?

I'll bet you your phone is tapped, and you're under surveillance even as you plug away at your keyboard.

Now here is a story to make your anonymous hide feel all warm and fuzzy.

http://www.cnn.com/2001/TECH/internet/09/13/fbi.isps/index.html

---
(CNN) -- Major Internet Service Providers (ISPs) in the United States said Thursday they are cooperating with federal authorities in the investigation of the terrorist attack on New York and Washington.

The FBI served EarthLink with a search warrant to gather electronic information relating to national security, said Dan Greenfield, spokesperson for the Atlanta, Georgia-based ISP.

"We received on Tuesday an FISA order," said Greenfield, referring to the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, which provides guidelines for certain kinds of secret investigations of the FBI, CIA, the National Security Agency and a handful of other federal organizations.

"You cannot necessarily make the assumption that it was around events on Tuesday," Greenfield added. "We are cooperating with the FBI and other officials on any assistance they need," he said, declining to elaborate.

Representatives of many top ISPs said that their companies had been working with U.S. authorities in the wake of the hijackings and air assault Tuesday. But none gave any specifics.

"We have been approached by investigators. We did cooperate and provided information that was requested," said Nicholas Graham, a spokesperson for America Online, based in Dulles, Virginia.

"We routinely cooperate with authorities, from the local to the state to the national level. This investigation is no different," he said.

Alison Bowan of Excite@Home said that the Redwood City, California-based ISP was been in contact with federal law enforcement agents.

"I can't elaborate on which branch. We are cooperating fully based on the law on our policies," she said.

Use of 'Carnivore?
Greenfield said EarthLink did not install any so-called "Carnivore" boxes on its servers, which the FBI uses to monitor electronic correspondences of suspected criminals.

Likewise, other ISPs said that they did not use the Carnivore system. Greenfield and other ISP reps hastened to add that their companies were adhering to internal guidelines that protect the privacy of their subscribers.

The FBI, as is its custom, declined to confirm or comment on the investigation. But one U.S. government official said that they "were not ruling out any legal investigative techniques right now."

Early Tuesday, hijackers took control of four commercial airliners. Within the span of an hour, two crashed into the World Trade Center twin towers, one slammed into the headquarters of the U.S. military, and another went down in rural Pennsylvania. Some believe that the last aircraft had an intended target in Washington, D.C.

Federal authorities said Thursday that they had identified at least 18 people who took part in the hijackings, some from Arab nations in the Middle East.

Even your ISP will rat you out to the Feds if they think you had anything to do with what happen. You can't hide behind your keyboard Moparholic. THEY KNOW WHO YOU ARE!

How quickly could one determine a flight is off course? You are aware, I hope, that passive radar is relatively obsolete. Airplanes use transponders nowadays. Switching off the transponder simply makes the plane 'vanish' from the radar. Is it a failure of the transponder or a hijacked airliner? How quickly do (can) you respond?

The original message about 'atrocities' committed by the US simply ignores the attacks the US has suffered overseas. If a loose cannon were loose in the White House, you might see a few missiles loosed towards the guilty area - not a reasonable response in a civilized world. Unfortunately, I feel that the U.S. no longer has much choice other than to undertake a massive invasion of any country proven (beyond reasonable doubt) to be harboring people responsible for the deaths of many thousands. This will probably involve a house by house, building by building search - which means (likely) sniper fire - which means a response such as a rocket launcher. My guess is that no one has seen anything yet. This has to be stopped - now - before more countries in the civilized world suffer such fates. We have seen Lockerby - and others. Until we are all safe, none are safe. This will likely be a war and an invasion of one or more countries. This, unfortunately, will result in civilian deaths - yet will HAVE to happen. The evil MUST end.

I thought that you could still be detected on radar even with the transponder off..
only you couldnt get important specifics such as altitude, flight path etc..??????

Watch yourself! The last I heard over 200 fire, police etc. personnel are missing when the two towers collapsed. I would hate for you to end up that way.

I hope Bush has been reviewing those nuke release codes. I think the time has come to show some dirty buggers what "Terrorism" really is when there is no place to hide from our bomb. Enough is enough, press that big red button and lets see if it really works!

People think it's that rich Arab terrorist. I don't think it is. My money is on Iraq. They have access to trained pilots, both military and civilian, who could have flown those jets easy. Given their past ability to get material for their military programs secretly, planing the kind of attack we saw today would not be beyond them.

Iraq also has a bone to pick with Bush, the older one, over the Gulf War. That would explain the attack on the Pentagon, and the apparent attempt to crash a jet on Camp David. That would please the Iraqi leadership to no end if they could kill the son, now our current president, of the former US president whose military still occupies Iraqi soil and beat the crap out of the Iraqi army.

Regardless of who it is, I had a thought, all the assholes that we can aprehend, hold them in a secure area until we are ready to redesign the landscape of the contry this originated from. Then we strap the bastards to the bombs "you want to deliver boms? here deliver this one". Show it live on CNN ect. let the other terrorists what we do to people who fuck with us.

Civilian ATC radar gives a primary response even if the xponder is off.
It only has azimuth information, no ID or altitude. Military radars will also track altitude.

That "convoy" song was in a movie called "Convoy". I have no idea how old it is. I'd like to find that movie on dvd or vhs but nobody seems to have it, or have heard of it. I remember seeing it on tv a few times years ago. Anybody know where I can get a copy of it?

Hi,

I have a Superstar 3900 and want to do the peak & tweak mod.

1. Replace R174 (10k) with a 1 K
2. Replace R187 (10k) with a 1 K

MODULATION: VR14 or cut R249
AM POWER: VR13
SSB POWER: VR12

Should I cut R249 or take out VR14? Which is better?
The AM power it means to take out VR13, right?

Thanks

No, it means to adjust VR13, 12, 14, etc...

Maybe you should take the radio to a qualified tech who actually owns an oscilloscope and knows how to use it...

You might be happier with the results.

Randy, the only reason why it was "delayed" was because of the transportaton problems, not out of respect for anyone. Mr. LS454SS70 (NOName) is intent on selling more of his illegal goods, despite the crisis.

True Story

In March 2000 Kevin Uliassi was attempting a solo flight around the world in a balloon. I was on the ground crew and responsible primarily for position plotting and web site updates. About 8 days into the flight it seemed that he would fly across southern Afghanistan. Since US has no diplomatic relations with the Taliban it was impossible even to ask for overflight clearance. Of course, a balloon doesn't steer too well either.

So our flight director called the State Department. We were told that "they have Migs" and wouldn't hesitate to shoot down the balloon.
"How high is he flying?" said the guy at State. "29,000ft".

"They have no radar" said State. "The only way they know he's coming is if you tell them".

So for 10 hours we stopped position reporting on the web site due to "server problems". When the server came back up he had passed Afghanistan and was over Pakistan.

Hey, Mr. "If There's No Keydown How Will I Sell My Illegal Amps?"...

You want people to believe that the owners of these 10,000 watt illegal transmitters NEVER test them before (or after) the "competition"?

You think we're stupid?

20 miles north of DC? There are military installations up there too, you idiot.

Directional? Do you think your megawatt signals STOP when they reach the "watergate"?

What you are doing is illegal.

You are breaking federal law.

You are endagering military and rescue communications.

Your selfish actions are an insult to those who died.

Since your excuse is 'everyone's doin it, no one's gettin caught' you are no better than looters.

No.
We all need to stand together. We need those who support the IRA to see that the IRA are no better than any other terrorist group. The IRA have murdered many innocent people, including children.

We must stand together against ALL terrorist organisations. There should be no hiding place for any terrorists.
The phrase "but they are not attacking us" is no excuse. Terrorism attacks the democratic system that both British and American people have fought for. Terrorists believe that guns and bombs should replace the vote and freedom.

Any one of us could be next, and who knows what kind of attack will be used.

Its a chicken and egg thing. Why do you think up to 24 guys were willing to kill themselves to take out america's symbols of commerce and defence? They didn't just wake up one day and say "Hey what the hell lets go kill ourselves and a whole bunch of other people." They have grievances - a long history of grievances against the west stretching back to...well as far as you like...the crusades...the destruction of the ottoman empire, etc,
etc.

Not that I would suggest for one second their grievances justify what they did. The thing is to short-circuit the violence, otherwise anything the US does is just going to raise another army of suicide bombers.

Another half-baked cruise missile attack is pointless. They either need to send in the FBI arrest Bin Ladin (if it really was him) and totally avoid any collateral damage or they need to go in with a sledge hammer and so totally destroy anyone who has anything to do with terrorism that it will take generations for them to get back to strength.

And maybe nothing the US does will make any difference. It is really hard to see anything but negatives coming out of whatever action they take, and that is why we need to understand everything we can about the terrorists and their motivations before the west acts. Otherwise instead of stopping the violence we will just accelerate it.

As to Germany, if the allies had acted with restraint like Wilson wanted them to at the end of WWI there might never have been a WWII. The Versai treaty was the foundation stone for WWII.

I'd prefer a softly softly approach whose main concern was to prevent future bombings than to get "revenge" in this case, otherwise we'll just be setting fire to the souls of another generation of potential suicide bombers.
If we go in hard and without due consideration the horrific scenes of NY and Washington will assuredly be repeated.

cheers,

Baden

Nothing illegal about it, real or potential. Speech processing covers a multitude of sins from volume compression to frequency discrimination all of which are standard practice. Radios from the 70s used both as did their FM counterparts on the Marine and Amateur freqs. BC stations are processed beyond belief. Newer versions do it digitally with great effect, something like Brittney Spears singing (?) voice.

I wouldn't have a clue just what the SP-1A does or how it does it -- most likely someone's old proprietary chip. Whatever it does or however it does it it is one hell of an improvement over power mikes, limiter clipping, and 'swang'.

A palpable hit, my friend.

Implicit in Bush's seeking of support around the world to stop terrorism is American action to stop financial support from the US to the IRA.

He may not realise this little point yet, but seeing as he's asked France, Canada and other countries to destroy known cells of insurgents in those countries, I think this little fact about the IRA might be politely mentioned.

,TOO BAD THEY DIDNT KNOW THAT BEFORE THEY SPENT 1 BILLION DEVELOPING STEALTH TECHNOLOGY.I DIDNT KNOW WE HAD STEALTH 747 PASSENGER PLANES!!!! look here dummy...switching off the transponder only turns off the planes ability to report its vector,heading,altitude etc...not its relative position.and by the way,planes have radios,a plane that goes off course,and wont answer the

i dont understand why some of you are so afraid to have a missile defense system? defense???get it?? not offensive system.a defensive system shouldnt ruffle anybodys feathers.we shouldnt have to ask for permission to defend our selve either.isnt that silly....hey mister russian....can i pleeeees have the permission to protect my own....pleeeees????some say it wont work.well.....weve come a long way since the sixties buddy,most scientists already agree its very do-able...it just requires the will to do so.remember,this is america...weve been pretty good over the last 200 years at getting shit done and making it work when we want to.....one last thing,some say it wont get all the missiles that come in.....well....lets say that (1) 20 -megaton device will vaporize 10 million people.....and lets say that 10 missiles are fired.....and 9 get through.....and 90 million people are vaporized.....but you save 10 million people. 10 million saved. .....10 MILLION SAVED.....SOUNDS WORTHWHILE TO ME.

Doesn't western europe count as the west anymore? It always has in any history book I ever read. The west didn't come into being when the first shipload of pilgrims hit north america you know. Western civilisation is just a tad older than that.

True, we are not the Soviets but that makes little difference. Don't get me wrong, I want to see the people who are responsible for the horror in NYC and DC to swing as much as anyone but Afghanistan is a tough nut to crack and a protracted ground war will be fraught with death on both sides. I don't doubt this country's resolve but it's not going to be like Iraq.

First off, no one, NO ONE has taken Afghanistan since Alexander the Great and he was passing through-he didn't try to hold it. The British tried and couldn't-not for long in any case (much of their control was based on payoffs to the local chiefs) -beyond the Kyber Pass-it was really in the hands of the local Badmashi. The British retreat out of Afghanistan in the early 1840's is a testimonial to how tough the land is -especially during a Winter campaign- and how advantageous it is for defenders or for guerilla ops. The Soviet campaigns in the early 80's speaks for itself.

Second, the terrain is NOT Iraq-it is more akin to the Rockies and the locals know the ground. We don't.

Third, unlike Iraq, the locals are mostly armed with nothing larger than carry stuff which means our satellites are going to not have much to look at and predict what is going to be where so we can hit it.

Fourth, (just a guess) but at minimum I would say three helicopter borne infantry divisions for a start with as many people in support and it's feasible that we will have Kabul and the immediate surrounding area but, still-we will take casualties.

Fifth, we are capable of taking Kabul and toppling their government but still, prying the locals out of the hills will not be like Iraq.

Again-I do not doubt America's resolve not do I doubt the abilities of our armed forces but I do doubt that an Afghan winter offensive will be anything at all like Iraq.

Finally, if there is a place called hell, it is reserved for those who brought death and destruction to New York and Washington.

Well, ya know -- I think that western Europe could still be considered the western world. Especially if you're referring to the middle ages, from the point of view of the middle east. Just a thought there. We're not the ONLY west out there.

The whole point of what Chomsky had to say is that we are most definitely living in the results of past actions. Only a "dipshit" would charge ahead with a kneejerk reaction without thinking about how past kneejerk reactions have brought us to where we are today. Don't be one of those dipshits.

Hum, "faggish games" I've never accused you of such an action. But yet, you accuse me, Twist, Mopar, Train, David, Toll etc etc, anyone that has voiced an opposition to what you might have posted, with no proof at all. You post one thing, but then show your true hypocritical ways by saying the exact opposite, so virtually anything you post should be taking with a grain of salt. Just like illegal operation of radio's and use of linears, you cry about what a "bunch of illegals" people are that use them, but you yourself are just as guilty as anyone else.
So in closing, you should step back, take a long hard look at what limited time you have left on this earth, and reflect on really what a grumpy, hypocritical, lying, old man you really are.

IMHO,

My My my, is that what you have been relegated too?
throwing insults? You must really be grasping or just so upset, that is the best you have to offer.
It really must be sad to grow old, A ham operator since 1978, and the only thing you can do is throw accusation and insults at people, it is a sad thing today.
How's your Swr today? Have you had your Metamucil today?

You must not make, or have made, any internal modifications to a type-accepted CB transmitter. (*read Rule 25) Any internal modification to a type-accepted CB transmitter cancels the type-acceptance, and use of such a transmitter voids your authority to operate the station.

Denial of reality. Posts exist in this NG from people who say rescue comms were/are interfered with by outlaw CBers.

You got it wrong. Let me make it simple for you. I say DEFYING federal law by putting illegal multi-KW transmitters on the airwaves is PUBLIC DISRESPECT to our country - especially at this time of crisis.

Could be a number of things. Probably a cold solder joint on a regulator or final.

It's something else (because the TX/RX light turns red).
Tighten all the screws that hold the board to the chassis and redo all the solder joints on the parts that bolt to the chassis as well as the PLL chip and all the stuff in that area. If that doesn't work, get a service manual and check the TX voltages in the AM regulator and TX RF chain areas.

The glee in this last remark takes the gloves created by respect for the innocent dead off. How can you be so excited about adding to them?

Embrace violence of the sort that created this mess, yeah. Ignore basic history from one of America's greatest intellectuals (yes, Mr Chomski), and with it the chance to learn the odd lesson, pull your heads out of the sand. Prefer to believe that America is a peaceful nation (you've been fighting between two and four wars at a time since 1990), and that this assault came out of nowhere.

America is enormously powerful. It has the power to grant the terrorists their wish, and start world war three, where they can finally unite the islamic world against the west (believe me, the Islamic world as a whole would prefer to avoid this, but world war one started in a similar fashion). America also has the power to spare the world this fate. I say this unequivocally, as a man with children: if world war three starts over this, it will be the fault of the US. They had all the choices. They will have given a fanatical fringe element exactly what they want, and sucked us all into something terrible as a result. So ignore history. Let the violence begin. Insult people who disagree with you, all in the name of freedom and righteous anger. Please let Bush's advisors be smarter than this.

Now back to your recklessness.

I have never seen such immature discussion anywhere, more so than I have in this newsgroup. There's immaturity with repetitive posts of accusations of lying, whiners who continuously call others name and whiners who think they are the airwave police and accuse many of illegal acts. This country has been hit with a major crisis. It should make most people realize their problems are "nothing" compared to the problems which the president and the people of NY are facing..

Do you whiners drive in traffic and threaten all speeders on the road? Do you make sure everyone is wearing their seatbelts? Do you hang out at the banks to stop bank robbers? How about going to the airports and stop terrorists from hijacking planes. People are breaking the laws everyday and we can't stop them all. You can warn someone that what they are doing is wrong, and if they continue, then report them and ignore them. The rest is handled by the FCC, or the city police, or FBI, etc. and they will determine if the act is illegal or not. But you whining, crying, fighting and calling names like a spoiled baby shows your true character.

You can't get along with everyone, that's a fact. Therefore, don't associate yourself with them. Until they have a direct impact on your life, ignore them. In other words, Grow up.

SP1 is legal, however, it is open to the interpretation of the law.

Part 97 states that you may not use anything that changes or alters the transmitted quality of the modulation. This means ANYTHING other than a stock, non-processed microphone is illegal.

However, it would take you REALLY pissing someone off to get them to bust you for a speech processor.

Make DAMN SURE you have a audio low pass filter after the speech processor if your going to run it wide open or at high levels on AM. The splatter that they can cause when improperly adjusted is amazing.

With the questions your asking, it is plainly obvious that you know little to nothing about electronics.

As such, I suggest you take your radio to a shop, and have them do what you want to it. You will be happier with the results. You don't just tune for max smoke, and hope your radio holds together. Find a GOOD shop, and you will have a GOOD radio that works well.

Maybe he wants to modify it to cover 10 meters, or 12 meters, you idiot.

Their are LEGAL reasons to modify CB radios, you moron. MARS / CAP use frequencies available by a decently modified CB radio.

And amateurs have been modifying SSB rigs to 10 meters almost as long as CB radio has been around.

Don't be so quick to jump all over other people just because you DON'T know the full facets of what they are talking about.

Actually Bill, it sounds more like something that is happening in the Frequency Synthesizer, since he can move the channel selector a few channels either direction and it comes back.

I would touch up all connections in the area of the MB8719 chip. If that doesn't fix your problem, then take it to someone who knows the chassis and can touch your VCO up.

Also, try SSB and AM. Could be you have a bad switching transistor in the AM area. Sometimes AM will die on those radios, and SSB will work fine. However, that doesn't fit the bill 100%, since like you said, when you move channels around, it starts working again.

Switching off the transponder DOES NOT make an aircraft 'vanish' from radar. When the transponder is switched off all ATC sees is just a blip with no identification. When the transponders were switched off, the aircraft deviated from their flight plans, and ATC could not raise any communications, that should have spelled hijack in big red letters in ATC. We see another failure in air traffic safety because of the lackadaisical attitude that has been the norm for the FAA for quite some time now.

More pacifists bull crap. I guess you just want to set around and do nothing until your children are murdered by another attack by these radical extremist? They only understand violence and the only way to respond to them is in kind. Violence is all they understand. You cannot reason with unreasonable people. You think the attacks on the WTC and the Pentagon were bad, you haven't seen anything yet unless the one behind Ben Laden and the terrorist are killed, and that would be Saddam Hussein.

"On the contrary. Your posts serve only to reiterate what I, and my friends, have always maintained:

A) That your irrelevant excursions into personal attacks undermind anything else you may profess, radio related or not.

B) That your posts constitute little more than ad hominem attacks, are irrelevant and serve only your selfish agendas intended to obscure your juvenile ways and inability to hold an intelligent, unbiased conversation.

C) That your unsupported claims simply extinguish any and all credibility you profess to hold, your licensure as an amateur in 1978 notwithstanding. These reasons alone stand as testimony as to why you ultimately fail in all you do and say. Not unlike the Midas touch in extreme reverse.

What I don't know about ATC would fill volumes but I recall a story of an Air Canada 757 when they were new and the fuel guages did not work. Canada had gone metric so the guy dipping the tanks (legal, fuel guages are not required) converted to kiligrams and left the plane with half the fuel load for Toronto-Vancouver. When it ran out over Manitoba and the electrics stopped, the propellor-generator gizmo lowered out of the nose did not do a whole lot and the transponder failed. This resulted in the plane dropping off radar on five of six radars at Winnipeg. The plane ultimately landed safely at an old RCAF strip with an Armco barrier across it to prevent drag racing.

The radar in question was due for removal in two weeks and the pilot was the Canadian glider champion. Sounds like a minor miracle.

Seems kind of silly to ignore blips from non-transpondered planes; might it be possible that only some viewers get the raw stuff. Damfino.

Jerry, I agree with you on many points.

Afghanistan was for my Russian people what Vietnam was for my American people. Soviets had the edge for the first year with their helicopters, which gave them air superiority. But then the US gave the mujahedeen a wonder toy, the Stinger missile. The war was lost. It cost many lives, nothing was accomplished. Same can happen if war is started again. Yes we will have the firepower, but every kid is your enemy that will shoot you in the back when you turn it. The support of the locals, the terrain, the faith, and the fact that they have nothing to lose but much to gain, even if they die, will play a major factor.

I see two solutions, both of which are VERY costly. Eradicate them all, or rehabilitate them all. Only if you change these peoples minds (which I think is impossible) you may accomplish something. It's easier to destroy, start a holocaust, eradicate with prejudice. The Jihad has been going on for 2 thousand years! It's been around much longer then the US and most of the world. Nothing can stop it. These people are 300-400 years behind culturally, it's impossible to bargain with them, try to deal with them. Their faith tells them to kill and to die for Allah is the goal. We call them cowards. They die KNOWING that they were heroes to their faith, KNOWING that what they did was right, KNOWING they were going to their heaven. How can you change that?? We are coming to a day when they will carry a small nuclear device in their back pack to the key targets and take out whole cities instead of a block, kill millions instead of thousands. Will you and I be one of those? May be, may be not, but our kids will be. Bin Laden said that every American citizen is a fair target, civilian or not in his Fatwah. He declared a war on us back in 96 and made it clearer in 98! It's time to take serious action and strike back.

lol. No kidding.

You can modify the SHIT out of a CB radio, as long as you kill the ability to transmit as well. This can be by taking the relay out, killing the switching transistor to TX from RX, or just killing the TX pin on the mic socket.

THAT makes ANY AND ALL modifications to a CB radio legal.

However, Voobner and posse probably wouldn't be able to figure that out, nor did they read the rules technically, so they would be able to ACCURATELY tell people what the laws are / where. They just read the first paragraph, or the summation, and call it fact.

Oh well. Idiots are born every minute.

Obviously Aaron is stretching the truth, lying, and generally just not telling the truth. I know most of the high power operators in the United States, and know that the biggest station known is about 150 thousand watts, keyed up once a year.

So again, Aaron makes up lies to perpetuate his thoughts.

>CB amplifiers in use at the > keydowns can possibly be heard on military and security comm systems.

Your proof of this is where? Amplitude Modulated signals do little to nothing to disrupt the spread spectrum broadcasts the government uses now. Your attack is useless, as your not even paying attention to common day technology.

Hell, most comms are going digital now, as well as spread spectrum modulated. Virtually immune to interferience... ESPECIALLY with the difference in frequency spectrum used.

Please at least stay on top of current technology before you go to lying Aaron. It makes you look even worse than your mouth does.

Yes, your lies are.

I know. And the US fighting for it's independence from GB was totally sickening, too, wasn't it?

Attempting to compare the two puts you on par with Tom Brokaw or any of the other media hype / damage control / propaganda machine mass media in the US.
Something leads me to believe that this is kind of what your looking for, though...
Sad, but true.
People will look to cause strife, as well as make a name for themselves by doing anything.

hahahhaa. I'm sure the United States is going to expend effort on catching some people with ceramic tubes in their cars causing little to no problems with the federal government instead of going after the perpetrators of the crimes committed against the people of the United States.

Speaking of which, that makes you about PUBLIC ASSHOLE NUMBER ONE, since you seem to think that it is in the best interest of the people of the US, as well as the security of our country to catch some people with Leece Neville powered amplifiers in their car, rather than expending our efforts to catch and avenge the deaths of this week.

Nah

He needs to learn to scream "WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE
WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE WORLDWIDE

> Hey, Mr. "If There's No Keydown How Will I Sell My Illegal Amps?"...

Where did that come from? So far, your the only one elluding to that.

That mean you are secretly selling competition amplifiers? Or that mean that you are just trying to make someone look worse by slandering them?

Im going with the latter.

> You want people to believe that the owners of these 10,000 watt

Yes we do. Usually at lower power than MAX PEP output.

Nah, just you.

There are military installations across the USA moron.

> Directional? Do you think your megawatt signals STOP when they reach > the "watergate"?

Nope, but usually the signal level does drop off, and HF is prone to sky propogation... Meaning that it doesn't follow the curvature of the earth, meaning that usually the signals end up in space.

> What you are doing is illegal.

And what your doing is a waste of time. At least what we do is productive, enjoyable, and passes
the time.

What you do serves no purpose other than that of harrassment.

> You are breaking federal law.

Where not the first, nor will we be the last.

Thats as far a stretch of the truth as imaginable.

Check it out for yourself. Try to use your cellular phone while a keydown is in operation.

No problems.

So, if your little .1 watt handheld cellular phone has no problems reaching and making connections, what are the chances of 5 to 10 watt spread spectrum modulated signal getting through?

Probably better than you making the watergate.

> Your selfish actions are an insult to those who died.

And you stretching the truth, using the attacks on the United States in your little personal vendetta against the keydown groups will cause them to roll over in their graves Aaron.

Makes me sick to sit here and watch you use their lives and compare it to CB radio. Your a real piece of work Aaron, a real piece of work.

> Since your excuse is 'everyone's doin it, no one's gettin caught' you

And you using innocent lives to perpetuate your little war on keydowns make you no better than the terrorist(s) that perpetuated these crimes.

Truth hurt?

Actually, it has been proven that they aren't done yet.

So don't be so quick to condemn them.... I would venture to guess that we will be seeing more terrorist attacks before it is all over.

I pray I'm wrong, however.

Of course I do, Shane. You are free to post anything you want. Go to

I have a huge collection of speakers taken from obsolete C.B. radios. If you would be more specific, as mounting holes and speaker height can be very crucial is some installations, I will take a look in my collection. I live in Kamloops, B.C., Canada, so you will also have to consider the shipping costs.

I like it when Prozac tries to get technical, and as you have seen he can't.

May I suggest if you want to stir the pot to include some technical material or reference material supporting your views, or in your case so that you can attempt to stir. We can see you have copy & paste down.

E-mail me with your stirring wants and I can help out. I will accept pay-pal, or money orders, personal checks will take 10 working days to process. Or just send cash!

I am terrible expensive but well worth it. Just ask me.

Jay in the Mojave, ... always ready to help.

Jay it rides along the outside of the tower with antenna attached so you dont' have to raise and lower the tower each time you want to work on antenna.
I personnaly have made a raising and lowering fixture for my tower rather easily, a 4" H beam 10' long is embedded in the concrete of the tower at 45 deg angle about 6 foot is sticking out of the ground, at the top of H beam a pulley is attached, about midway down H beam a boat trailer motor is attached and from here a steel cable runs over pulley and is attached to the tower about 3/4 the way up the tower, when I want to lower the tower a few bolts are removed holding the base and the tower is then lowered by activating the motor. Takes less than 5 minutes to lower the tower to the ground is a 1 man operation and have not broken a sweat in years. If someone wants better plans let me know I will draw them up.

Hello Mother Load:

I believe your not Prozac, I stand corrected.

I didn't see any info here as to technical data, maybe you don't have copy & paste down?

I would go with Toll Free's opinion as compared to the Aarons opinion. Toll Free has offered many helping postings, where Aaron only posts a insincere and propagandist attempt to stir the pot. I could also help him for a exaggerated fee.

Toll Free postings have been mostly a technically help, and with my back ground, as a bitchen guy, I can tell he is correct. Where Aaron adds no technical content, just whining and complaining, pity.

If you where to hook up a radio, mic, meter, amp, and antenna system, who would you rather listen to?

Or if Easter Island was comin in on skip, who would ya listen to for hookin up all your equipment, Toll Free CB'er type ah guy, or Aaron complain and whine Incorporated?

I just bought this radio and am very happy with it's clarity. But i am less than happy with it's output. At most I can only get it to swing up to 3 watts. Enough BS, now the real question. Where are the power adjustments on this thing? For my own informational purposes, is there any mods and tweaking info I am not seeing on the web? The PLL says 'SM5126BP'. The board look mysteriously like my brother's Cobra 25 NW ST.

Boosting recieve power would make me happy too if anyone had any ideas. It just seems sub-satisfactory.

I can agree with you on that but, Toll Frees assumption that the governemnt uses all digital or spread spectrum is totally false. Of course the highly sensitive info is encrypted etc, it ois out right untrue that most of those freq have not or are not used. Living in the area I do, and considering the weeks past events they have been plenty active all the way down into 30 mhz

Jay I know who I would listen to Toll does have some good RF knowledge and sometimes a good BS story as well. I also like reading your posts and I have never attacked you in any way, I also like reading what peekaoo has to say. The support shown yesterday 9-14-2001 by the Rest of the World, England, Germany, Sweden, Ireland, Israel,France, Canada and many many more was more than any American can ever ask for. To see all of them crying, and observing a moment of silence in honor of all the innocent victims, rescuers and volunteers of the USA. I'll answer that one Twisted. Right now the FCC and the FBI have their hands full trying to find who did this, and if any more attacks are planed. To do this they have been checking all forms of communications, which includes radio. All you chuckle heads on the freeband are not helping our government one tiny bit. In fact your presence there transmitting is just more clutter for our people to sort thorough looking for possible transmissions among terrorist groups. So in short the freebanders are a part of the of problem right now, not a part of the solution.

Freeband transmissions at high power and no station identification is a problem, since there is no way to tell easily who is a legitimate user of those frequencies other than station ID's. Those transmissions have to be monitored and somebody has to make a decision if the transmission is currently of interest to the on going investigation, or if coded messages are being exchanged between terrorist groups in this country, or elsewhere. Since none of you freebanders belong there your presence just consumes valuable and finite resources that could be used elsewhere.

Right now I can't think of anything more unpatriotic than knowingly, and willfully violating FCC rules, in such a manner to impede the progress of the investigation, and this nation's safety. When I said that Moparholic should be reported to the FBI, well all the freebanders should be investigated, and screwed to the maximum extend that the law allows if it even remotely makes the job of locating the dirty buggers responsible harder, or provides cover for further communications to help coordinate more terrorist attacks.

You people are really disgusting. You have nothing but your own personnel interests in mind, and never gave a second's thought to how your callous disregard of rules may impact the security and safety of your fellow citizens, and country at this time.

No one asked anyone a technical question, Jay. However, there is no disagreement that you and Toll are experts on illegal CB, i.e. , using high power, operating out of band, generating needless QRM, making up lame excuses, etc.

If they cannot respect the law and the rights of others that makes them anti-social mutants and not worth listening to - no matter how much they know about radio.

Hello John Priddy:

The I-Max 2000 is a fiberglass 5/8 wavelength, improved A99 1/2 wavelength antenna. It will work ok, and last a while. After a few years the fiberglass will start to come apart, and you will need to throw it away in a hazards material bin. The big boys call it a "The Big Fuse in the Sky" it won't take a lot of power, I can send you a jpg photo of the I-max 2000 after catching fire, with the 5 watt limit being exceeded a little, a bunch, a lot.

The M400 Star Duster is pure and simple junk. I have purchased one and assembled it, while in amusing laughter, which turned to horrified laughter. I have never seen such a Mickey Mouse, Junk, cheap shit, goof ball, crappie, pile of monkey shit antenna ever!!!!!!!!!!! Even after being assembled the base assembly was lose, and had intermittent electrical connection. I am sure the communists sent it over here.

Ah yes the Spectrum 1600, one of my favourites. This antenna is made from goof ball foreign aluminum tubing. The antenna will work, but as experience has shown us here in the Mojave Desert, it only lasted a few months before bending then braking at the bottom vertical element. I wouldn't use the foreign aluminum tubing material for a broom handle, or window washer handle.

The M400 Star Duster, Spectrum 1600, and foreign copy of the Avanti Sigma 4, I had several of these antennas. I sold all the aluminum with the kids soda pop cans. And I bought a nice 12 pack of American Made Beer, and kid bought stuff to make a Potato Bazooka.

The trading in of the all the goof ball foreign aluminum tubing, into American Made aluminum beer cans with, American Made beer was a wise choice.

Also all these antennas will have transmission line radiation assisting in unwanted interference to your neighbors consumer electronics.

Find a old Hy-Gain Penetrator 500, or Avanti Sigma 2, 5/8 wavelength ground plane antenna.

Actually, with a poorly moded radio and "splashbox amp" they do hinder emergency communications, we had that happen here during a really bad accident when I was guiding in the Life-FLight chopper to take 2 of the victems to St. Vincents in Toledo, some of the boys from fulton county were running several kw and splashed all bands and rendered our comms useless and the chopper almost went into some power lines in the dark when it was being guided in to land in the field.

I know of a person in Napoleon who had a visit by a Lt. of the local Police Dept. He visited "Undertaker" because his radio/amp was washing out the local PD freq's. I know this because I happened to be there visiting
"Undertaker" at the time this occoured.

There is no station identification required in the CB band (legal 40) , FRS, or MURS to name a few. Coded messages could be sent on these frequencies also. How are they going to separate the "legitimate" users from messages being sent between terrorist groups in these services? Besides, this is the NSA's job and not the FCC or FBI. The NSA monitors communications for content ; whether the communicator is "legitimate" makes little difference. Your whole argument is weak. You are starting to sound like Falwell or Robertson- using the terrorist attack as an opportunity to pontificate your own views...

We have absolutely no reason to believe that the people tracking all four hijacked flights didn't immediately, or very quickly, realize what was happening. But what do you do then?

Let's say you think the plane's been hijacked. In almost every case of hijacking in modern history, the people who took control of the planes were not interested in dying. They wanted to go somewhere, or keep hostages as bargaining chips. Even if ATC realized what was happening, what would they do about it? Call people, talk to authorities, try to
reasonable person would have assumed is that they were planning to crash the planes. Furthermore, even if you KNEW that, what would you do? How would you handle a situation that, for these people, has never happened before?

I can't figure out why people are dumping on ATC as if they could somehow have averted the tragedies by magically landing the planes with a special button on their radar consoles.

I don't think that most people are going to accept the above message as "proof" given Webdoc's latest profanity riddled post to this newsgroup (see below). How about some "proof" from a more credible source? From this message I would guess that Webdoc has a substance abuse problem...

heheh no I hardly drink anymore I never have time. Plus it is not goot to be drinking when you are on call.
Like I said he amused me, I get these packet/h4x0r kiddies on IRC all the time telling me what they are going to do to my machine ect. they amuse me as well, so I play with them, hell someone gives me a toy I am going to play with it and have my fun. More I laugh at them more it pisses them off, and more fun it becomes. I used to hang out in a channel on Undernet IRC network where all we did was set around and insult eachother, person woith the wierdest off the wall insults won, I rarely lost, never go to a battle of witts unarmed. Of course I was drinking more in those days and for some reason certain portions of my brain seem to work better when I have been drinking, like shooting pool, telling jokes, and insulting people. But then I am pretty good at it stone sober as well.

Fools, gotta love them heheh, they make life fun. Like the dude that stole shoes from a shoe store at night, the fool stole the ones that light up when you take a step. And he was wondering how the police found him?

Russian learned some lessons by the third time - and effectively nuked Chechen cities of the face of the Earth. Then gathered those chechens who can be bargained with - and gave them positions in administration, and some money to spend.
They still taking casualties everyday - remote controled mine made out of a pager, sometimes. Then an RPG grenade. Then everybody gone.

The good part is - even for 400 years behind - they are not "holy warriors"
Chief mullah of taliban - after ordering public stoning of women noticed outside the house sent his girls to Pakistan english language school.
This bstards just want power - and are paid by Saudi Arabia and Pakistan, and use people trained by CIA, like Bin Laden. That mean - we do have a leverage on them. Just like chechens just want money and control - not really a holy war.

If waging a war can be useful - it would be against Pakistan and Saudi Arabia. And of course killing off all Ladens.

They call U.S. cowards; From Bin Laden 99 interview (check http://www.esquire.com):
"After leaving Afghanistan, the Muslim fighters headed for Somalia and prepared for a long battle, thinking that the Americans were like the Russians," bin Laden said. "The youth were surprised at the low morale of the American soldiers and realized more than before that the American soldier was a paper tiger and after a few blows ran in defeat. And America forgot all the hoopla and media propaganda . . .
about being the world leader and the leader of the New World Order, and after a few blows they forgot about this title and left, dragging their corpses and their shameful defeat."

Hm. I talked to quite a few of my friends in Moscow in the recent days - some of them went through Afganistan. Many of their friends were killed with american weapons there. Surprisingly - all they say to U.S. "Good Luck, you will need it" At least this time nobody will ship boxes of antihelicopter missles to Taliban. Except maybe for Pakistan and Saudi Arabia.

How special, he's extending an olive branch to Jay, Toll, Peakaboo isn't that just special.
NO Han's your wrong on all accounts, you are so blinded with your hatred towards most of us, you can't see anything technical from us. I could post Tech, Jay, Toll, Eitner among others know pretty much of the extent of my knowledge on radio's
and antenna's, but I gave up long ago when other's,
then you started with your insistent whining about legalities and accusations. What questions that I felt comfortable with giving an answer, I have done so via e-mail, no whining that it's illegal, no "Why would you use LMR for a short run (why not, experiment, like someone said, I had some laying around, let's just try for the heck of it and see what happens). But no, you come back with name calling and accusations, so you expect us to respond "oh, it's o.k." You call another person that asked a simple question an illegal alien, just because his name was "Jose"
now you expect him to not care?
As said before, there has always been arguments, and there always will, but most of it was never to the extent it has been now.
You seem to care what some people post out here, but yet you continue to harass, accuse, defame and plain out right insult people. Even when they don't normally post here, and do something like, ask a simple question. what do you think the people that you are trying to be nice too see?

Now you can take this as you see it, but I am not trying to offend you or harass you, just showing what's been happening in a different light.

Take care,

Hello Scott: Whooooo good question!

I modified mine, made a new base assembly and made it longer, its orginaly length is closer to a 1/2 wavelength antenna that a 5/8 antenna, and added a Top Hat assembly.

About 150 dollars worth of parts, all new aluminun tubing for the vertical element, because the base assembly is radically changed. And new tuning loops that will allow the SWR to be set dead nuts to 1 to 1 any where you want.

The modified MaCo V5/8 renamed the J/M-5/8, will have significantly more field strength than the orginal design, and take the big power where before the liner / insulator would burn out causing the antenna to fail, and even fall apart.

If you want I even have a picture of the modified M/J-5/8, and a picture of a burned out MaCo V5/8 insulator.

Ben, Get a better antenna by increasing the power to 5 or even 6 watts won't be a noticeable difference it is about 1 s-unit or 2-3 db gain.

>Your whole argument is weak.

No it's not. The primary government agency that is responsible for "domestic" security is the FBI. The charters, either in whole or in part, for the other agencies do not permit them to operate within the borders of the United States, and that the facts. Since the FCC's charter gives them the right to regulate all communications within the borders of the United States, and other territories under the control of the United States, such as Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands etc. they can and do monitor RF communications. In that capacity they are providing support to the FBI by monitoring domestic communications for any evidence of terrorist activity.

For example:

(CNN) -- Major Internet Service Providers (ISPs) in the United States said Thursday they are cooperating with federal authorities in the investigation of the terrorist attack on New York and Washington.

The FBI served EarthLink with a search warrant to gather electronic information relating to national security, said Dan Greenfield, spokesperson for the Atlanta, Georgia-based ISP.

"We received on Tuesday an FISA order," said Greenfield, referring to the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, which provides guidelines for certain kinds of secret investigations of the FBI, CIA, the National Security Agency and a handful of other federal organizations.

The rest of the story you can read for yourself at the link above, but I hope you get the message.

> There is no station identification required in the CB band (legal 40) , > FRS, or MURS to name a few. Coded messages could be sent on these > frequencies also. How are they going to separate the "legitimate" users from > messages being sent between terrorist groups in these services?

And that is precisely the problem. As long as the non-id'ed users stick to their legal authorized frequencies resources don't have to be wasted to determine if an "unidentified signal" detected on the so-called freeband is some dumb freebander or a signal that should be monitored more closely. The only users that should be in that segment of the spectrum are licensed users who are required to ID their transmissions using FCC issued callsigns. Since CBers don't have FCC callsigns, thus not identifying themselves, the FCC has to waste time and resources to determine the nature, location, and content of those transmissions.

If the CBers stuck to the legal 40 the FCC would not have to waste their time trying to figure out why that signal is there, and if it's relevant to the investigation of the WTC attack. In other words, illegal signals are going to draw a lot of attention right now.

I just can't believe that anyone would be dumb enough to knowingly violate FCC rules at this time, and then argue that it's OK. Don't forget that all private short-wave communications were shut down for the duration of both W.W.I and W.W.II, including Ham Radio. There is nothing to guarantee that something of that order may not be done again in the interest of national security. If it does come to pass then the 11m CB band would be included.

The few dumb nut cases who would violate that order will find out just how serious the government is, the same way those dumb private plane pilots that were up in the air hours after the FAA grounded anything that could fly that was not military did. Yeah we had one of those idiots around Ann Arbor. I head that the Air National Guard base, on the far north east side of the Detroit area, scrambled 6 F-16's to find that plane.

Phil you ass he was basically reposting what the post before him said, in the same comical manner this makes him no less credible and knocks you down 2 more levels on the credibility/believability meter. all your repeat spam postings about yrac also makes you even less credible and you were on very thin ice anyway. Phil, have you ever offered a post that was helpful or informative to the group, or is it just crying and whining about others?

If you want to turn in a complaint to the ISP that's fine by me. I'm tired of all the crap over who posted what, and the whole forged post and E-mail mess. I don't care who it is. I think it's time to quit playing games.

As you can see I have some valid reasons for not including my real E-mail address in my posts. It make it's that much more difficult to forge a message.

Gosh, there was no complaint about Webdoc's story back when he posted
it. Now all of sudden he's a "substance abuser"? OK, tell you what.
Look up some of Jay In Mojave's posts. Or Twistedhed. Plenty of erratic posts from them. Are they "substance abusers" too?

Twistedhed asked for one example. I gave it. Now comes the excuses and backshuffling and spin doctoring.

You guys make me laugh, honest. I can't wait to see what other cockeyed excuses you dream up for why Keith Hosman's (WebDoc) story isn't true.

So ATC have two rogue planes heading into incredibly busy airspace at unknown altitude and unpredictable heading, I'm sure their first priority was to get the thousands of people on all the other planes in the vicinity of those two planes out of harm's way.
Although they did also get word to the military so that fighters were scrambled

I understand that fighters were sent after one of the later planes but they didn't have time to catch up (and I'd have hated to have been the

Are you ADD Aaron? You seem to be unable to focus on the issue at hand. Why would you think that looking up other people's posts would make Webdoc's story any more credible?

For being the district coordinator of Ohio REACT I find it strange that Webdoc would post such profanity to the newsgroup. I guess that doesn't bother you, Aaron.

> Twistedhed asked for one example. I gave it. Now comes the excuses

Please do not twist the facts, Aaron. You need to find your examples in more credible sources. It is a failure on your part to produce a credible example from a credible source.

> You guys make me laugh, honest.

You speak an infinite deal of nothing.

Ahh I see, you are just angry because of your failure to give a credible example.

Where did I say that Webdoc's story isn't true? The story may very well be true. You seem to have a tendency to put your own words into other people's mouths, Aaron. I questioned the credibility of the message in light of Webdoc's strange posting to the newsgroup today. What part of this are you having trouble understanding? If need be, I can explain it in simpler terms so you can understand.

then which is true

a) All war-mongers are pacifists
b) Some pacifists are war-mongers
c) No pacifists are war-mongers (hell i think I just screwed that up, but you all get the gist of the

You have a distorted sense of reality, Aaron.

No, a coward is someone like QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF who posts under multiple aliases as if they are different people in an effort to lend the illusion of support to his weak arguements. Have you noticed that YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF hasn't tried to deny that the YRAC aka QRM2000 aka K5PF aliases are the same person? He is embarrassed that he has been caught in his deception. You should be embarassed for all the nonsense that you post to this newsgroup.

Wrong. The NSA monitors the communications of foreign nationals within the US. The NSA has the capability to eavesdrop on any form of communication as well as the ability to decrypt most messages. The FCC does not do the NSA's job. If there is any interception and identification of communications by foreign terrorists within the US the NSA will be the agency doing it. The FBI is not going to be looking for random communications unless the NSA points them to a particular communicator. And the NSA looks at content, not whether the source of the communications is authorized in a particular service.

Look closer at your example:

"We received on Tuesday an FISA order," said Greenfield, referring to the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, which provides guidelines for certain kinds of secret investigations of the FBI, CIA, the National Security Agency and a handful of other federal organizations.

NSA = National Security Agency

By your logic I could argue that all Ham radio operators should cease operations during this time so that the government officials don't have to wait up to 10 minutes for the Ham radio operator to identify themselves. Think of all the other pertinent communications that they could be missing while old Hammy drones on about his arthritis for 10 minutes before he IDs...

This is the first time this week I am checking this newsgroup and well Ice was on my mind and infact old friend I almost sent flowers to your home. I sent you email a few times with no reply fearing the worst as I know you are a dba most prob in the WTC as it is a feeding ground for such types of work. I guess I have been focused on NYC becouse my fiance is at her mothers in Jersey only 20 minutes away from Manhatten and I am in shock as really to all what has happened. I have decided to not let my Fiance get on a plane so think I will put her on the cresent going from trenton to New Orleans if it is running. When I woke up on tuesday the day I sat with horror nearly passing out from an anxiety attack worrying about My fiance. Rest assured old friend you were on my mind aswell. You have had my prayers for a quite few days now bro. I know there are No words that can sooth your heart in this time of personal trial and hardship within oneself . Some may ask why was my life spared.
Some questions need not be asked. As I sit here it is 3 am and I just called my fiance telling her you are ok I wish you many more days old friend. I guess this comes as a suprise but I have known you for a longtime bro. Would have be a terrible personal tragedy for me.
Best wishes for your family and friends and those that did not make it after this attack on our great nation.

To everyone in this time of tragedy and to those who are on lookers Take care and godbless.. We will overcome..

P.S .. Tollfree good to see you bro.
P.S.S To those who constantly rant and have not stopped bickering in this time of American crisis you are unamerican and personally I would not piss on you if you were on fire. Leave our country as you are not worth a dam

Jews employed terror tactics and assasination prior to the establishment of Israel, and afterward in removing arabs from desireable lands. Menahem Begin, among other Jewish "freedom fighters" was wanted for murder by the British Mandate Authorities after his involvement with the bombing of the King David Hotel. In case you forgot, a boatload of British officers were blown up along with Jewish hotel workers. When Begin was told how many Jews died he stated "it can't be helped". When Begin went on a state visit to the UK in the 70's they had to quash the warrant just so he wouldn't be arrested at Heathrow.

In 1967, when it suited Israel to do so, they attacked an unarmed US Navy intel ship some miles off Haifa in International waters. A lot of American sailors were murdered by Israel in a lengthy torpedo boat attack and strafing/rocketing by IDF aircraft. Israel refused to pay off in compensation for this murder and mayhem until 1989, and negotiated to pay us a fraction of the actual damages only after we started balking at more arms subsidies.

In 1982, while Israel occupied parts of Lebanon, Israeli soldiers, under Ariel Sharon, allowed Lebanese Christian milita forces into Palestinian refugee camps at Sabra and Chatilla. A wink and a nod from Sharon allowed the militia to massacre hundreds of kids, women and old people. this was after the PLO fighters were evacuated from Lebanon.
Wonder why the US Marines were truck-bombed in '83 in Lebanon? It is called payback. The arabs see America as Israel's handler. Israel uses that perception at times to strike fear into arabs.

I do not give the Arabs a pass at all, all hands are bloody. I am not against any of these groups of people. They ALL have the right to exist.

Finally, ANYBODY who cheers at mass murder is a barbarian.

It's so easy to see, if you look at the number of "licensed" operators, outside allowed freq. and power, and yet they want us gone?

clean up your own house first.
Doctor, heal thy self.

You have to be amazed, when 20m is a trash bin (ask QST),yet "they" are here to clean us up?

wow, I bask in awe!(NOT!)

Go do a read on the ARRL web site, see the enforcement page....

8-12 HAM operators out of band for lic./no lic. power/QRM to other HAMS

Scott I am sorry to say there is no comparison. Don't try to justify a stupid comment on your part, or compare it to what Bruce said. You are so far out in left field on that one. Comparing people dying to a comment about a stupid Cb antenna. Innocent people have died and you want to call it a game it shows your lack of respect for all who have died. Scott I though you were better than that.

Phil if his profanity bothered you so much why did you read the post. I could care less if he was district coordinator for your asshole, what does that have to do with him posting a true story months ago and what does it have to do with his credibility? Does it say anywhere he cannot curse or swear since he is a district coordinator, he is no different than anyone else. Your incessant crying and whining over yrac,qrm is childlike just like you accuse the AKC group except your is over nonsense at least theres is over Illegals breaking Federal Law. You sir are the typical Pot=kettle=black.Why don't you go back where you came from.

This group has been like this for over two years now. I come back about every 6mos to see if it's cleared out yey, sadly it has not.
There are several other groups out there that many of us enjoy posting like times of old.
It surprises me that some of the older members are still here, I don't understand why they waste their time.
It was the obsession of "Frank Burns", "Voobner", and many others to destroy this group (as they have no life) and in my mind they have succeded.
Kudos to you fellows. I hope it is an award you will cherish into your afterlife.

I'll answer that one Twisted.

"Good Morning, Leland. I'm sure you can add some points to bolster his argument, but let me ask again, without you snipping my post. I repeat,"What are we doing that is so wrong? Talking about power and freebanding is wrong according to Ol' pound pup to the left. He is taking issue with our speech again. Guess he'll just have to get over himself as usual."

Right now the FCC and the FBI have their hands full trying to find who did this, and if any more attacks are planed. To do this they have been checking all forms of communications, which includes radio.

"Correct. Ask the pound pup to the left to show you my article on Echelon, if you can get him to come off with it. This will cover all those bases and more."

All you chuckle heads on the freeband are not helping our government one tiny bit. In fact your presence there transmitting is just more clutter for our people to sort thorough looking for possible transmissions among terrorist groups.

So in short the freebanders are a part of the of problem right now, not a part of the solution.
Freeband transmissions at high power

"Ahhh, so now you are changing the equation. I'll indulge you."

and no station identification is a problem, since there is no way to tell easily who is a legitimate user of those frequencies other than station ID's.

"Wrong. The federal directional finding center in Laurel Hill can pinpoint a signal with deadly accuracy every time and in record time. Read my article on Echelon for more information."

Those transmissions have to be monitored and somebody has to make a decision if the transmission is currently of interest to the on going investigation, or if coded messages are being exchanged between terrorist groups in this country, or elsewhere. Since none of you freebanders belong there your presence just consumes valuable and finite resources that could be used elsewhere.

"Not so. The feds are not so shallow as to think bin Laden is giving camel jockeys orders in between the Alfa Tangos."

Right now I can't think of anything more unpatriotic than knowingly, and willfully violating FCC rules, in such a manner to impede the progress of the investigation, and this nation's safety.

"No? I think I can. Miserable souls that use this tragedy to further their own selfish and ignorant agenda by comparing this horrible tragedy, in which almost everyone knows someone that was directly affected or has lost a loved one(s), to DX talking or running a linear. Nothing short of pathetic."

When I said that Moparholic should be reported to the FBI, well all the freebanders should be investigated, and screwed to the maximum extend that the law allows if it even remotely makes the job of locating the dirty buggers responsible harder,

"So your hard-on for cbers shines through and you are willing to compromise the integrity and security of the US, willing to set aside the terrorists acts and the persuit of such while the feds take their resources and bust freebanders and someone using a linear? You had an MRI in the last few years, Leland?"

or provides cover for further communications to help coordinate more terrorist attacks.
You people are really disgusting.

"Better go back and read what you wrote before taking to the insults again."

You have nothing but your own personnel interests in mind, and never gave a second's thought to how your callous disregard of rules may impact the security and safety of your fellow citizens, and country at this time.

"Well, you are the one advocating setting aside chasing terrorists to ticket a freebander. I think your post speaks for itself."

No Fear,

I do not fight for illegal acts. I do not advocate freebanding. But I also do not accept the spread of misinformation no matter what side of the issue.

Why do you think that terrorists would not communicate on the authorized ham bands? Are you saying that it is more likely that they would communicate on the same frequencies that freebanders use? This is a silly issue anyhow because the terrorists would most likely us encrypted email for communication. The PGP encryption available to the public is a big concern to government agencies including the NSA.

You could very well argue that each posting on this subject to this newsgroup, both pro and con, could take up valuable resources of government agencies trying to sift through all of the email and newsgroup traffic. Using such a lame argument to condemn freebanders is just, well... lame. It is just taking advantage of a terrible disaster to further your radical viewpoints.

emergency communications, we had that happen here during a really bad accident when I was guiding in the Life-FLight chopper to take 2 of the victems to St. Vincents in Toledo, some of the boys from fulton county were running several kw and splashed all bands and rendered our comms useless and the chopper almost went into some power lines in the dark
when it was being guided in to land in the field.
I know of a person in Napoleon who had a visit by a Lt. of the local Police Dept. He visited "Undertaker" because his radio/amp was washing out the local PD freq's. I know this because I happened to be there visiting
"Undertaker" at the time this occoured.

Almost 100% foul language, garbage, and porn.... Were did all the good info go on CB radios, antennas, and such???
This group has been like this for over two years now. I come back about every 6mos to see if it's cleared out yey, sadly it has not. There are several other groups out there

"SSSHHHHH! For God's sake man, don't let them know :)" that many of us enjoy posting like times of old.

It surprises me that some of the older members are still here, I don't understand why they waste their time.
It was the obsession of "Frank Burns",

"Oh, hehe, I see now. How long you known 'ol Voob?"

"Voobner", and many others to destroy this group (as they have no life) and in my mind they have succeded.

"Wow, that must suck. Stick around, you'll see them getting slapped on a daily basis. Cheap entertainment."

Kudos to you fellows. I hope it is an award you will cherish into your afterlife.

No Fear if my post bothered you so much why did you read the post? Webdoc's profanity did not bother me but it does make me question the credibility of his story. Where did I say that Webdoc cannot curse or swear if he is district coordinator of REACT? Where did I accuse the AKC group of anything? You are like Aaron - putting words in other people's mouths.

Do you mean QRM2000 aka YRAC aka K5PF the ultimate hypocrite who hides behind multiple alaises and pretends to be three different people? You need to choose your company more wisely.

I am sorry that you are so upset by the truth, No Fear. It is obvious from your remark above. Who is the "us" that you are refering to? I chastise you, No Fear. If my posts upset you so much why do you read them at all?

Well its like you having a flat tire, and not knowing you have a flat tire, and not knowing how to change it. You need some technical advice, and you don't even know it.

The possibility of such interference is unlikely. But not being there I didn't experience the interference. But after working commercial radios for years, aviation avionics and radios, and being a super CB'er, this type of interference is again highly unlikely.

Its obvious your using this as a slanted part of your very selective agreement.
Technically it won't fly.

Thank you, but I am sure Toll Free is much older than me, and not as good looking. Toll has posted many useful technical postings, and it is appreciated within the ng. I try at times to help out to.

But making up QRM and having lame excuses, I am sure both Toll and I can learn a few things from you.

This would be a al right thing, but you only selectively complain about the rights of others. The Anti social mutant is you. I could see being on the computer all day like if you were in a hospital bed, or laid up with a broke leg. I enjoy the ng taking a break back and forth from the shop.

Have ah nice day.

While the person may get his butt slapped by his ISP, I certainly agree with his opinion of twithed.
I know he wont go to the DC keydown because the bottom line is that twithed is a physical coward.

Out of the three you've listed, I'd say the IMAX-2000 is the best...OF THOSE THREE. It's convenient to mount, handles a fair amount of power, (So they state. 0:-)) and should offer the performance of a 5/8 wave vertical omni +/- an insignificant amount.

If money is no object, then contact Mosley and inquire about their Devant and Devant Special 5/8 ground plane antennas. The construction is second to NONE and the quality of materials used is first rate. You WILL pay for this quality to the tune of $300 plus, actually closer to four bills. The Devant Special adds a capacitance hat for a decreased angle of radiation, (It flattens the doughnut.) hence improved DX performance.

If money IS an issue, as it is with me, get a Maco V5/8 antenna. It won't last forever, but it's a good overall performer.

If you have the space and inclination to do so, get a economical beam. Maco makes a three element yagi that can be had for around $100 and the jump from omni to even a conservatively rated directional antenna can be dramatic. Signals that were barely audible with an omni will literally "jump out of the weeds." Remember, gain is a two-way street. I put up a wire quad suspended by trees that cost me about $35 to put up and the difference between it's performance and that of a commercial omni was quite noticeable. It's kinda fun knowing that you've built part of your set-up too. Hope this info helped.

If the plane disappeared from radar it is because it dropped to an altitude that the radar could no longer see it, not because the transponder was not working.

Begin quote:

1.Disconnect the power and antenna.

2.Remove the top and bottom covers of the radio.

3.Remove the four screws from the speaker mounting and the top panel assembly.

4.Swing the assembly away and unplug the Red/Black battery leads from the digital unit X54-168-00.

5.Solder small ga. wires between the following locations.

IC21 pin 12 to IC11 pin 9
IC22 pin 12 to IC12 pin 9
IC23 pin 12 to IC24 pin 8

Tack sodering on the component side of the board is O.K.

6.Reassemble the radio

You should now be able to Transmit on the MARS/CAP frequencies.

JACKSONVILLE, AR: The FCC wrote Technician licensee Richard H. Knox, KC5UOW, citing complaints to the Commission that the licensee had operated on CB frequencies "playing music, transmitting sound effects, keying on top of ongoing communications and otherwise deliberately interfering with ongoing communications" on Citizens Radio Service channels. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth advised the licensee that such operation could lead to enforcement action, including fines and seizure of equipment and would jeopardize his Amateur Radio license. He requested that the licensee contact him to discuss the matter.

WILLOUGHBY, OH: The FCC wrote Technician licensee Michael T. Gruttadavria, KC8NMW, citing complaints to the Commission that the licensee had operated on CB frequencies "transmitting sound effects, keying on top of ongoing communications and otherwise deliberately interfering with ongoing communications and making threats" on Citizens Radio Service channels. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth advised the licensee that such operation could lead to enforcement action, including fines and seizure of equipment and would jeopardize his Amateur Radio license. He requested that the licensee contact him to discuss the matter.

KALAMAZOO, MI [UPDATE]: The FCC on November 14, 2000, wrote Amateur Extra licensee Michael E. Guernsey, ND8V, following up in its investigation into allegations of deliberate interference attributed to the licensee. According to the letter, the licensee has agreed to a nine-month suspension of his HF (ie, below 30 MHz) privileges, from January 1 until September 2, 2001. "If there are no violations of Amateur rules from the date of this letter through the modification period, and if there are no violations of the modification agreement, we will not consider complaints of violations or evidence of violations existing as of the date of this letter in any future enforcement action against your license," wrote FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth. On October 17, the FCC had sent a Warning Notice to Guernsey and threatened the licensee with revocation and suspension proceedings. The earlier Notice cited "monitoring information and complaints before the Commission" alleging that the licensee had caused deliberate interference on 20 meters "particularly communications of Hispanic operators and truckers when you perceived them to have an improperly 'wide' SSB signal or a signal which in your opinion exhibited excessive microphone gain," Hollingsworth said. The FCC also had cited allegations that the licensee may have used profanity and obscenity on the air, that he may not have identified by call sign, and that he might have deliberately interfered with communications on the Maritime Mobile Service Net. Hollingsworth said any violations of the license modification agreement would lead to revocation and suspension proceedings.

COMER, GA: The FCC has written Advanced licensee Milton O. Rothery Jr, KU4JH, citing information before the Commission alleging that the licensee has operated Amateur Radio equipment on and between 11-meter Citizens Band channels. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth gave Rothery 30 days to explain "the full circumstances of any operation" the licensee may have conducted on 11 meters since January 1, 2000, and the equipment used.

DANIELSVILLE, GA: The FCC has written General licensee Ruffin E. Smith, KE4SVC, citing information before the Commission alleging that the licensee has operated Amateur Radio equipment on and between 11-meter Citizens Band channels. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth gave Smith 30 days to explain "the full circumstances of any operation" the licensee may have conducted on 11 meters since January 1, 2000, and the equipment used.

LONG BEACH, CA: The FCC has written Technician licensee Brett C. Rogers, KF6ZDS, citing monitoring information before the Commission alleging that the licensee has operated Amateur Radio equipment on and between 11-meter Citizens Band channels. "Information further indicates that you have deliberately interfered with the communications of other operators, transmitted sound effects, utilized non type-accepted equipment and illegal amplifiers" on and between CB channels, FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth wrote. "The District Director of our Los Angeles office warned you about this type of operation on December 23, 1999." Hollingsworth gave Rogers 30 days to explain "the full circumstances of any operation" the licensee may have conducted on 11 meters since January 1, 2000, and the equipment used.

Even large companies,

ROSEVILLE, CA: The FCC on November 14, 2000, sent a Warning Notice to Union Pacific Railroad, citing monitoring information to indicate that the railroad had operated in simplex mode on 147.555 MHz in the Roseville area. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth noted that the frequency in question was assigned to the Amateur Service. He noted that such operation was in violation of federal law and that such continued operation could result in a fine. He requested that the railroad to contact him within 10 days to discuss the matter.

and even the police are no better....

SCHOHARIE, NY: The FCC wrote the Schoharie County, New York, Sheriff's Department on December 12, 2000, citing complaints that the Sheriff's Department's KEF 699 radio system on 155.730 MHz was interfering with Amateur Radio repeater operations on 145.39, 146.85 and 147.24 MHz. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth reports the agency is cooperating in resolving the problem.

By Leonard Pitts Jr.
Syndicated columnist - Miami Herald
They pay me to tease shades of meaning from social and cultural issues, to provide words that help make sense of that which troubles the American soul. But in this moment of airless shock when hot tears sting disbelieving eyes, the only thing I can find to say, the only words that seem to fit, must be addressed to the unknown author of this suffering. You monster. You beast. You unspeakable bastard.

What lesson did you hope to teach us by your coward's attack on our World Trade Center, our Pentagon, us? What was it you hoped we would learn? Whatever it was, please know that you failed.

Did you want us to respect your cause? You just damned your cause.
Did you want to make us fear? You just steeled our resolve.
Did you want to tear us apart? You just brought us together.

Let me tell you about my people. We are a vast and quarrelsome family, a family rent by racial, cultural, political and class division, but a family nonetheless. We're frivolous, yes, capable of expending tremendous emotional energy on pop cultural minutiae, a singer's revealing dress, a ball team's misfortune, a cartoon mouse.

We're wealthy, too, spoiled by the ready availability of trinkets and material goods, and maybe because of that, we walk through life with a certain sense of blithe entitlement. We are fundamentally decent, though -- peace-loving and compassionate. We struggle to know the right thing and to do it. And we are, the overwhelming majority of us, people of faith, believers in a just and loving God.
Some people -- you, perhaps -- think that any or all of this makes us weak. You're mistaken. We are not weak. Indeed, we are strong in ways that cannot be measured by arsenals.
Yes, we're in pain now. We are in mourning and we are in shock. We're still grappling with the unreality of the awful thing you did, still working to make ourselves understand that this isn't a special effect from some Hollywood blockbuster, isn't the plot development from a Tom Clancy novel.

Both in terms of the awful scope of its ambition and the probable final death toll, your attacks are likely to go down as the worst acts of terrorism in the history of the United States and, indeed, the history of the world. You've bloodied us as we have never been bloodied before.

But there's a gulf of difference between making us bloody and making us fall. This is the lesson Japan was taught to its bitter sorrow the last time anyone hit us this hard, the last time anyone brought us such abrupt and monumental pain. When roused, we are righteous in our outrage, terrible in our force. When provoked by this level of barbarism, we will bear any suffering, pay any cost, go to any length, in the pursuit of justice.

I tell you this without fear of contradiction. I know my people, as you, I think, do not. What I know reassures me. It also causes me to tremble with dread of the future.
In days to come, there will be recrimination and accusation, fingers pointing to determine whose failure allowed this to happen and what can be done to prevent it from happening again. There will be heightened security, misguided talk of revoking basic freedoms. We'll go forward from this moment sobered, chastened, sad. But determined, too. Unimaginably determined.
You see, there is steel beneath this velvet. That aspect of our character is seldom understood by people who don't know us well. On this day, the family's bickering is put on hold. As Americans we will weep, as Americans we will mourn, and as Americans, we will rise in defense of all that we cherish.

Still, I keep wondering what it was you hoped to teach us. It occurs to me that maybe you just wanted us to know the depths of your hatred.
 If that's the case, consider the message received. And take this message in exchange: You don't know my people. You don't know what we're about. You don't know what you just started.
But you're about to learn.

Hello Scoot: Please let me make add a few things to my last reply.

The MaCo V5/8 base assembly that can be seen at:

http://www.majestic-comm.com/assembly/index.htm

Pages 4, and 5, its thrown away, and a new base assembly is made from 1 1/2" OD steel tubing. The original cast ring that allows the mounting of the Ground Plane Radials, is kept, since it mounts to a 1 1/2" OD. This will save the cost of a new ground plane radials, and a mount.

The tuning loop, support bracket, and tuning wire, are again thrown away.

All the vertical aluminum tubing in the vertical element is also thrown away. This is done because the antenna is made longer, with a Top Hat assembly now mounted to the top vertical element. The original tubing will start to bend at the bottom with time, if not reinforced with the new modified base assembly.

New separate input and output tuning "Trombone" looking tuning loops are installed. This will allows for a (dead nuts on) tuning for a SWR of 1 to 1 where ever you want it.

What you get is a stronger field strength, capability for more power, lower atmospheric noise received, structurally stronger vertical element, and CB'ers and Super CB'ers will say "what the heck is that!"

The MaCo V5/8 is a good antenna for its price, around 80 dollars. But if I was going to put one up in its original configuration, I would throw away the supplied mounting clamps, or at least back them up with stainless steel marine grade hose clamps. Also add a Dilrin (black in color) spacer 1 inch long, should be installed in-between the the tuning loop connection ends, (see page 4 view 1E) A piece of round wood doul would work if treated for rainy weather.

Hello Robbie:

How and where is the antenna mounted on the vehicle.

I have seen antennas mounted to close to the cap of the car or truck causing the antenna to have a higher SWR, and it will reduce its performance.

Also the antenna end of the coax should have a good electrical connection to the vehicles body.

Please do tell.

OK, this is just a few facts:
This is only 46 of the screen names since March of 2001, there are numerous others.
Some 1061 posts made in less than a 7 month period, an average of 163.23 per month. Some 98.5% of all the posts were either derogatory,defaming, accusatory, insulting in nature.
The first 2% of posts were talking about agreeing with amps, mods, export radios.
Then, all of a sudden changinging to attacking people, defaming, insulting, accusing, degrading. Admitting once
"he was a parasite and we were not going to get rid of him that easily".
It can only be said that being 40/41 years old, you must be going through some sort of midlife crisis, that is the only reason to explain you're tactics. Or you are just trolling, trying purposefully getting people angry for your own little jollies.
Please prove me wrong, start by answering questions, instead of trying to accuse, defame, insult someone.
In the past few days there have been posts made that were helpful and not the normal style of posts, please, please continue on that course. I will be willing to agree, if you just ignore the petty posts and agree to try to be more civil too.

Wow, you have devoted some real time to me, so now I am 40/41 yrs old, I thought I was an old man? If I felt you were worth more of my time Landshark, Frenchy and a few others I would do a thorough search such as you did but In the posts that I have seen from you, I haven't seen you practice anything of what you preach to me. Do you want to know why I change screen names because it pisses you off, and it adds 1 more to your stupid list. Whats the purpose of the list ? To piss me off? Have you not been trying to get your jollies by replying/harassing me at every attempt, you added nothing informative to any post I made, why don't you be man enough to ignore me and half the insulting posts would be gone, since most are in reply to you. You need to go sit in the corner little boy because you don't know enough to tell someone what to do when the past 3-4 years you have acted like a ass on this NG and continue to this very day, and yet you want to tell me how to act. Since you only spend a few minutes a day posting, the rest of the time has been done on google, I am glad I am that worthy of your attention, like I said you are mad because you were caught when sparky posted some damaging info on your other newsgroup activities. Why don't you take a dose of your own medicine, before you try and sell it to me. If you want to reply to my posts and provoke reponses from me keep replying in the fashion you do, If you want me to stop replying in a manner you don't like, stop harassing me. Yawn. I think Ill go change my name again, maybe 2x today. I'll also be waiting for your more informative posts to start, so they can help the Ng as well.

Hi Landshark...

I have probably confused some people with that reply, specially those who would wish to put me in one of their neatly labelled boxes.
The fact is that this guy does not know, and so guidance is required

Personally, I believe that amps are not the best answer. But if someone decides to use them then that's their choice, their risk, and not my place to judge them.
And if they want help with making sure that they do not intefere, then I am willing to give that help too, no matter what they are using.

Riley Hollingsworth is Special Counsel for Amateur Radio. He is there because the Amateur community raised enough hell to get him there. While policing our own ranks is nice it is on occasion useful to have a big badge and gun available. So it ain't too surprising that the Amateur community gets the attention first; we asked for it, demanded it, and made a big stink with our Congressmen to get it.

Seems to me that the only comparison is between one radio community doing it by the numbers and one which stands around and watches.

Can anybody tell me what each set of jumpers do on the microprocessor board

I know that moving the centre set changes the frequency range to 26-32 Mhz, but what do the other sets do ? Also, any idea why pressing 'MAN' after changing the frequency range does not select the CB channels ?

One last question. Where is the battery ? After power cycling my 2950 returns to 26.000Mhz with the Roger Beep 'on'.

Thanks,

Richard.

Actually, it's "uk.rec.radio.cb".
But this is an international group, not "usa.rec.radio.cb".

Personally, I like this group. There are many good people on this group.
There are also many technical people here (yourself included).
And we both know that there is no "USA vs UK" issue. We share common beliefs, and common goals.

It is thanks to the USA that we now have CB. Although the film "convoy" probably played a part in it. Did you know that there was a British (tongue-in-cheek) version of the song "Convoy". I believe that it was called "Convoy GB". The group claimed to be called "Lorry Lingo and the Dipsticks", but the singers were a couple of "Radio 1" DJs.

As you change your alias so often, I never know what to call you. How about a first name, or one preferred alias?

Peter.

Reminds me of the lectures I had when learning electronics. They went on so long, that most students just went to sleep. The problem was that one student always ruined it for all the others... by snoring.
But it does prove one thing, those that don't like it can always switch off

I think it is because the carrier carries no actual information that some people think it is not needed. But the carrier is important for AM, it is needed to demodulate the signal.
With SSB, the carrier is not needed, as it is re-created in the receiver.
So those that want less wasted power, surely want to go all the way and use SSB.

There will always be some who will question things, and try it for themselves. I suppose this is not always bad, that is how the facts were discovered in the first place - by experimenting.
They will soon find out why it is so, why the manufacturers stick to limits, and why they put in parts that limit the rx and tx performance.

There are plenty who blindly follow any advice, including that of the "screwdriver experts". They copy what they see their "rig doctor" do, without finding out if it is correct.

If they do want to experiment with radio, they should study and get a Ham licence. But if all they want to do is attempt to "beef up" their CB, then they would be better handing it to a "tech" to tune it properly.

> POINT #4: Radio is about communication, not winning > meter-reading contests.

Absolutely. What's the point of spending all your time tuning the system and getting reports, if you're never going to actually use the thing to talk on (unless you are doing it for money).

Anyway, I enjoyed the history lesson - and I did stay awake.

Regards,

Brainbuster.

Virus Warning:

If you receive an email entitled "Rumplestiltskin" delete it immediately. Do not open it. It will not only erase everything on your hard drive, but it will also delete anything on disks within 20 feet of your computer.

It demagnetises the stripes on ALL of your credit cards. It reprograms your ATM access code, screws up the tracking on your VCR and uses subspace field harmonics to scratch any CD's you attempt to play. It will re-calibrate your refrigerator's coolness settings so all your ice cream melts and your milk curdles. It will program your phone autodial to call only your mother-in-law's number.

This virus will mix antifreeze into your fish tank. It will drink all your beer. It will leave dirty socks on the coffee table when you are expecting company. Its radioactive emissions will cause your toe jam and bellybutton fuzz (be honest, you have some) to migrate behind your ears. It will replace your shampoo with Nair and your Nair with Rogaine, all while dating your current boy/girlfriend behind your back and billing their hotel rendezvous to your Visa card.

It will cause you to run with scissors and throw things in a way that is only fun until someone loses an eye. It will give you Dutch Elm Disease and Tinea. It will rewrite your backup files, changing all your active verbs to passive tense and incorporating undetectable misspellings which grossly change the interpretations of key sentences.

If the "Rumplestiltskin" message is opened in a Windows95 environment, it will leave the toilet seat up and leave your hair dryer plugged in dangerously close to a full bathtub. It will not only remove the forbidden tags from your mattresses and pillows, but it will also refill your skim milk with whole milk.

It will replace all your luncheon meat with Spam. It will molecularly rearrange your cologne or perfume, causing it to smell like dill pickles. It is insidious and subtle. It is dangerous and terrifying to behold. It is also a rather interesting shade of mauve.

I repeat.... do not open it.

Hi Landshark...

You have hit the nail on the head.
Someones views on CB do not make them less knowledgeable than someone of opposite views. Neither does it make them a "retard", as some would like us to think.

I have seen good technical posts from several people on this group, including "pro-legal", "keyclowns", and those who just don't want to take sides.

Steve said: "How about WE ,ALL OF US, end the personal vendettas for the time being.
From this point forward our true character will be defined."

You agreed that Steve's idea was good but then immediately returned to your predictable drone about "law breakers with no conscience or guilt". You cannot seem to follow yourself what you think is a good idea for others. You are a hypocrite.

To Toll, LS, NONAME, JAY, etc.

At the time of this writing, this country has mobilized the reserves and is in a state of war.

Do you EVEN WANT TO TAKE THE CHANCE that your overpowered, unfiltered, kitchen-table-made, ILLEGAL CB CRAP might negatively affect EVEN ONE of the thousands of HF radio nets being set up in the Washington DC area and beyond?

Aaparently you do.

How dare you INSULT our country's dead by gathering for the purpose of DEFYING FEDERAL LAW?

I don't care if you think they are trivial laws or not. Violations carry prison terms and heavy fines. Don't tell me that this the equivalent of jaywalking.

Right now, the USA needs your support and your allegiance. No one in his right mind would purposely break the law and revel in the fact that he is getting away with it - except a psychopath or a moron.

Even a power mic can be interpreted as a "non-stock" item in the "transmitter" section of a radio. Properly adjusted, these can make a tremendous difference in the readability of your signal/audio. Notice I didn't say "quality" as I believe some distortion is introduced into the processed audio. I could be wrong here, this is just a hunch. A well adjusted speech processor sure does beat a D-104 or Echo mic "cranked wide open." Go for it.

>However, it would take you REALLY pissing someone off to get them to bust >you for a speech processor.

Interference attracts attention. Since I already know your set-up, I know this is not a concern. Are you going to put this in the Grant? The SP-1a was originally designed for the AR-3500, and what a job it did! Run it conservatively.

>Make DAMN SURE you have a audio low pass filter after the speech processor

I reiterate, run it conservatively and you'll be amazed at the difference. I also happen to know your mode of choice, "AM...what's AM?" Take care and 73.

Hi Dick,

Does speech processing introduce a small amount of distortion into the processed audio? I've heard so, but to be honest, I just don't know where?

>I wouldn't have a clue just what the SP-1A does or how it does it -- most >likely someone's old proprietary chip.

It was originally designed as an option for the Clear Channel AR-3500 10 meter radio, one of the cleanest of the "dubious" 10/11 meter rigs. I had it installed on my old AR-3500, and the transmitted audio was quite "clean" as long as you didn't try to wring every ounce of audio/power out of the raduo. I got better RST reports with the stock 30 watts and a moderate level of speech processing than those who "tweaked" their radios to the limit and "clipped" their modulation limiters out.

So true. Thanks for the post, Twist. I have a feeling we are going to see a country get dismantled brick by brick until we find what we are looking for. I also have a feeling that if anyone else (hello, Sadam!) wants to get in the way, they can get dismantled also. People tend to forget. Yes, we may depend upon middle East oil for half (or is it 3/4?) of our supply - but rationing could come into being again. A small price to pay. Does anyone have quotes as to how many ships/tanks/aircraft were turned out over a given period of time during WWII? Anyone doubt it could be done again? I wonder how the orders for single-use airframes are comming along these days? We have the technology, and, dit, we STILL have the guts! Heck, I spent time in Vietnam - if I could just convince someone that I might be a bit over 50 but can still type over 60 WPM on a bad day into a headwind as well as troubleshoot and repair electronics ... but, you have to be something like no older than 32 (you can subtract the number of years you served from your age) to join. Hell, I'd go in a heartbeat.

I mentioned that he should redo the solder joints in the PLL area. That would include the VCO, reference oscillator and offsets.

The funny thing is that the RX/TX light turns red. Usually, when the VCO is out of range the lock detector pin switches logic and prevents any TX activity (the RX/TX light stays green).
However, you never know, someone may have defeated the lock detector.

You're right, it's an unusual problem based of the seemingly misleading symptoms. However, it wouldn't take much to check the VCO. L19 and L20 control it with L19 being the more sensitive. Within a quarter turn either way he'll know whether that's it or not.

You'd think so, but the guy said that the TX/RX light turns red. If he's mistaken and it only turns red when the radio will actually transmit, then that's it. Touch up L19 to where it transmits reliably at each end of its frequency capability and put it back in service.

The site on it (which I had not accessed at the time) indicates it is a compressor and a pretty hefty one at that. Compression is like the AGC on a receiver, it adjusts gain according to a sample of audio taken over a period of time (AM receiver AGCs just use the carrier). By the nature of the filter used, highs tend to control so to some extent the frequency curve is changed but then you do not often change voices at millisecond intervals.
In most setups the output is designed to be limited to essentially the input so unless you go berserk (as you indicate) it is pretty clean. It is, of course, possible to use classic techniques, small coupling caps to bust the lows and an RC trap (a tone control) to roll off the highs. One of the more effective ones was in Standard Marine Radios in the xtal days; it came from the ECG book as a vertical amp. OP amps work jake in compressor circuits.

The problem with compression is background noise. The earliest one I remember was the Gates Sta-level which was designed to let a rock-jock at a 500 watter in Rotten Crotch TN be all over cuing records, etc. without the audience being aware of it. But broadcast studios don't have a lot of background noise. I vividly recall a station out of the Mojave years ago in the AM days who ran out of a padded cell to keep the sound of toilets flushing six miles away from going out; when he keyed up and the antenna relays clanked and the blowers came up he sounded like the Voice of God and an explosion in a junkyard. Put a Golden Eagle to shame.

You also lose dynamic range, the natural variations in voice level which is no big deal in communications but can get a little eerie if you watch the local Gene Scott wannabe wander all over the dias, wave his arms, invoke the demons, etc with no change in voice level. This gizmo if it does what it claims to do should raise the normal 20-25% average to peak level of the voice into the range of 60 or so. Doubling or tripling audio moxie is well worth the investment.

They pay me to tease shades of meaning from social and cultural issues, to provide words that help make sense of that which troubles the American soul. But in this moment of airless shock when hot tears sting disbelieving eyes, the only thing I can find to say, the only words that seem to fit, must be addressed to the unknown author of this suffering. You monster. You beast. You unspeakable bastard.

What lesson did you hope to teach us by your coward's attack on our World Trade Center, our Pentagon, us? What was it you hoped we would learn? Whatever it was, please know that you failed.

Did you want us to respect your cause? You just damned your cause.
Did you want to make us fear? You just steeled our resolve.
Did you want to tear us apart? You just brought us together.

Let me tell you about my people. We are a vast and quarrelsome family, a family rent by racial, cultural, political and class division, but a family nonetheless. We're frivolous, yes, capable of expending tremendous emotional energy on pop cultural minutiae, a singer's revealing dress, a ball team's misfortune, a cartoon mouse.

We're wealthy, too, spoiled by the ready availability of trinkets and material goods, and maybe because of that, we walk through life with a certain sense of blithe entitlement. We are fundamentally decent, though -- peace-loving and compassionate. We struggle to know the right thing and to do it. And we are, the overwhelming majority of us, people of faith, believers in a just and loving God.
Some people -- you, perhaps -- think that any or all of this makes us weak. You're mistaken. We are not weak. Indeed, we are strong in ways that cannot be measured by arsenals.
Yes, we're in pain now. We are in mourning and we are in shock. We're still grappling with the unreality of the awful thing you did, still working to make ourselves understand that this isn't a special effect from some Hollywood blockbuster, isn't the plot development from a Tom Clancy novel.

Both in terms of the awful scope of its ambition and the probable final death toll, your attacks are likely to go down as the worst acts of terrorism in the history of the United States and, indeed, the history of the world. You've bloodied us as we have never been bloodied before.

But there's a gulf of difference between making us bloody and making us fall. This is the lesson Japan was taught to its bitter sorrow the last time anyone hit us this hard, the last time anyone brought us such abrupt and monumental pain. When roused, we are righteous in our outrage, terrible in our force. When provoked by this level of barbarism, we will bear any suffering, pay any cost, go to any length, in the pursuit of justice.

I tell you this without fear of contradiction. I know my people, as you, I think, do not. What I know reassures me. It also causes me to tremble with dread of the future.
In days to come, there will be recrimination and accusation, fingers pointing to determine whose failure allowed this to happen and what can be done to prevent it from happening again. There will be heightened security, misguided talk of revoking basic freedoms. We'll go forward from this moment sobered, chastened, sad. But determined, too. Unimaginably determined.
You see, there is steel beneath this velvet. That aspect of our character is seldom understood by people who don't know us well. On this day, the family's bickering is put on hold. As Americans we will weep, as Americans we will mourn, and as Americans, we will rise in defense of all that we cherish.

Still, I keep wondering what it was you hoped to teach us. It occurs to me that maybe you just wanted us to know the depths of your hatred.
If that's the case, consider the message received. And take this message in exchange: You don't know my people. You don't know what we're about. You don't know what you just started.
But you're about to learn.

Hi Brainiac, Thank you for acknowledging that, I have been anything but a perfect Usenet cb person for the past year. But I just got so tired of the legalities crap, that every post that was spouting off the rules was pissing me off.
I then realized their strategy was not to try to convert or prevent illegal activities, but was to tie the group up with as much wasted bandwidth they could.
A very basic troll activity, but very effective.

does that make you any less knowledgeable?

Excellent reply Sly.
But alas these people really have no concern for anyone other than themselves, that is evident by the types of post they are making.
I, like I'm sure you did, went and gave blood.
I have made an arrangement with the local blood and my employee's to do this every 3 months, so in the long run we can make a difference, unlike the constant whining of certain individuals on here.

Hello Brainiac,
Yes I'll agree, just because you did or don't condone it, doesn't make you an evil person. I believe that a properly tuned antenna & radio is the way to go at home.
I have always felt that in your mobile, an amp maybe necessary, so I am consider a bad person now for believing this.
Well I have been watching the BBC concerning the events over here. It is quite interesting seeing and hearing the news from a different view point.

Take care and don't let the legal bite,

Yes I use a Cb, I can admit that but what does that have to do with me holding a FCC license for 23 years lets see you were born in 1970 I have held the license since 1978 I have been a ham almost your entire life, thats
the point you cannot take and I am only 9 years older than you. Keep up the studying tho I know its hard to memorize 2 question pools .

Just in case you happen to miss this, I'll repost
it for you:

NO Han's your wrong on all accounts, you are so blinded with your hatred towards most of us, you can't see anything technical from us. I could post
Tech, Jay, Toll, Eitner among others know pretty
much of the extent of my knowledge on radio's
and antenna's, but I gave up long ago when other's,

then you started with your insistent whining about legalities and accusations.

> Do you want to know why I change screen

Again, you seem to think that opening a word document cut & pasting it takes some sort of large amount of time, please don't flatter yourself.
It seem to piss you off that no matter what nic you HIDE behind, I'll post it for everyone to see what you are really like.

Actually no, I was just trying to show you what it looked like, but you were not going to see beyond you're hatred and jealousy of others out here that don't give in to YOU'RE harassment.

>you added

should allow looters, murderers, drug dealers etc because there are much worse things in life to worry about. Get real always looking for a excuse

Another Golden Screwdriver!
1 Watt key and swing to max will sound very very raspy, why not leave the radio alone the small gain you get, no one could ever tell the difference, the only thuing they can gear is a raspy over blown radio. Especially since you are a Radio Hack and have no idea what you are doing and why what you are doing does to the radio.

So this is your way of retribution. They disrupt the airwaves and you disrupt the NG, You are the hypocrite you do exactly what you despise. You are worse than they are because you try to talk like you are high and mighty when you are beneath the people you hate. I guarantee you will be caught, I cannot say the same for the Cbers with amp because your trail of posts follow you like a bad credit report.

Oh we all know that it was you, not sparky.Because you are now accusing sparky of being that person that turned the group upside down, remember, the MIBX account.

That's a laugh. me harassing you.

Well, now that everyone has seen that you are really only here to argue, my, as you put it "job" is done. I never think of it as a job like you, but when your entire life (like yours) revolves around this group, I guess you do look at it as a job, being an moron.

Thanks Dick,

Great explanation. Although I'm no electronics demon, I can follow your posts and appreciate the "straight skinny" in layman's terms. I'm not sure what site you referred to but this one seems to offer some nice info on speech processing. It even makes reference to the SP-1a. Take care and 73.

That is where the diplomacy comes in. Bin Laden or his surrogates in Arab governments have to be negotiated with. Bin Laden is expecting military strikes from the U.S. This is what he wants. The strikes will give him and his kind more warriors bent on destruction. Maybe next time it will be bio-warfare and over a million dead bodies instead of a building?

The Muslims know that they can not tolerate "Western values" in their religion but there is a large space between their countries and the West (I know about the Muslims in southern Europe and the proximity of Turkey to Europe but the Muslims have much room to live). The problem is Israel, there is no getting away from that. Israel is like a malignancy in the Middle East, it does not rest, it constantly tries to metastasize ("Jewish settlements"). If the "West" was the problem and not Israel then why don't the Muslims bomb Britain, France and Germany?

Only the French have been bombed by Muslims and that was because of Algeria and the bombings were by Algerians. That is the "Vietnam" for the French. The only Muslim bombing in Germany was by Libyans against U.S. military personnel in Germany.

Israel is the problem.

America is a sad place, so much promise and potential but it has been hijacked by the Zionists for their genocidal cause in Israel and the surrounding countries. The map that the Zionists are working from shows Egypt and Jordan as part of Israel.

Less than 5% of Americans (which includes the 2% of Americans who are Jews) know of the Nazi-Zionist alliance that created Israel. Americans are very immature politically and are kept that way through a massive propaganda system that is very much like what George Orwell described in "1984".

General Wesley Clark is a Zionist Jew (this has been revealed in the "American" media -that he's a Jew, not the Zionist part of the story- but is still largely unknown and people will think you are a crank for referring to him as a Jew because of his physical appearance). The New York Times is owned and run by Zionist Jews as is the Washington Post. William Kristol, Editor of the Rupert Murdoch "conservative" publication "The Weekly Standard" is a Zionist Jew. Rupert Murdoch himself may be a Zionist Jew as well because Zionists would be willing to recognize him as such (http://www.geocities.com/CapitolHill/Parliament/3975/newshist.htm).

Pat Robertson and Jerry Falwell are not Jews but they are strong supporters of Zionists, both politically and monetarily.

Zionists want all Jews in Israel, including "Jews" who are not considered Jews by the Rabbis, people with a Jewish great grandparent for instance. The Zionists understand that even Synagogue Jews will not go to Israel without someone pointing a gun at them and ordering them onto the plane.

Hi Robbie,
Did you check that it was properly grounded?
Sometimes I've seen systems with only one antenna properly grounded work ok, but when removing one, the bad one remained.

2105. HIT THE BUILDINGS... MISSED AMERICA

An open letter to a terrorist:

Well, you hit the World Trade Center, but you missed America. You hit the Pentagon, but you missed America.
You used helpless American bodies, to take out other American bodies, but like a poor marksman, you STILL missed America.

Why? Because of something you guys will never understand.
America isn't about a building or two, not about financial centers, not about military centers, America isn't about a place, America isn't even about a bunch of bodies. America is about an IDEA. An idea, that you can go someplace where you can earn as much as you can figure out how to, live for the most part, like you envisioned living, and pursue Happiness. (No guarantees that you'll reach it, but you can sure try!)

Go ahead and whine your terrorist whine, and chant your terrorist litany: "If you can not see my point, then feel my pain."
This concept is alien to Americans. We live in a country where we don't have to see your point. But you're free to have one. We don't have to listen to your speech. But you're free to say one. Don't know where you got the strange idea that everyone has to agree with you. We don't agree with each other in this country, almost as a matter of pride. We're a collection of guys that don't agree, called States. We united our individual states to protect ourselves from tyranny in the world. Another idea, we made up on the spot. You CAN make it up as you go, when it's your country.

If you're free enough.

Yeah, we're fat, sloppy, easy-going goofs most of the time.
That's an unfortunate image to project to the world, but it comes of feeling free and easy about the world you live in.
It's unfortunate too, because people start to forget that when you attack Americans, they tend to fight like a cornered badger. The first we knew of the War of 1812, was when England burned Washington D.C. to the ground. Didn't turn out like England thought it was going to, and it's not going to turn out like you think, either. Sorry, but you're not the first bully on our shores, just the most recent.

No Marquis of Queensbury rules for Americans, either. We were the FIRST and so far, only country in the world to use nuclear weapons in anger. Horrific idea, nowadays? News for you bucko, it was back then too, but we used it anyway. Only had two of them in the whole world and we used 'em both. Grandpa Jones worked on the Manhattan Project. Told me once, that right up until they threw the switch, the physicists were still arguing over whether the Uranium alone would fission, or whether it would start a fissioning chain reaction that would eat everything. But they threw the switch anyway, because we had a War to win. Does that tell you something about American Resolve?

So who just declared War on us? It would be nice to point to some real estate, like the good old days. Unfortunately, we're probably at war with random camps, in far-flung places. Who think they're safe. Just like the Barbary Pirates did. They were wrong. So are you. Better start sleeping with one eye open.

There's a spirit that tends to take over people who come to this country, looking for opportunity, looking for liberty, looking for freedom. Even if they misuse it. The Marielistas that Castro emptied out of his prisons, were overjoyed to find out how much freedom there was. First thing they did when they hit our shores, was run out and buy guns. The ones that didn't end up dead, ended up in prisons. It was a big problem then (especially in south Florida). We solved that problem. As for you, you're only the newest problem, not the first.

You guys seem to be incapable of understanding that we don't live in America, America lives in US! American Spirit is what it's called. And killing a few thousand of us, or a few million of us, won't change it. Most of the time, it's a pretty happy-go-lucky kind of Spirit. Until we're crossed in a cowardly manner, then it becomes an entirely different kind of Spirit.

Wait until you see what we do with that Spirit, this time.

Sleep tight, if you can. We're coming.

FCC Affirms Ban on CB DXing
Posted: 2001-08-22 17:41:33.123
The FCC has once again said no to permitting CBers to communicate with stations more than 155 miles away. According to the ARRL Letter, the Commission denied a Petition for Reconsideration filed by former Popular Communications columnist Alan Dixon, N3HOE, seeking to lift the distance prohibition and permit contacts with stations in other countries. The FCC said such communications were inconsistent with the fundamental purpose of the CB radio service. On the other hand, many CBers routinely work faraway stations when propagation permits, and FCC enforcement of the 155-mile rule has been virtually non-existent.
(from QST)

Amateur Bands might be important, however I HAVE been all across the US, and where was any ARRL or QST?
look in a truck-stop, ever seen ANY equipment, OR test books? NO!
It would be nice to talk to family/wife etc.. on 70 cm repeater, see it happening soon? or ever? NO!

This chase of CB'ers is not the highest priorty for the FCC, Comercial work holds them at bay, with the wire-less pushing at the bands, for more room.

Hams could of had way more power, if the had found a way to ceed 12m and 10m to CB, in a deal (with lic again) to get more members, it would be way more than doubling membership,there are at least 5-7 million(!!) truckdrivers alone,plus others.....

But,no! I guess CB will survive without ANY help from the majority of ham operators.

I guess when 300,000 members finally grow old and check-out, the ARRL won't have enough money to hold back the grab on the whole spectrum, and we all will lose.

Thank-You very much for your short sightedness

P.S. : where do you THINK they will get the bandwith for "internet 2", it's not going to be all fiber-optic, that would cut into the profit too much!

He didn't ask for a MARS/CAP mod, he asked for 11 meters, Tnom.
Calling it a "MARS/CAP" mod when you know he is going to use it on CB is dishonest and deceptive.

You should be ashamed of yourself.

Right now there are four people from this NG (using their real names, addresses, ham callsigns, etc) who have sent written formal complaints as well as information about the planned keydown in DC to a number of authority agencies.

It wasn't hard to find supporting websites and documentation that described the extreme power levels and the potential for interference to military/public service comms. Unauthorized, potentially disruptive high power RF transmissions in the vicinity of the Capitol will likely get some attention.

It took us took about an hour or so over the past few days to do this. If nothing comes of it, I won't mind at all as I've invested nothing except an hour of my time.

Conversely, the 'keyclowns' have a lot to lose. It would not take much for US Government authorities to be in the neighborhood of the keydown site on the day of the event.

I sincerely hope you guys get popped by the FCC, or at least hassled by National Guardsmen on duty in the area.

One thing that is certain is that Riley is working on fulfilling his

Not from the HF bands. The full 30 MHz is not even a fraction of the bandwidth that is needed to expand the internet.

For that matter, the full spectrum up to 1 GHz is not enough. There is a lot more bandwidth than that already running over fiber.

The DEA is also listed as having frequencies in use above the standard 40 channels, below 10 meters.

Just because the space is allocated doesn't mean it is in use, nor would it be in use in all locations at all times.

Im sure the government, investigating the biggest act of war against itself, on it's own land, with untold amounts of enemies IN THE AREA are going to use standard FM transmissions in plain text.

That's an outlandish lie. You attempt to stop people constantly.

No, but due to security implications, it is well known in the San Diego area (base for Navy Seals, as well as a Marine special forces unit, and up until a decade or so ago, home to Top Gun. As well as my home) that whenever any type of investigation is being run, they use spread spectrum comms to minimize the chance of giving the enemy any pertinant info. Don't be so

I have, as well as put forth a reliable argument, based on information gleaned from living in places where security sensitive information was passed on a daily basis, and growing up with the radio hobby at my disposal.

Mebbe you have heard of Bill Cheek / Dr. Rigormortis.. The same person trying to catch some CBers, nor are they going to expend much effort on it ATM.

Tying up public officials resources at a time of war is stupid as well.

I had figured that was the radio he was talking about. Thats the X30 model EVERYONE wants the correct readout on. :(

It is possible, by changing crystals, then you have to work on the freq counter to get it correct, as well.

Ice,

I appreciate your disdain, but haven't you figured this out yet? It's nothing to do with any concern for FCC rules and regulations, it's all about the argument. It's trolling for nothing other than the sake of the troll. The worst thing one can do to an AKCer is to simply ignore them. Turn up the newsgroup squelch and filter them out. Our country's tragedy is the perfect time to "troll" as they provoke even greater outrage. If everyone simply ignored this stuff, the tactics would change. First would come the multiple repetitive posts, an AKCer's equivalent to throwing themself on the floor and having a good old fashioned temper tantrum. Then the profanity, for shock value. Eventually, like all babies, they'd get tired and find new ground to troll. Perhaps the scanner enthusiasts who have cellular coverage? It's actually amusing if you watch the trends and forget about the content. Take care and 73.

As would I because a lot of radios do a certain amount of this already and getting the adjustment right could be cute but not all that critical. Some old Lafayettes did compression in the 70s and it is not uncommon today to do a feedback thing to negate power mikes. I am not the man to consult on this - sold my scope.

Where this really works is on FM rigs. I have done it in repeaters to keep different inputs sounding more or less alike but sneaking in a bit of compression is always good for a laugh when some newbie asks why he sounds better on your machine than the one run by the local technos.

Takes some lashing up but you can get pretty close on the settings with your stereo.

Aaron given the current state of paranoia in the capital right now the only explanation for holding that event is to provide target practice for the military. Lighting up the RF spectrum around there, with huge amounts of illegal power, would look like some kind of "homing beacon" marking the path for another suicide attack. Anybody who goes to that "event" has to be brain dead.

Leland I will agree that a high power RF signal does act as a beacon. The enemy could by rights home in on such a signal. My HAM buddy and me talked last night about it and years ago during a war they gave Hams a order not to use their rigs for that same reason.

> The FCC does not do the NSA's

The NSA will be using FCC assets to do some of the monitoring, and DF functions since the FCC already has DF sites in place. I'm also sure the FCC will either do the work or provide assistance to NSA personnel.

> The FBI is not going to be looking for random communications unless the

That you don't know for a fact one way or another. However it would be a safe bet to conclude under the present conditions that the more "ears" there are to monitor the better the chances of finding something. That's not unlike the "random" searchs done at border crossings.

> And the NSA looks at content, not whether the source of the communications

I think all content is being looked at.

And I did point out that during W.W.I and W.W.II ALL private short-wave communications were terminated during the two wars. Since CB Radio did not exist until after W.W.II, it would be included in any such order now. We are all in the same boat at the moment. Anything that can be done to help the investigators do their job should be done, and that includes playing by the rules.

Anybody who advocates violating Part 95 at this time, thus wasting somebody's time figuring out why some bozo is transmitting out of band, using illegal power levels, and contacting foreign DX stations, is not a patriotic American. And that's the bottom line.

Let's put it this way Twisted, we trusted the FAA for airport security, and look what it got us, 5000 people missing and most likely dead. We trusted the INS for our border security, and the terrorists drove right in from Canada. We trusted the FBI to keep watch on suspected people inside the borders of this country, and it appears they didn't do a good job of that. Heck, the terrorists were learning to fly those planes in your home state Twisted. Now you come along and say:

"Trust me when I tell you this, the terrorists are not using AM to communicate, especially at the frequencies you are rallying about."

Yeah, right. Given the professional's sorry track record, and a lack of any from you, why should you be trusted more that any of the professionals? You have to be brain dead to not have monitored any of those "number stations" on various short-wave frequencies. Given the current sun spot cycle, and the availability of 10m/11m DX there is no logical reason why those frequencies can't be used, or have not been used. Just because you have not "personally" monitored anything does not automatically mean they are not, or have not been used.

Hi Mark,

Yeah, you know my style. I don't really pi$$ anybody off (Except perhaps, the Mrs.) and I Haven't interfered with much of anyone in over twenty years. Yes, this will go in the Grant. I have a nice old Turner non-amplified crystal 254 desk mic that should do well in the clarity department. I think I'll try addinga little speech processing to go along with it. If the Turner doesn't work out I've a spare Heil non-amplified mic I can try as well. AM?...the last time I keyed a transmitter with the mode selector in the AM position was around 1976/77 for about 6 to 8 mos. Oh yeah, perhaps once or twice in the early 80's on ch. 10 to check traffic on the Southern State Pkwy., although some fella who called himself "Superstar Sam Cooke" (...and later "Bobby Womack") running quite a few hundred watts on ch. 6 quickly reminded me of why I never gravitated to AM. I wish I'd had the Channel Guard IF filter then, stops them cold. I will admit to having some nice ch. 20 round-tables during those 6 to 8 mos. though.

A bit of a challenge to all out there. That idiot terrorist - what is his name?? Bin Laden?? Sounds like a particularly stupid name to me. How about coming up with some different versions of it?? I have a couple to start the ball rolling, Bin Liner (pretty lame, but it is a start), and in the lingo of my workplace, and bin is also known as a shit tin - which to me is a pretty reasonable name for that arsehole. Any takers for the challenge??

trivial we think they are? Does this mean some innocent person should have

Well, how did you come up with your illogic?

The MDS was brought up under the assumption that it could have been used to prevent the WTC and Pentagon attacks.. Those people who brought that up need their heads examined...

First, would we really shoot down a COMMERCIAL airliner filled with CIVILIAN passengers over a POPULATED urban area?

Second, How many lives would the fallout of all that jet fuel, engine parts, etc have saved compared to how many were taken in the WTC and Pentagon attacks?

Now, an MDC would make sense if we knew a cruise missile or a ballistic missile were coming in over unpopulated areas, or over the ocean... but it would have made absolutely no difference in the attacks almost a week ago.

Dick, I don't think so. For some reason, I don't think the installation of speech processors really ever caught on. The masses seem to like the nice shiny "power mics" instead. I've been just as guilty of this in my day as well. In the late 70's, I had a Silver Eagle that I cranked a wee bit too high, just short of the infamous "Astatic squeal." You could hear a mouse pee on cotton when I keyed that mic. My buddies told me not to do the dishes while I was talking...that was my mom downstairs! But you live and you learn. The more I read about what was best for an intelligible communications signal, the less I liked the "voice of God" audio. I still enjoy collecting various mics, mostly Turners, but my 'Big Audio Dynamite' (An 80's new wave music group, I liked the name.) days are over.
Speech processing seems to fit the bill better.

hey ice, i know that land is a commodity in the lower side of manhatten but please tell them that this area where the wtc was should, be made into a large memorial.....a reminder of our arogance, our pride, our stupidity, and our smallness in the great scheme of things and most of all, 6000 dead americans.....we should never, i repeat never forget what has happened and a great monument to these people that suffered and died there, should be eulogized by this memorial......just my thoughts on the matter.....

Let's put it this way Twisted, we trusted the FAA for airport security, and look what it got us, 5000 people missing and most likely dead. We trusted the INS for our border security, and the terrorists drove right in from Canada. We trusted the FBI to keep watch on suspected people inside the borders of this country, and it appears they didn't do a good job of that. Heck, the terrorists were learning to fly those planes in your home state Twisted. Now you come along and say:
"Trust me when I tell you this, the terrorists are not using AM to communicate, especially at the frequencies you are rallying about."

"And what I said has nothing to do with what you said."

Yeah, right. Given the professional's

"What professional?"

sorry track record, and a lack of any from you,

"Actually, you are incorrect once again. I get paid to voice my opinion, that alone enables me to claim a successful track record and throws your pals into a fit of envy unlike I have ever witnessed. Just because you and the dog pound are unable to locate anymore of my personal work, you assume it does not exist..hehe...all it shows is your incompetence and inability to locate it...God, me, and the entire group knows you tried in vain. Why are my doings so pertinent to you? You are getting way off subject and allowing your personal feelings to cloud any judgement you may reserve concerning the original topic."

should you be trusted more that any of the professionals?

"You are comparing me to airport security? I couldn't pay for my hobbies on a salary like that let alone make a comfortable living. "

You have to be brain dead to not have monitored any of those "number stations" on various short-wave frequencies.

"Oh, so now these stations are utilized by the Jihad participants? Gee, Leland, you have plenty of reading and learning to do, but far be it from me to attempt and correct your misguided and ignorant thinking."

Given the current sun spot cycle, and the availability of 10m/11m DX there is no logical reason why those frequencies can't be used, or have not been used.

"That's not what I said. Let me put in perspective. The leader of this radical hardline Muslim faction has more cash at his disposal than you will see in 3 lifetimes. They have a sophisticated hiarchy and communications are right up there technology-wise with anything you have ever worked on. Matter of fact, it was you that mentioned, incorrectly, that a locale in Michigan has the highest Muslim population in the country. As you allude, many were trained right here in the US, but not just in aviation. I would wager many have the same background you do in electronics, but probably with better grades. If you were actually paying attention to current events and reading instead of flapping your gums with rabid intent, you would know that certain leaders of terrorist cells directly descended from Bin Laden have been seen and photographed in the past several years in Pakistan and Jakarta, among other places, and their communications interceted and deciphered. Deciphered, not translated. That implies an encypted or coded message, and if you want to believe that they were telegraphing terrorist activities to all the world on simple AM broadcast, far be it from me to lift your veil of ignorance."

Just because you have not "personally" monitored anything does not automatically mean they are not, or have not been used.

"You go on believing that."

A bit of a challenge to all out there. That idiot terrorist - what is his name?? Bin Laden?? Sounds like a particularly stupid name to me. How about coming up with some different versions of it?? Yes but I would doubt they use radios much anymore with the advent of call and satellite phones. Especially radios in anything below 50MHz. Too big and bulky. If simple local law enforcement is using 800MHz trunked I really couldn't imagine what 3-letter federal agencies are using.

I'll oblige you both upon passing the code exam. My President Lincoln has the SP-1a installed and I'll be glad to have a QSO on the 10-meter
"Novice" sub-band. Landshark, I'll eventually have this in my Grant, so I'll be happy to QSO with your "local" station. If you're an HF ARO, then we'll do it on ten. It's weird, I've heard stations on 11-meters that haven't sounded particularly impressive, yet "splashed" like Flipper on PCP and, conversely, I've heard guys with the "voice of God" audio who couldn't even be heard 5 or 6 KHz away. Go figure?
Heard a fellow with a 100 watt AR-3500 with audio that literally put him sitting in the room right next to you. Beautiful rich audio that was really pleasing to the ear with very little background noise, but just disappeared 10 KHz away. I can't make any claims to bandwidth or any of those issues I hear certain ops complain about re. the AM audio kings on 75 or 80-meters. I've heard these signals can be quite inconsiderate re. bandwidth. The audio to which I refer to has always been monitored on SSB.

NSA doesn't have authority to act in the USA as an Enforcement Agency, most of these spook agencies depend upon other agencies for their expertise. They basically act as information clearing houses for for the institutions they serve i.e. President & Legislative.

Does this mean increased enforcement on CB at this time? Well, if any intellegence indicates that Radio or RF Comms could be a problem, then some type of action would be taken. What type of action could fill up five hundred newsgroup servers with speculation 8-<>. However the use of common sense should prevail in you radio comms, 1. Don't get off the beaten path (meaning to use frequencies not allocated to your service.) 2. Don't make threats or remarks which could cause panic or concern.
3. Don't discuss sesitive issues over the air such as specific security measures, rumors or any bs that causes increased concerns.

As to freebanding, there has been overkill as to the speculation but if Military Comms complain, then NTIA and FCC might swing into action. But that is the BIG IF.

Hello & Good Morning Bert,
Thanks, I'll listen for you. I had my ticket some 13 years ago, though I let it lapse. I was not to particularly fond of the ham bands in my area, as they were usually occupied by snobbiest elite types. I know they were the minority, but it seemed that no matter what, unless you were born in the early sixties and were only willing to their theories, you were shunned or looked down upon as inferior.
But again, I know that is only a very small faction where every you are.

Take care,
Landshark

Anyone who thinks that violating Part 95, or any other laws of this country because it in some way gets in the way of their fun, most definably does not know what this country stands for, and is NOT a patriotic American. If you consider observing the laws of this country to be "radical viewpoints" I think you belong on a FBI watch list.

I consider your incessant whining about the Part 95 rules to be indicative of your radical viewpoint. Your droning on about Part 95 this or Part 95 that is not going to change anyone's mind on either side of the issue. Using lame, half-assed arguments like you do is certainly not going to convince those on the other side of the issue from you. In your view everyone who drives 66 in a 65 MPH zone is an un-patriotic American then - you tell me that your viewpoint is not radical! You and those of your ilk are using this terrorist attack as a personal opportunity to pontificate your views. That is un-patriotic on your part. Most people with radical viewpoints like yourself are the worst hypocritical law breakers to be found. All of the missdeeds you imagine others are committing come from the fact that you are capable and probably have committed the same misdeeds yourself. Maybe you too belong on an FBI list.

Local law uses 800 MHz trunks because of a shortage of freqs in big cities and the lack of need for range; they are willing to pay for size.

Most of the freqs listed are lo-band FM stuff. It may be pretty old but for car-to-car lo-band is pretty hard to beat.

Well, there ARE options. I talked with a couple of Austalian stations with my whopping 2.5 watts on my 440 HT the other week. We have 10 meter links (as well as 6 meters, 2 meters, 220, and 440 MHz) into the repeater system as well as internet linking (a Kodak club is looking at internet linking on their 444.750 repeater). I used to chat with Norm, VK2NP, in Brisbane for hours on end back in the 60s, week after week on teletype from KG6AAY (then the station on the US Naval communications station on Guam). It was a ball. Didn't need real high power - usually just around 100 watts into a TH6-DX up 102 feet over salt water. 100 watts and the ability to choose your frequency will give you worldwide communications almost any time of day or night - regardless of the sunspot cycle.

Have a gooder there down under!

Anyone who uses this terrorist attack to further their personal radical viewpoints on Part 95 violators is not a patriotic American.

Anyone who thinks that violating Part 95, or any other laws of this country because it in some way gets in the way of their fun, most definably does not know what this country stands for, and is NOT a patriotic American.

"If I may, for a second.....on the contrary. I have said it previously and any history buff will confirm, this country was founded by outlaws, outlaws to the ruling government that was considered tyrannical and unjust. The laws they felt unjust, were discarded. If the feds asked the public to abdicate radio communications in the name of national security, I do not believe problems would arise from cbers, freebanders, or hammies. To imply otherwise is at best, foolish."

If you consider observing the laws of this country to be "radical viewpoints" I think you belong on a FBI watch list.

It was an interesting read Sylvester. However the author of that fine bit of prose forgot one thing. From what I have read in the past couple of days, and seen on TV, if it does come to pass, the terrorists have won already. Why? If they can get us to give up our freedoms in exchange for more security. And that is what I hear being proposed by our elected officials.

By turning us in to an armed camp, where everything we say, and do, comes under the scrutiny of some all powerful government agency, we would lose what it means to be an American. I have traveled to countries in Europe, and in Central/South America for business for the company I work for currently. I have seen first hand how this looks, where you see armed military on the street corners, in the airports as well as else where, in their green battle uniforms carrying automatic weapons that you KNOW are loaded. I have even had those guns pointed at me for nothing more than putting a camera bag down on the ground, or when a buddy leaned out a car window to take a photo, and didn't notice the truck load of army personnel near by on the same road.

Some of these people, their fear of terrorists has been replaced by the fear of their own government. Nothing brought this home more that the night I had asked a very nice young women out to dinner, as a thank you, for helping out with translating Spanish to English at the hotel where two of us from our company were staying for two months. When the three of us returned to the hotel that night a military helicopter flew overhead. I had never before seen such fear in somebody's eyes as I saw in that women's face as see looked up in to the sky.

Actually, once again, Aaron is misquoting, lyeing and generally making an asshole out of himself.

Anyone who has been on this board for the last few years that has asked me questions will answer that I have led them to know that amps are illegal, and if they pursue the want of one, and actually get one, I attempt to help them set it up to run cleanly.

I DON'T advocate running Class C equipment, I run bias on most of my amps, to the point of AB operation.

I DON'T advocate cutting limiters, and running radios wide open. This just creates trash, and actually HARMS the radios transmitted signal.. Some can handle having limiter pulled, and still maintain symetrical RF, while most can't. Generally, the older radios, with substandard audio amps fall into this category, or radios with electronically controlled carrier insertion.

So, again Voobner, your making an asshole out of yourself by misstating people, insinuating things that JUST AREN'T THEIR, and wasting your time. But continue. Without people like you, the rest of us wouldn't have puppets to strut around the world, would we?

LOL.

If we don't do exactly what Aaron wants, we are ALL antisocial, bin Laden gun toting idiots, according to him. He has compared the Keydowner akin to the attacks on the US and as such, should be taken with a grain of salt. Aaron knows nothing more than extremist tactics, and although (that we know of) he doesn't resort to violence, he still supports the suppression of free speech, dissimenation of information, and acts in a condemning way towards people that DON'T share his same beliefs.

Akin to bin Laden.

Shoe fits Aaron. Your true colors, as well as character now have someone we can equate you to. Glad for that. You where bordering on idiocy yourself.

Ok. I think this thread has gone on long enough. It really doesn't have anything to do with Amateur Radio, nor the use of Amateur Radio.
I am not going to say that I don't agree with some of the people here, but it would be better for us as Amateur Radio Operators, to show the true spirit of our hobby by helping out with communications in any way that we can.
I personally, have been helping out with the ARRL's National Traffic System, but at this time, it appears that all communications have been restored to the area. I was hoping to hear from people close to the disaster, who could tell their own personal stories on the use of Amateur Radio in the rescue efforts and with the survivors.

Packrat,

Yeah, but with the advent of "mini" HF rigs, there is no issue with size.
To further emphasize this, MANY frequencies well below 27 MHZ were and are in use in the aftermath of the attacks on the 11th. Hehe, I know, I was

Who chose to attack us? That was our choice?

As a man not of the US, I guess it's to be expected that you will blame everything on us. Understand this though, we don't have all the choices.
We didn't choose to be attacked and if it comes to world war three, your (and every other) country will still have a choice to make...whether to join

You'd be surprized about what is still in use and cold storage. Some Low Band Stuff is still utilized in areas where 800MHz and UHF stuff is impractical
such as out West. 3 Letter Fed Agencies use all type of stuff from 800-900 trunking to Lo Band and HF, most is inactive but one can never be quite sure.

No sweat Landshark,

I can certainly understand your point of view. I had my own "experience" with the likes you've just described. You are correct, however, in stating that they're in the minority. I eventually figured out (...aided by a good swift kick to the rear by my XYL) that the only person I was cheating was me...my bad.

If your licensed over 13 years ago, you probably have a CSCE tucked away someplace. "Cool beans!" You're way ahead of the game than I am. I've been studying the code for a some time and I'm feeling the pressure (Self imposed plus a friendly nudge from some folks that mean me well.) to get it done. Anyway, I'll let you know when it's in and we'll schedule a QSO. I know you're located well within the 155.3 mi. distance limit so I'm sure you'll have no problem answering a call to "Landshark, Long Island,"...right :-) You take care and thanks for the comments.

I wonder how many people here read Tom Clancy? In 2 of his recent books
he wrote a story about a japanese pilot who was pissed at the US so he flew his plane into the capital bldg. In the aftermath of this, in thebook they discussed the idea of having military or Secret Service armed with SAMS to shoot down planes. A SAM wil hit a plane yes, but it will do as much good to stop a jumbo jet ta close to it's destination as a BB will stop a 100 car freight train at full speed dowd a long 5% grade. Ok so the plane blows up, it is still close enough that the fuel and shrapnel/wreckage can do major damage.

What they need to do is make the civilian air control radar more like the military, if a civilian craft turns off their transponder it becomes

locals can use trunked systems because they never leave the area they have a "base station" tower that the local Leo's who never leave there jurisdiction(county,town, city) can reach, meanwhile the feds travel the country and car to car, handheld to cars, and handheld to handheld are still used with them being vhf/uhf. Messages that are of high security of course use different means.

Well Toll Free maybe in boonville Texas they don't use these Frequencies, but up in the Eastern Corridor of the Us they are very active. Speak about what you know, since this is something you don't know about. If you like provide some information to the contrary, post a link something other than your opinion. Thats all! Jesse, Do you have any info to provide that they don't use these frequencies
? I have been in the NYC area, daily and the gov freqs are hoping. As well as HF, I am sorry you doubt seriously they arent used but they are out there get a optoelectronics scout and sit at Liberty State Park and then tell me they are not being used.

Hey oldkeykollekter, chill out. Even though it is against the law, Noname and his pals have the freedom to go to DC on Oct. 12 and key their biggest, baddest boxes if they want to. If an overwhelming number of keyclowns go to this keydown (Oct 12, in DC) I might just stop posting because they will have proved that they are too powerful and smart for me.

Hi Dick,

I may catch a little hell for this but I think most guys want to be able to plug-and-play. Nobody (Not meant to actually be all-inclusive.) really seems too interested in hardwiring a speech processor or paying a tech to do it. Can you say "D-104?" This certainly does NOT apply to everybody. I admit that when I took delivery of my AR-3500, the SP-1a, CW filter, and battery back-up options were already installed...at my (chicken-hearted) request. I don't think many people will go out and buy these despite the advantages. Take care and 73.

Not at all. In fact, I have an idea how KEYCLOWNS can be used to fight bin Laden.

The US Govm't would announce an FCC-sanctioned "keydown" to be held simultaneously at Air Force bases across the country.

On the appointed day, the keyclowns who show up are herded into C-47's and flown to Afghanistan.

There they and their longnose Suburbans are parachuted into the hills where the terrorist training camps are.

Once on the ground, the keyclowns will all key up at once, focusing millions of watts of distorted audio at the enemy, effectively rendering all enemy frequencies useless.

In the ensuing confusion, US forces will level the region with nukes, sacrificing the keyclowns to save America.

I think it's a good plan because it kills two birds with one stone.

yeh that is a good idea, why don't you get out your old ranger 2950 and talk on the government freqs....you can't seem to talk much on 11 meters....considering all that radio equipment you recently bought.....but anytime you get up and running and be sure and give the

that is no doubt........

There's nuthin illegal about this damn stuff. SO WHAT if the guy is a Well either you were using the account or you are the person that was Again, proven liar, Hypocrite. Please spew that it was

Don't try to say prove it, because you lie, and saying

you can not prove you don't.
Anyone notice how he posts more now that the MIBX

many people out here respond to you

Hey No Fear, chill out. First of all, the city of Washington DC will be back to normal by October 12 and there will be no military activity there at all by that date. Secondly, the keyclowns are going to gather about 20 miles outside of DC and as we all know their signals would never reach 20 miles into the city and would never be heard on any other frequency except the one they are transmitting on. Thirdly, all the National Guard humvees and MP security posts are equipped with the latest super-sophisticated digitally encrypted spread-spectrum radios.
Lastly, there's nothing we can do to stop the keydown. Many of the keyclowns will probably make an extra effort to show up there just to hurt me. If too many show up I may just stop posting altogether.

So it is also written in Luke 6:
42. Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou thyself beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye. (-- Cross Ref. for Luke 6:42--- Proverbs 18:17 He that is first in his own cause seemeth just; but his neighbour cometh and searcheth him.)

43. For a good tree bringeth not forth corrupt fruit; neither doth a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. (-- Cross Ref. for Luke 6:43---Matthew 7:16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?)

44. For every tree is known by his own fruit. For of thorns men do not gather figs, nor of a bramble bush gather they grapes. (-- Cross Ref. for Luke 6:44---Matthew 12:33 Either make the tree good, and his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit.)

45. A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh. (-- Cross Ref. for Luke 6:45---Proverbs 4:23 Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.---and---Romans 8:5 For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit.)

> Matthew 7:1 - "Judge not, that you be not judged.

So it is also written also in Matthew 7:
17. Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.
18. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.
19. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.
20. Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.
21. Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.
22. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?

23. And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

> Matthew 12:27 - And if I cast out demons by Be-el'zebul, by whom do your sons > cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges.

So it is also written also in Matthew 12:
24. But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils.
25. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand:
26. And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?
27. And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.
28. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you.
29. Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house.
30. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.

Hey trainpuppet the trained puppet, whassamatta? You have repeatedly said that you were gonna "teach n8 a lesson", "set him straight", "have a keydown in front of his house", etc. As far as having what it takes, you are the sissy little keyclown boy who has proven that you do not. N8 reports no one has been by, either peacefully or not, his QTH. I guess it is you, trainpuppet the trained puppet, that does not have what it takes. N8 stands tall and commands all of you sissies to give it a try if you have the cojones.

As far as telling anyone how to run a radio station goes, or interfering with them doing so, we have the FCC for that. Us patriotic and NON CRIMINAL Americans just play our citizen's roles by telling our FAVORITE government agency where to find you criminal filth. Don't it suck that your tax dollars will help bust you, trainpuppet the trained puppet?

SEEYA AT THE DC KEYDOWN...oops...what's that? Oh yeah...I forgot...you don't have the guts to show up. You just talk big. Anti-boys will be there. We will be taking pics of the vehicles and license plates.

You proved nothing Thats not me where is my IP address, Every post I make has my IP address, yo need to look at the ip address that is there moron.
Look under X-User-info you want to accuse me you had better learn how to read headers. I hear twisty is having classes. So yes I have never posted own account, you should know you have read all 10,000 of my posts. But you Again you had better learn how to read a header because that didnt come from me, unlike your post where the Ip address clearly matches you are making assumptions again, and you know what happens then... I am guilty as them for what. Maybe when you realize I had nothing to do with them you can pull yourhead out your ass.

You are a real jackas, you make accusation with no proof, if i posted from somewhere else my ip address would be on it but it's not just like your ip address was when I caught you. You havent proved anything with my ip address except your reaching for straws

No that is you Landshak, If you say it enough it might become true? You have been caught beyond a shadow of doubt your Ip address was clearly on your posts, but yet you don't have that with me. Yes, every different name of mine has my Ip on it the other bullshit has nothing because it wasnt me, your grasping you are desperate. Hey No Fear, chill out. First of all, the city of Washington DC will be back to normal by October 12 and there will be no military activity there at all by that date. Secondly, the keyclowns are going to gather about 20 miles outside of DC and as we all know their signals would never reach 20 miles into the city and would never be heard on any other frequency except the one they are transmitting on. Thirdly, all the National Guard humvees and MP security posts are equipped with the

keyclowns will probably make an extra effort to show up there just to hurt me. If too many show up I may just stop posting altogether.

I knew someone would accuse badabing of being moparholic and if i didnt say

Yes, here you are trying to defend badabing, you are the one that post from the AOL account, then Cotse, then MIBX.
That's why you are here some 15 times a day since the MIBX account was terminated. You are the cowardly lion of the newsgroups. So you jump old man, because you are the proven liar now and as I have know for a while, one of the two persons doing most of the harassing posts on this group from AOL.
You can't prove me wrong, because it's true, but please beg, plead "I don't have an AOL account" LIAR! You can't prove you don't, but I have proved you did post from the MIBX account as Badabing.

I currently have a Lil' Wilson mag mount antenna on the roof of my pickup. I keep dragging the antenna on my garage door as well as other underground parking areas. I know I could remove it, but I am in and out of these locations so often that it would be a big pain. It has a 3ft steel whip.

Could I expect better or worse performance from say a 4ft or 5ft FireStik mounted on the hood?

Thanks

I have recently installed a new CB in my truck. I bought an antenna with a matched sealed cable. I also installed a noise reducer from Radio Shack to avoid any engine noise.

I am getting a lot of static (4 out of 5 bars on meter) when trying to listen to most channels (19 the worst). I know that when you are in an urban area you get a lot of static but this also happens out in the middle of nowhere.

Does anyone have any ideas on how to reduce the static. Now I have to turn Squelch all the way up to avoid the static.

I have the antenna well grounded to a steel headache rack mounted on bed of truck. The truck is a 2001 Chevy dually. The antenna is approx 5' long and was bought at a truck stop. I got one of the more expensive ones thinking it would be better.

I've heard of tuning the antenna but do not know how. Also I do not have any expensive radio equipment (swr meters, etc)

Any help would be appreciated.

Thank you in advance,

ok first off try this disconnect antena with truck running if noise goes away then your antenna is picking up the noise and you will have to find out where the noise is coming from for example: bad spark plug wire,electric fuel pump, alternator list goes on and on(anything electrical can do this). As far as the antenna goes go and get a good antenna 1 with a magnet mount it will perform just as well as the permanent mounts do. If after all this if it still does not work email me and I will try 2 help.

Depending on the radio and mike combination, it could be a major improvement, or nastiness to no end. If using a stock mike, it might help. If you're running an echo/power mike, you most likely don't sound your best anyway.

You get better average modulation with a limiter/clipper in place.
By disabling the limiter, you can put more then 100% modulation in the wrong place on the wave. You should find the NPC/RC mod for that radio instead.

locals can use trunked systems because they never leave the area they have a "base station" tower that the local Leo's who never leave there jurisdiction(county,town, city) can reach, meanwhile the feds travel the country and car to car, handheld to cars, and handheld to handheld are still used with them being vhf/uhf. Messages that are of high security of course use different means.

Check Sovtek out. In the search box in the top right corner type in your tube number. These folks also sell wholesale to dealer accounts. Their present retail price for the EL519 (6KG6) is $21.80 each. You may find them cheaper elsewhere but they are a good source. Good luck with your tube search.

RCI 2950 I am having problems radio, the problem is it shifts off frequency. I will be in the car, when I turn the radio on it works only for the first couple of minutes of talk time. But after a minute or two in shifts off frequency.I do recall someone posting a while back in this form a way to fix this problem.it does not shift off frequency just a little, it seems to shift off frequency quite a bit. it's not the 200 kHz offset problem, it seems to shift much greater than that. If anyone knows of a fixed please post or e-mail, and e-mail would be more preferred. And if I'm better off getting another radio I need to get something the exact same dimensions with a front panel plug for the microphone. Because I have been installed in my dashboard, and it was installed because in my sports car there was no room for the radio to be installed, it was installed where the ash tray was. So if I am better off getting another radio he would have to be something of the same size as the RCI 2950.

If anyone can help me with this please e-mail me at

Get burned on eBay, selling???
I dont think so. Set a minimum amount, the hell with reserve auctions, that's stupid.
Pay fees for what?! People look at reserve auctions like a flu bug, who wants to bid!
Simply place it at auction with the minimum you require. If you have decent feedback people will trust you. If not build up the feedback by making purchases or selling smaller items. As far as getting burned by a buyer, No Way. You are at the controls as seller. NO CHECKS. US POSTAL M.O. ONLY or PAYPAL/BILLPOINT. No way are you going to get burned under these conditions.

Appears Leland and Doug are up to some tricks again. A peek into the cb room will see what they have been up to lately. Please check headers carefully when it looks like a troll, as it is probably forged. The numbert of phony posts in rec.cb that are traceable back to these two are astronomical. Below is a post from Leland under one of his alias names he was using at the time. He was having a bit of trouble ending his posts through the remailer. This post exposed who was behind much of the pornographical and obscene language on the cb group. He finally got careless and didn't delete his sig. about, "Morse Code." Doug continues to post daily, obsessed with policing our group for so much as a clipped clarifier or a mod, then accusing the poster of being homosexual. A careful archive search will reveal his nature and alignment with Doug, and their preoccupation with porn and graphic posts. In this very forum, Leland, a computer science major, (Accoding to QRZ) was told by 2 separate amateurs that a post meant to look like it came from me was forged. Leland was adamant in claiming it was posted by me, but why, I have no idea. You would think a computer college grad would be able to tell a forged post from a webtver, no? I have asked him to explain this on many occassions, and when I do, well, just take a glance at the cb room. There are many questions for which Leland will not answer, but the only answer I want, is why? These two folks are the poorest examples of amateursI have ever come across. Hundreds of forgeries and pornographical posts are logged, and they are now attempting to cross post in order to further escalate their trolling. I do not post in amateur radio, so if you ever see a post from me, please check the headers, as it is a forgery. Have a good day.

You should write a novel, you are brilliant , brilliant.. Bravo Bravo I tell you one more time real slow, I don't have an aol account. I use the @ home system to make all my usenet posts, I use outlook express, I have the same Ip address every time I post, I change my nic regularly, I piss you off, You have proved nothing, you have said i post how many thousands of times and you have 1 post that you try to link to me that is weak, not even the same ip address as me nothing, i must be real good, at least when I catch you I have your ip address on the posts you nothing you didn't assume that doug and company forged that post along with the others. Why wasn't there more posts from mibx using badabing? that name lasted for a while on my account.
your pure speculation is rather amusing. You haven't proven anything other than what i always have admitted. You guys have blamed about 5 or more people for making those post they are sitting there laughing at you. They know the truth and so do I.Keep trying it is like reading the comic strips. hahaha

I'm gonna stick with the older saying (and my parody of it - 'Two wrongs

There's nuthin illegal about this damn stuff. SO WHAT if the guy is a CBer and says he operates it on CB. There's nothing illegal about modding stuff to work on ham bands and only using it on 3950 or 14310 and joining in the fun or even bootlegging on 10 meters (it's practically part of CB anyway) so STFU and go back to policing the ham bands and leave us freedom loving revolutionary heroes to use the radio rights that god gave us

Damn right BadaBing. I don't see why we can't break a few laws without these prudes acting all holy. After all it's us who have to pay the price if we get caught. Unfair laws are meant to be ignored. We're just giving people what they want. Who says it's illegal? Ham cops should keep their noses out of our business. They wouldn't last a second on the street. Enuf said.

2319. No fear/MIBX postings

Hi everyone,
As you know for months this newsgroup was inundated by postings from person/persons from and MIBX account.
Those posting were vile, vulgar, obscene, and of pornographic in nature. Only after months of complaints from dozens of people did they finally close that account.
Well it seems that our Mr. Pa. or as of right now, No fear was one if not the only person posting from that account. Oh, he will say show proof, I don't have an Aol account, It's not my @Home address, well that doesn't matter. What does matter is that three times he posted with Badabing, Helmet Sweeny which are his regular alias for @home.
So squirm Old boy, you have plagued this group for months now, spewing you love, then hate for illegalities.
Now the proof is in these posts.

That's good, let him do a little flooding, let him post a couple of

There's nuthin illegal about this damn stuff. SO WHAT if the guy is a CBer and says he operates it on CB. There's nothing illegal about modding stuff to work on ham bands and only using it on 3950 or 14310 and joining in the fun or even bootlegging on 10 meters (it's practically part of CB anyway) so STFU and go back to policing the ham bands and leave us freedom loving revolutionary heroes to use the radio rights that god gave us

With all this, I'm sure he will say, something like
"I would like to see the logs", "It didn't come from my computer" "It's not my IP address"

Of course it's not your @Home account, it's your AOL Account.

Hello Richard,
Ok, I've have to agree, it has been used a little too long. But on a livelier note did you know that No Fear was the person posting from MIBX. Look below how he used the alias Helmet Sweeny from that account.
Just like the Badabing namet. Oh well, not that it matters to you, I as most everyone else know that you don't get into the pissing matches. I will keep my opener to a minumum.

Take Richard,

Since you thought it was so important to mention as you say " I get paid to voice my opinion", as a pillar to support the creditability of your rebuttal comment, it's now far game to ask who pays you, and to get a reply. You deftly try to convey the idea that you possess an area of "expertise", while not specifically mentioning what it is. If you have such an "expert area", that is relevant to the current topic, and valuable enough to be paid for it, then what is your reluctance to name it?

This predilection you exhibit of alluding to various facts, statements, etc,, then eluding requests to substantiate them with legitimate verifiable facts is nothing just short of astounding Twisted.

Why don't you drop the artificial vale of secrecy you cloak yourself with, and publicly reveal who you are. Are you going to continue to hide behind that persona to protect that delicate identity of yours? After all of what has passed, and you still don't have the balls to reveal yourself, and have the courage where your real identity is associated with the dribble that you write here, but I do!

I can tell you Twisted, from hard earned personal experience, it doesn't hurt one tiny little bit. 8-))

It is unpatriotic to violate the laws of this country on one hand, attempt to elude the ridicule of being branded a law breaker with lame excuses, then on the other hand run to the law to seek it's protection when somebody violates your rights.

Try reading his two books:

"Executive Orders"

This is the book you referred to above, and what the US did after the attack.

"The Sum of All Fears"

This is where a mideast terrorist organization rebuilds a lost Israeli fission bomb, found during a prior war years earlier, in to a modern fusion weapon. It was then smuggled in to the US, and used to blow up a football stadium while a game was in progress.

I was told you are in some "Federal Database" already and thanks for the tip. They have been keeping a close eye on the Internet, mainly chat rooms, news groups etc. since they discovered some of the communications, by the terrorists, were conducted by computer.

You seem to think what happen in New York was some kind of Hollywood movie for your viewing enjoyment. I can picture you sitting in the armchair wearing a dirty tee-shirt and underwear, a cold brew in one hand, and eating popcorn with the other, while laughing up a storm as the people ran down the streets for their lives, when the towers collapsed.

This is normal for CB. Check it again at around 10PM. Bet the static is gone. It's called Ionosphere skip. You are hearing about 200 people at once. Basically static. At night this condition dies down.

This condition can be useful though for talking 1000's of miles.+

You know that commit may you jailed here. Some stupid high school kid called an old man, next door to the house where there was a party in progress he was at, an "Old Jew", and nothing else. Turned out the "Old Jew" was an Oakland County Judge, and the kid got 6 months in the county jail for shooting off his smart mouth to the wrong person. Maybe you will get lucky, so keep it up.

Oh, and why not? You have yet to demonstrate any form of respect to the country you live in that I have seen in this news group. On the other hand you show your disrespect for some of the laws of this country, deliberately, then compound it by making excuses. I can respect somebody who has violated the law, knows they did so, and makes an honest effort not to do so again. You just don't strike me as being that high a caliber of character.

I never said anything of the sort. It's ridiculous for you not to attend Oct 12 in DC just because of my opinions. If you don't go, you are as much as admitting that I, Voobner, have influence over you. That goes for anyone else that stays home on Oct. 12 instead of going to the keydown. If you don't go, that means you let my opinions intimidate you. If I were you I'd go there and key the biggest boxes you can lay your hands on to spite me.

Mad Boris thanks the mibx poster. Took him a while to figure out how to get Bozo*Flush to dig him out but he enjoyed the challenge.

If I thought getting into a pissing contest would do more than raise my blood pressure I would be out there hosing down the planet. But age takes its toll; when you get near 60 few can match you for volume but you can be destroyed in a pressure contest by a bunch of Cub Scouts.

No big thing.

Now, Mr. Troll, you know each 2SC2879 is good for about 120 watts per pill. You also know that CB is between 26.96 and 27.41 MHz.

Why don't you guys take this to e-mail, I mean who the hell wants to hear you guys cryin and posting stupid shit daily. You both are jackasses. Landshark, you have been caught before and are trying your damnest to get others to belive you.From reading the post either badabing, helmut made them, or he was forged since there is nothing tieing badabing to the post except for the name, there is no ip address to link him to it. Perhaps someone was at his terminal? I mean didn't Landshark use this excuse before.

Try reading his two books:

"Executive Orders"

This is the book you referred to above, and what the US did after the attack.

"The Sum of All Fears"

This is where a mideast terrorist organization rebuilds a lost Israeli fission bomb, found during a prior war years earlier, in to a modern fusion weapon. It was then smuggled in to the US, and used to blow up a football stadium while a game was in progress.

Actually, I got $220 for it, which included the shipping charges.. But that's beside the point...

The point was that the poster of the original message in this thread may potentially be attempting to rip someone off. I was trying to point that out for the more naive of us in this NG, but seeing as how you seem to want people to be able to have free reign here to attempt to rip people off, I'll just leave it alone.

Yes, the guy who bought my 2000 got a deal and a half... but ya know what? That's OK... I needed the money at the time, and he needed the radio, and that's just how the market works.

Since you thought it was so important to mention as you say " I get paid to voice my opinion", as a pillar to support the creditability of your rebuttal comment, it's now far game to ask who pays you, and to get a reply.

"Certainly, Leland. You fellas were so adept at rooting out articles I wrote and showing them off here like a badge of honor, I figured you would aleady provide the answers. But just to satisfy your curiosity, I will provide you with one source, WHEN you answer a question I posed to you long ago. After all, you made the claim that you were at work sharing my prose with your coworkers and even provided comment from them. Since the word "fair" suddenly and became part of the game you play, I submit you play by your own rules. Where do you work? Since you brought it into the conversation it is only fair game to ask you where this takes place? After all, I'm not the one who started laying claims about what I did for a living until AFTER you already showed the group my articles."

You deftly try to convey the idea that you possess an area of "expertise",

"You made use of that expertise when I pointed out the errors in your mistake laden bio."

while not specifically mentioning what it is. If you have such an "expert area", that is relevant to the current topic,

"Ah, it's only relevant when taken in context as to the extent one wishes..sort of like you seeking out an article of mine on freebanding, forging a post along with it, and posting it along with followups to the hammie groups attempting to make it look as if it was from me."

and valuable enough to be paid for it,

"Certainly."

then what is your reluctance to name it?

"No reluctance. I am still waiting for your answer from the question I posed you months ago when you began convicting your coworkers of sharing the same lethargic, convoluted logic and ignorance you possess. You first."

This predilection you exhibit of alluding to various facts, statements, etc,, then eluding requests to substantiate them with legitimate verifiable facts is nothing just short of astounding Twisted.

"Coming from the master of "dodge", your input is duly noted and filed as such."

Why don't you drop the artificial vale of secrecy you cloak yourself with, and publicly reveal who you are.

"What would be more interesting is why you concern yourself with such details?"

Are you going to continue to hide behind that persona to protect that delicate identity of yours?

"The so-called "delicateness" you speak of was created by your own hand, Leland."

After all of what has passed, and you still don't have the balls to reveal yourself, and have the courage where your real identity is associated with the dribble that you write here, but I do!

"Nobody cares but you, Leland. They have their own lives and can care less what I say or do. You haven't learned a thing, have you?"

"Yea? I'm waiting."

I can tell you Twisted, from hard earned personal experience,

"If your experience was hard earned, you would never, ever have needed someone like me to point out your grammatical and spelling errors on your qrz page that you claimed also served as your resume. The way I see it, you owe me for a consulting fee.....I pointed out the laughable errors that would cause a prospective employer to equate your "resume" with that of a subpar high school graduate, and you ran right to it and corrected it. That's ok leland, this one was a freebie. Your speed at correcting the errors I found in your "dribble", (the word I believe you used) that you were attempting to pass off as a resume is proof enough for me you say one thing, but deep down know another."

I thought you said I was a no-code anyway? Yes, I did not stutter 20 wpm thats 20 more wpm than you.

"My, my, you really stepped in it this time. You are correct, at 20 wpm, I would be stuttering, that is the only reason to account for the slothlike speed."

I admit I am rusty I don't have the use for it these days, you couldnt do 20 on your best day,

"You are correct. I am proficient in code, much more so than your laughable 20 per minute. Now, 20 per minute is usually an acceptable and respected rate per minute. HOWEVER, when one uses 20 wpm to BRAG about your code efficiency, such as you have, it is nothing more than your self damaging mode surfacing and absolutely hysterical to those that feel 20 wpm is slightly above nocode status."

I havent studied or used code in ages, don't really care for it myself. How does that discredit me?

"The code doesn't discredit you, you managed that all by yourself by attempting to use 20 wpm as some type accomplishment for yourself. It isn't. I have my own theories why you dislike code."
"And you ought to improve your speed. But I guess after almost 24 years with no improvements, the only speed for you to look forward to is, s-l-o-w-e-r."

Why do I need to improve my speed? Because you said so? I have passed all required tests, I cannot go any farther what is the sense?

"And here is where my theory about you is played out. What is the sense? As a hammie, you know darn good and well what the sense is. You don't use code 'cause at barely keeping with 20 wpm (which I doubt, anyways, but hey, what do I know?) And why do you care, anyway?:) you are more than likely tagged as a newbie due to you not being able to remember, let alone distinguish and function with 20 separate characters. You were rejected by the hammies in every mode and medium, which is why you dwell among us here."

I don't use the code except for an occsasional qso, the hams these days have a hard time with 5 wpm. I am not a Cw user

"Hey, really, you are getting quite redundant here. You don't have to defend your lack of proficiency to me over and over, honest. You obviously feel insecure over your shortcomings enough to repeat your position. Instead of broadening your limitations, why do you feel compelled to defend them?"

That is un-patriotic on your part. Most people with radical viewpoints like yourself are the worst hypocritical law breakers to be found.

It is unpatriotic to violate the laws of this country on one hand,

"And which hand would that be, Leland? Speeding? Murder?"

attempt to elude the ridicule of being branded a law breaker

"Branded a lawbreaker? I see no one doing that, absolutely no one branding anyone as a lawbreaker, except you. Oh, and 'ol Yrac."

with lame excuses, then on the other hand run to the law to seek it's protection when somebody violates your rights.

leland, surely if thousands of boyscouts and girlscouts can learn cw you could too. wb6noa's tapes at radio shack worked fine for me around the age of 12. now i work the world on the freeband using cw/voice/digital modes. i love my radio hobby.

Tim, thousands of boyscouts and girlscouts got their Ham license,

"Here comes his "dodge" of the question."

so when are you going to get your Ham ticket, so you don't have to play on the mono band kiddy radio for the rest of your life? I love my radio

Some stupid high school kid called an old man, next door to the house where there was a party in progress he was at, an "Old Jew", and nothing else. Turned out the "Old Jew" was an Oakland County Judge, and the kid got 6 months in the county jail for shooting off his smart mouth to the wrong person. Maybe you will get lucky, so keep it up.

I wonder how many people here read Tom Clancy? In 2 of his recent books
he wrote a story about a japanese pilot who was pissed at the US so he flew his plane into the capital bldg. In the aftermath of this, in thebook they discussed the idea of having military or Secret Service
armed with SAMS to shoot down planes. A SAM wil hit a plane yes, but it will do as much good to stop a jumbo jet ta close to it's destination as a BB will stop a 100 car freight train at full speed dowd a long 5% grade. Ok so the plane blows up, it is still close enough that the fuel and shrapnel/wreckage can do major damage.

Try reading his two books:
"Executive Orders"
This is the book you referred to above, and what the US did after the attack.
"The Sum of All Fears"
This is where a mideast terrorist organization rebuilds a lost Israeli fission bomb, found during a prior war years earlier, in to a modern fusion weapon. It was then smuggled in to the US, and used to blow up a football stadium while a game was in progress.

"No, YOU do, Leland, and I feel quite confident in saying the majority of people everywhere are sickened by your type who would seek to capitalize on a situation like this, or further their own personal agenda, such as you have repeatedly demonstrated with several disgusting attempts. It is obvious you have never served your country, Mr. Scott, or you would never have made such terrible statements. Your statements equating freebanding with the horrible tragedy in New York only magnifies your blatant and callous disregard for human life.
It is citizens like you, Mr. Scott, that present America with it's own inherent dangers. Not a physical danger, but a psychlogical danger that undermines the very fabric and integrity of all that is American. Umm, not quite. Transponders emit a code which displays on the controller's screen as a number. You will hear them , for example, when the controller tells a pilot to "squawk "1150" (one-one five-zero). This serves as an identifier and assists in separating the various planes in the air.
If a pilot turns off his transponder, it does NOT "hide" the plane from the controller--the radar track will still be there as a series of "blips" on the screen and becomes an "unidentified" target. Civilian radar is quite so-phistocated---sometimes they even "see" flocks" of birds and warn pilots of their presence--and birds don't have transponders! LOL!

Actually Twist, I was the one that brought up Tom Clancy, he was just making a further comment on it. I do like to read, not only fiction but history, especially military history. I also try to keep current on military interests, as I come from a family with a stong military background, unfortunately I was physically unable to serve myself no matter how many times I tried to enlist.

While Mr. Clancy is most famous for his fiction, he has also written some well respected non fiction military books, he has given lectures at various military functions, CIA, and is a very well informed and educated person.

Boy, I tell you you are one sad ass person, Are you a paranoid person? It surely sounds like it but I will humour you, my Isp is Bell Atlantic, I am located in Chestertown, which is in Kent County Maryland. . my old ISP was Earth link, http://www.csrlink.net/ So now they are headquatered in Pennsylvania? haha You are either a demented person or have alot of time on your hands. You call me a hypocrite I think you are the hypocrite. Yes I have run massive watts, and now understand it is not a good idea to do so. But, in reality I don't think I have to explain my actions to you. What is your point really, I am a hypocrite? I look at this Newsgroup and I see hypocrites all around yourself being one of the major players.

Here were the dial-ups I used to use, until i switched to Bell Atlantic because they bill me right on my phone bill. I could not get the same name from bell atlantic as I did on Earthlink, perhaps thats why you don't recognize any of my previous postings.

Oh come on don't clam up on me I really want to know what typical power levels one could find at the 'break'. The directional entennas on the vehicles must add a gain figure, right? I just need an estimate of the total ERP in each class.

Skipp this is a CB newsgroup. As you know, amplifiers are illegal for use on CB. Try the ham newsgroup. Or if you insist this NG is the appropriate forum, maybe you should explain to University Of California, Davis why you are using their computing resources to promote and encourage the breaking of federal law.

Skipp,
This is a CB Radio News Group and ANYTHING that has to do with CB Radio fits in here just fine. If the subject you would like to talk about is fair game. We LOVE talking about amplifiers as well. I DO know there have been a few problems with the KLV boxes but they have been relatively minor to date. Most REAL techs will be able to straighten out the frailties in the box for you.

Maybe i missed something Aannoying Aaron. Explain to me if you will what sort of laws Skipp has broken asking a question. I am real interested to see what constitutes illegal activities in posing a question from a college computer.
You seem to be the self-proclaimed expert in this country's laws, so tell us all, A.A, what specific laws are being broken here. Specifically those that are related to the "promotion" (dont see where Skipp was promoting anything) and "encouragement" (i must be blind, didnt see any encouragement mentioned in his post either).
Save the "making excuses for illegal activities" bullshit for another post. I am not making excuses or defending anyone. I want to know exactly how, and with what set of laws you are using to label Skipp with.
I'm not afraid of being proven wrong, so give it yer best shot A.A. Gonna bet a beer you will come up with zilch.

Ha Ha this is some funny shit, all with no proof except one of the many many names I have used was used, There is not 1 iota of proof, Ie: ip address etc from these posts. I am now being called taxi driver as well. haha The funny part they had this guy/guys nailed months ago, dead nutz they accused no less than 4 people. Now I am him... The reason for this accusations are clear Landshark is still mad because he and Sparky where in a heated battle and Sparky brought to light some of Landsharks seedy posting in a few taboo newsgroups. Of course I did jump in with Sparky when Landshark came up with every excuse in the book, his computer was hijacked, or it was in the shop getting fixed, or his dog at his homework. Whatever floats your boat Landshark...If any of you keyclowns has the nuts to come to my home I will show you my radio room and my computer. you can e-mail me at landshark@home.com... I was using 12 volts for my figures. As for "entennas", I can turn my vehicle 180 degrees, and go from talking to California to Ireland. I figure I have an approximate 3dB front-to-back. This was unplanned, but when I switched from K-40's to properly mounted KW-7's (this was mid 80's), they could only be mounted on the rear of the car. I learned how to deal with it and use it to my advantage in knocking out unwanteds and getting a fix on dead keyers. I love to drive by and honk my horn so I can hear it in the radio. BTW, if I go to the keydown, I will be a watcher. My stuff is too clean to make the tape.

12 volts, limiter in place, stock mike, 2 watt dead key, PC-122 no extras, TS DX-250:
report me, then go get Bin Laden, bring him back to justice (Watch AA ignore this line!)

So Twisted WHO is paying you to stir up trouble on the news group? Or is being "paid to voice my opinion" just another lie on your part? And all your opinions do is cause trouble on this news group, and I have NEVER seen you provide ONE bit of technical advice to anybody yet. It would be fair to say you're nothing but a hired Troll here, and not a very good one at that.

There is also the claim YOU MADE about you having Doug's (a.k.a. N8) "jock strap" mounted on your wall. You never answer that question either.

So, are you saying that one should receive a $10,000 fine for doing 66 in a 65?

Wouldn't it be a bit excessive to get a $10,000 fine for doing 5 watts instead of 4?
